

MOSES & SONS
7 Street, Corner Eleventh. Storage Warehouse, 231 near N.

Tabourette, $1.45.

In quartered oak and mahogany finish, highly polished, neat, substantial, well proportioned. Price ought to be $3, instead of what we ask—$1.45. Every piece of furniture in our establishment has had its price cut down to its lowest notch during our OVERSTOCKED SALE. Ends Saturday night.

Now we're quite ready

Quite ready to do an enormous trade from now until Christmas. The stock—some of the best and best selected ever shown in this city—is complete in every respect—gilt.

Be it gold and silver articles in Jewelry and Gems of every description there is nothing lacking. Every diamond that can be used by you has been provided for in advance.

And then, as in previous years, find, if you have not discovered already, that I am building up my business by selling just a little cheaper than any other house in town.

From now until Christmas this store will be open every night until 9 o'clock to accommodate those who find it inconvenient to come during the day.

Just a little to you—come while the store is fresh—pick out something that will give you a little extra and the goods will be sent aside for you.

C. H. Davison, Jeweler,
1105 F Street N. W.

ESTABLISHED JULY, 1879.

Some people don't wear any shirts.

But that's the reason you should not have your property laundered. A good steam laundry will do it for you.

TOLMAN STEAM LAUNDRY,
Sixth and C Sts. N. W.

Our October sales were larger than those in any month for the past two years.

We have a few second-hand pianos that we are almost willing to give away.

because we must have room for our fine stock of new instruments coming in.

WE KEEP EVERYTHING IN THE MUSICAL LINE. Open from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m.

SANDERS & STAYMAN,
1254 F St. N. W.
PERCY S. FOSTER, Manager.
Baltimore Store, 13 N. Charles Street.

Curtains or Linen.

We don't care what it is you need to us, we will launder it well. We have the newest and the most machinery possible, and exercise the greatest care.

Capital Steam Laundry,
1st 1618 512 8th St. N. W.

Do you know that electricity is a cheaper, better, safer, and more reliable power than steam? It makes a better light, too—better for stores, better for offices.

It is as far ahead of gas as the modern electric locomotive is ahead of the old stage coach. We furnish power only. Telephone us to turn it on.

U. S. Electric Lighting Co.,
213 14th Street, Phone 77.

AUTH'S SAUSAGE

is altogether different from the ordinary sausage, which gives one indigestion. Auth's sausage is wholesome as well as delicious—made from freshest and choicest meats, seasoned just right. It is clean.

As to the mineral lands in Idaho and Montana which the present reformers say that it is to be presumed that Congress had thought it necessary to have the same precautions taken in California, that State would have been included in the law providing for mineral commissioners.

He says that possibly in patenting lands to the Southern Pacific some tracts may be included which are mineral, but they will be so rare as to be of little importance.

N. AUTH.
Factory, 621-623 Va. Ave. SE.
Wholesale House, 623-629 D St. SE.
Store, 37, 39, 41 Center Market (Seventh St. SW).
31-33 Northern Liberty Market (11th St. NE).

WOMEN AND CHILDREN NARROWLY SAVED IN NEW YORK CITY.

HALF A BLOCK IN RUINS

Stairway Fell in While the Firemen Were at Work on the Sixth Story. All Escaped With Their Lives, But Some Severely Hurt—Loss Three Million Dollars.

New York, Nov. 5.—The most serious fire which has hit the fire department of this city has had to cope for several years, was discovered in the building at the corner of Bleecker street and Broadway shortly after 9 o'clock this evening.

Within fifteen minutes one-half the block between Broadway and Crosby street was a ruin, and a second, third, fourth, and fifth alarm were sounded. Most of the buildings which served to back the flames were on, and the fire took to the street, and after the other, the conflagration seemed to get beyond the control of the firemen.

At 10:45 the roof of the main wall fell in with a crash. In a few minutes the flames leaped across the street to the Manhattan Bank building. In ten minutes that building was a mass of flames from cellar to roof, as was also the building on the corner of Crosby, opposite the building which first caught fire. This place is occupied by White's Express.

When the rear wall of the building fell there were four firemen in the building next to it. The six-story building towers above this and when the wall fell they started to run, but they were too late and were probably caught.

By 10 o'clock three-fourths of the entire fire department of the city was on the scene.

No. 640 Broadway was totally wrecked. Nos. 636 and 638 were badly burned but not destroyed. These stories are owned by A. L. Simon & Co., Adler, the grocer, and Goodrich, carriage builder.

A policeman was told of the fire by a citizen who immediately sent an alarm. Fifteen minutes later a woman ran screaming out of the back building at No. 64 Bleecker street. The flames were so hot she could not stay in the house.

There were a number of others in the place who were apparently afraid to come out, and when the wall fell they were men ran to and brought out eight men and women. Two of the women had to be forced to go.

Firemen learned that two children were asleep on an upper floor. A policeman and a citizen ran in immediately and found Ida and Sadie Wolf on the upper floor. They were taken out and the flames were so fiercely hot that the firemen could not get within fifty feet of the Empire building. The whole building was a seething mass of flames.

The eight floors of the Manhattan Bank Building, on the north side of Bleecker street, were ablaze. Nothing could save the building, so the firemen stopped playing on it.

Shortly after 9 o'clock there was an explosion in Adler's glove store, at 638 Broadway, which damaged the corner building. Hot air blew out the front window and carried it and the framework clear across Broadway. When the explosion broke up the rear of the building, and it then looked as if the structure would also be destroyed. The flames were now leaping skyward from the tall building on the north side of Broadway and Bleecker street, where the Manhattan Bank is located.

Fight as they could, it looked as if the firemen would fail to save the structure. So far as is known, no one was in the building. Every person in all the houses within a dozen doors of the Empire Bank Building was ordered out of their rooms.

The surrounding streets were entirely occupied with engines, horses, and people. There was a solid mass of flames. The crowd in order.

At 9:30 o'clock the entire structure extending from Broadway to Crosby street on Bleecker was a solid mass of flames. The corner wall at Crosby and Bleecker streets groined as the flames leaped through. There was a dull, snapping noise, then a clap like thunder, and the whole interior of the building crumbled in.

A cry rent the air as the sound echoed through the streets, crowds watching the base from a distance of two blocks. The cries were repeated as the corner wall crumbled slowly over.

Firemen cutting columns stood the crews of Hook and Ladder No. 18, with Foreman Ahearn, and Engine Company No. 11. They had streams of water playing on the building, but it did not desert their posts until a final warning crackle told them they would be footed to remain an instant longer.

Firemen now attacked the raked doors of the old bank building. After twenty minutes hard work the doors were battered down and the firemen flooded the interior with water. When the walls of the Keep-building fell in, the firemen turned streams on the other building opposite, at the northeast corner of Broadway.

Deputy Chief Reilly and Battalion Chief Lally led the crews of several engine companies into the building and up to the sixth floor. As the building was deemed too hot for the firemen, they resorted to climbing up to reach the flames, which had seized the entire upper portion of the building.

While on the sixth floor the stairway below them caught fire, and five minutes later the stairway leading to the seventh floor gave way and fell upon them. Some of the firemen were able to climb to the seventh floor out of danger. Chief Lally was with them. Deputy Chief Reilly and the firemen were soon climbing down to safety. Deputy Chief Reilly was injured about the head and shoulders. Firemen Lawler and Coleman also sustained severe bruises and contusions. Coleman was able to continue at work, however. Deputy Chief Reilly was so disabled that he had to be taken to St. Vincent's Hospital. Lawler was also taken there.

No fire in this city for years caused so much excitement.

At this hour, 3 a. m., the fire is under control.

The damage caused by the fire is estimated to be $3,000,000. Both the Manhattan Savings Bank and the Empire State Building are in ruins.

CHILDHOOD'S OWN POET

Elegant Tribute Paid Late Eugene Field by Chicago's People.

Representatives of All Classes Joined in Paying Homage to His Gentle Nature and Pre-eminent Gifts.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Novel writers and poets, ministers of the gospel and men of business, editors and reporters of Chicago's dailies and other journals and public officials mingled in the parlors of the Press Club at Chicago, last night, to pay a representative and fitting tribute to the memory of the late poet and journalist, Eugene Field.

They came there with an impulse to give voice to gentle words of praise for the man whose gentle presence that they were in his heart. With the sentiments expressed in the following tribute, adopted by a special voting vote.

"The Press Club of Chicago desires to express its sorrow over the death of Eugene Field. His was a nature rich in all those attributes which make a man of mark, successful, unswerving love, respect and admiration.

"In the death of Eugene Field the literary world has lost a man who, in national and international estimation, had attained the highest mental gifts. He was in his personal character the epitome of man. His perceptions were quick to distinguish between right and wrong in individuals and movements. He was loyal to his friends and gentle to his critics. He was a clear, successful, brilliant humorist, a true and a father. He was an ideal newspaper man.

"His death is not the loss of his personal friends alone, but of Chicago and the world. He taught the good and taught it fascinatingly. He was as brave as the bravest in his opinions and as gentle as a woman in his kindness toward those with whom he differed.

"Eugene Field's name will live in the degree of his people's love for him. His love was that which never failed, reciprocity. His heart went out to each of the posters whose 114 schools are captured to representation in next week's meeting of the United States and Canada, for the purpose of inspecting the fire departments in the larger cities. Chief Varquaint was seen last evening by the press reporter at the St. James Hotel, where the party is stopping. He said:

"We have visited New York, Boston, Montreal, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and Washington. We have been received everywhere with the greatest kindness, and our trip has been a complete success. In every city that we visited a fire alarm was sent in and a portion of the department turned out and showed us their methods of work, and the high buildings."

"The New York department is far ahead of any other that we have seen in this country, both in equipment and discipline. Next I should name Boston, although Boston is not far behind. Chicago and San Francisco are also good, but I do not see how the Chicago department could fight fires in one of her high buildings."

"How does New York compare with Paris in its fire department?" asked the reporter.

"It is difficult to answer," replied Mr. Varquaint. "Our buildings are not so high, and the city is, as a whole, more fireproof."

"The Chicago department is full of firemen, and I have under me 51 officers and 1,700 firemen. There are twenty-four engine houses in Paris. I think that the water tower is the most effective means of fighting a fire in high buildings. That is what we have in Chicago. It is not far behind. Chicago and San Francisco are also good, but I do not see how the Chicago department could fight fires in one of her high buildings."

"How does New York compare with Paris in its fire department?" asked the reporter.

"It is difficult to answer," replied Mr. Varquaint. "Our buildings are not so high, and the city is, as a whole, more fireproof."

"The Chicago department is full of firemen, and I have under me 51 officers and 1,700 firemen. There are twenty-four engine houses in Paris. I think that the water tower is the most effective means of fighting a fire in high buildings. That is what we have in Chicago. It is not far behind. Chicago and San Francisco are also good, but I do not see how the Chicago department could fight fires in one of her high buildings."

LOVE LED HER TO DEATH

Jennie Hauck Took Poison to End Her Grief.

REFUSED ALL MEDICINES

Infatuated With Her Sister's Husband, She Had Deserted Her Own Spouse and Lived With Her Brother-in-Law as His Wife—Her Sister's Letter Drove Her to Despair.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Jennie Hauck, who had been living here with her brother-in-law, as Mrs. Edwin McLean, and who took poison when her husband was discovered by her sister, the real Mrs. John McLean, of Brooklyn, N. Y., died in the hospital today. At her bedside, when death came, were Mr. and Mrs. McLean. Just as the last sign left the body and the hospital attendant drew a covert over the dead girl's features, John McLean, addressing his wife, said: "She is dead and you killed her."

Later in an interview McLean said: "Jennie—she that is dead—was my best friend I had. That she fell in love with me was no fault of mine. I told her it was wrong, she could not love me, and it is true that I loved her better than my wife."

FOLLOWED HIM TO BOSTON.

"She followed me to Boston when I came here to work two weeks ago, although when I left her in Brooklyn she promised me she would stay in New York. She could not live without me and it was then I decided to care for her as long as she lived.

"She took the poison to end her life, and to her grave side will carry it. I did not desert her; I did not kill her. A letter which my wife wrote killed her. In this letter she told me she had been told the cause of the death of our child. When Jennie got this letter it broke her heart. I told her that my wife knew of our love affair, but she had committed no sin in the eyes of our God."

The young woman tossed and talked in delirium incessantly during the twenty-four hours previous to her death. She refused all the medicines and food which the attendants offered her and prevented them from being administered to her.

WE'RE SURE

you men won't object to saving a few dollars—and we're just as sure that you can save them here.

Making our own clothing is a good thing for us all—and has lots of other advantages besides saving the middle-man's profits.

An "every way perfection" that it is impossible to get from a half dozen indiscriminate manufacturers is one of them.

When you're ready for an overcoat we've got a whole floor full that we'd like you to see. Quality and price considered—they're the handsomest garments you ever saw—and they'll fit you better than half the tailors can.

$9 to $35 here—$10 to $45 elsewhere.

Money back without a murmur.

Eiseman Bros.,
Cor. 7th and E Sts. N. W.

No Branch Store in Washington.

NEW YORK FORCE THE BEST.

Verdict of the French Firemen After a Tour of America.

New York, Nov. 5.—Chief Varquaint, Commandant Krebs, and Capt. Corner, of the Paris fire department, returned to New York yesterday after a two months' tour of the United States and Canada, for the purpose of inspecting the fire departments in the larger cities. Chief Varquaint was seen last evening by the press reporter at the St. James Hotel, where the party is stopping. He said:

"We have visited New York, Boston, Montreal, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, Cincinnati, Pittsburg, and Washington. We have been received everywhere with the greatest kindness, and our trip has been a complete success. In every city that we visited a fire alarm was sent in and a portion of the department turned out and showed us their methods of work, and the high buildings."

"The New York department is far ahead of any other that we have seen in this country, both in equipment and discipline. Next I should name Boston, although Boston is not far behind. Chicago and San Francisco are also good, but I do not see how the Chicago department could fight fires in one of her high buildings."

"How does New York compare with Paris in its fire department?" asked the reporter.

"It is difficult to answer," replied Mr. Varquaint. "Our buildings are not so high, and the city is, as a whole, more fireproof."

"The Chicago department is full of firemen, and I have under me 51 officers and 1,700 firemen. There are twenty-four engine houses in Paris. I think that the water tower is the most effective means of fighting a fire in high buildings. That is what we have in Chicago. It is not far behind. Chicago and San Francisco are also good, but I do not see how the Chicago department could fight fires in one of her high buildings."

LOVE LED HER TO DEATH

Jennie Hauck Took Poison to End Her Grief.

REFUSED ALL MEDICINES

Infatuated With Her Sister's Husband, She Had Deserted Her Own Spouse and Lived With Her Brother-in-Law as His Wife—Her Sister's Letter Drove Her to Despair.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Jennie Hauck, who had been living here with her brother-in-law, as Mrs. Edwin McLean, and who took poison when her husband was discovered by her sister, the real Mrs. John McLean, of Brooklyn, N. Y., died in the hospital today. At her bedside, when death came, were Mr. and Mrs. McLean. Just as the last sign left the body and the hospital attendant drew a covert over the dead girl's features, John McLean, addressing his wife, said: "She is dead and you killed her."

Later in an interview McLean said: "Jennie—she that is dead—was my best friend I had. That she fell in love with me was no fault of mine. I told her it was wrong, she could not love me, and it is true that I loved her better than my wife."

FOLLOWED HIM TO BOSTON.

"She followed me to Boston when I came here to work two weeks ago, although when I left her in Brooklyn she promised me she would stay in New York. She could not live without me and it was then I decided to care for her as long as she lived.

"She took the poison to end her life, and to her grave side will carry it. I did not desert her; I did not kill her. A letter which my wife wrote killed her. In this letter she told me she had been told the cause of the death of our child. When Jennie got this letter it broke her heart. I told her that my wife knew of our love affair, but she had committed no sin in the eyes of our God."

The young woman tossed and talked in delirium incessantly during the twenty-four hours previous to her death. She refused all the medicines and food which the attendants offered her and prevented them from being administered to her.

DAUGHTER RAGGED FATHER.

Testifies How He Shot Her Mother.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 5.—The Harvey murder case will be concluded to-morrow. Today the daughter testified against her father. She told how her father shot her mother down in front of the club.

The father made his statement, and upon it the defense rested its case. He accused his wife of infidelity and claimed that he was afraid she was working to have his daughter seduced. He also said that he believed that A. E. Finkle, who when he said his wife was intimate, was working toward the same end.

The names of a number of prominent citizens were mentioned in the case, and it has become highly sensational.

The case has moved with wonderful dispatch. The work for the jury was begun on Monday morning. To-day a jury was sworn and the case began. The State closed before 12:30, and the verdict will be rendered in the afternoon.

Harvey shot his wife down in the street last summer in the presence of his daughter.

WANTED MISSIONARIES TO GO.

Turkish Official Threatened to Mangle Armenians if They Remained.

London, Nov. 5.—The Chronicle will to-morrow publish a dispatch from Constantinople, saying that the American minister, after negotiating with the American minister of the Ottoman Empire, had been told that they were all living together. This is understood to mean that the wife and children of Mr. Cole, who is a missionary, had been taken to the Turkish capital to live with Mr. Knapp's house during the massacres.

The dispatch also said that the Mudir of Mosul, on Monday morning, had refused to quit his post, and that he had refused to distribute the fund for the relief of the Armenians. The Mudir promised preliminary hearing this afternoon. He declared that if he did not, he would destroy the remainder of the Armenians in Samsun.

Mr. Knapp declined to accede to the request on the ground that the missionaries were acting under their embassy's authority. Knapp's father, the grand vizier, was warned of the matter by the British consul, and Mr. Knapp was told that he would be arrested and taken to the mudir to be mangled.

THEY HAVE NO GRIEVANCE.

Great Northern Railroad Men Refuse to Strike.

Batte, Mont., Nov. 5.—Advices from Kalkpele are to the effect that the strike ordered on the Great Northern last night by Roy M. Goodwin, a U. S. R. director, is a last gasp, as the men have refused to quit their work. Goodwin and three others are under arrest on the charge of malicious destruction of property. The men had a preliminary hearing this afternoon.

The testimony was that Goodwin, with the others, came to the roundhouse at midnight. Goodwin mounted the engine of which he was in charge, and said: "There is a strike on." The engine was run into the house, and the fires of the engines were then drawn. The snow-doner was run on the cars table, through into the pit. The men are held in $500 bonds.

Conductor Hall, of the Montana Central, departed last evening for Great Falls and carried with him a communication signed by all of the employees of the road, setting forth that they have no grievance and that they had no representative at the St. Paul meeting of the committee to discuss the situation.

STOOD IN WITH THE SMUGGLERS.

One of Newfoundland's Legislators Sent to Prison and Fined.

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 5.—Judge Conroy, a city magistrate, delivered judgment today against five Newfoundlanders involved in smuggling Canadian goods into the island.

He sentenced them to varying terms of imprisonment and to pay fines of from $100 to $200 each.

Among them is Michael Tobin, senior government member of the legislative assembly for the Placentia district, and one of the governors of the savings bank.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

AS IN A LOOKING-GLASS

enabled it to disseminate in advance of others.

The crowd was one of the kind that never tires. And it was one of the best-natured that has gathered in many a long year. When it became evident that it was very serious in the game that the Republicans, in the picturesque language of Henry Watterson, had carried the election, the crowd was in the mood to "go to work" to breakfast. It didn't phase the Democrats even a little bit. They stand it out and stood the gaying of the voters. When it became evident that the Republicans had carried the election, the crowd was in the mood to "go to work" to breakfast. It didn't phase the Democrats even a little bit. They stand it out and stood the gaying of the voters. When it became evident that the Republicans had carried the election, the crowd was in the mood to "go to work" to breakfast. It didn't phase the Democrats even a little bit. They stand it out and stood the gaying of the voters.

ST. LOUIS WANTS IT.

Steps Taken to Secure the National Republican Convention.

St. Louis, Nov. 5.—The movement to secure the Republican national convention for this city took definite shape today. At a meeting of the Business Men's League a committee of twenty-five was appointed to go to Washington to urge the claim of this city before the national committee.

The committee is empowered to guarantee the payment of all expenses of the convention, including railroad and hotel bills of the delegates and incidental expenses. No fixed amount of money is placed at the committee's disposal, but during the discussion sums ranging from $75,000 to $100,000 were named as necessary and no city was expressed as raising the needed funds.

The committee includes Gov. Stone, ex-Gov. Francis, Mayor Walbridge, Hon. Nathan Frank, and other prominent citizens.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CAN'T get it of fast enough—prickly, "itchy," irritating, "cheap" wool underwear—

HENRY FRANC & SON,
Corner 7th and D.

There's another sort—the soft, silky, fleecy sort—won't itch.

ONE DOLLAR

per garment—shirts and drawers. Warranted soft, pure lamb's wool fleece.

$4.00 SKIRT $1.98.

An extremely handsome skirt, velvet bound—four godets—lined throughout. You seldom have an opportunity to get such a bargain as this.

CLARK'S,
734-736 Seventh St. N. W.

Our Superb Game Lunch Today from 12 to 2 p. m., 15c

25c BILL OF FARE 25c

THE EVANS DINING ROOM,
922 and 924 F St. N. W.

Wednesday, Nov. 6, 1895.

25c DINNER 25c

From 12 to 7 P. M.

SOUP. Vermicelli

FISH. Baked Blue Fish—Hollandaise Sauce.

MEATS. Prime Rib of English Beef, Saddle of Virginia Venison with Cranberry Sauce, Roast Wild Turkey with Cranberry Sauce, Lamb Chops, Roast Mutton with Celery Sauce, Roast Mallard Duck with Celery Sauce, Roast Mallard Duck with Celery Sauce, Roast Mallard Duck with Celery Sauce.

ENTREES. Cold Slaw, Potato Salad.

VEGETABLES. Sugar Corn, French String Beans, Sweet Potatoes.

BREADS. White Bread, Crackers, Graham Bread.

Dessert and Pastry. Apple Pie, Huckleberry Pie, Mince Pie, Pumpkin Pie, Rhubarb Pie, Strawberry Preserves, Concord Grapes, Cottage and Tapioca Pudding, Brandy Sauce, Mince, Tea, Coffee, Milk, Chocolate.

25c 25c

AS IN A LOOKING-GLASS

Continued From First Page.

One of the substantial results of the landslide was in favor of the hot pavement and chestnut men, who made the safe sides of the street picturesque with their unregarding passivists. Another substantial result will be the general demand for borrowed drops as a specific for the more less out of repair larynxes that shrouded themselves into a collapse for favorite that did or did not win in the rough-and-tumble at the polls.

After midnight the great majority of the crowd consisted of Republicans, judging from the shouts that went up as the telegrams kept on increasing the majority for the New York Republicans and giving favorable news to them from Maryland, Ohio and Kentucky. Every now and then there was a shout for the God and from it—"to breakfast." It didn't phase the Democrats even a little bit. They stand it out and stood the gaying of the voters. When it became evident that the Republicans had carried the election, the crowd was in the mood to "go to work" to breakfast. It didn't phase the Democrats even a little bit. They stand it out and stood the gaying of the voters.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.

CRUSHED ON THE CEILING.

Horrible Death of a Young Man in a Factory.

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—A young man named Joseph Bruden, who works in the bagging factory of Charleston, was caught by the pulley of the loom at which he was working at 5 o'clock this afternoon, and killed.

The belt wrapped about his legs and, carrying him up to the ceiling, crushed him to death. His body was badly mangled. Bruden was discharging orders in taking hold of the pulley with his hands. He was eighteen years of age and his home was in Philadelphia.