SOCIETY NOTES.

Among Cape May's guests are Mrs. E. D. Wilcox and her daughter, Miss Mary R. and son, Andrew B. of Washington. Wilcox has the proud distinction of being the first child born in the White House. It was during the first administration of Andrew Jackson. Mrs. Wilcox's maiden name was Mary Emily Donaldson, and her mother was a sister of Mrs. Jackson.
Justice and Mrs. Stephen H. Field, of Washington, who have been spending the summer at the Sussex and Essex, at Spring Lake, N. J., intend to remain at that quiet resort until September. Mr. and Mrs. Field are accompanied by Mrs. Field's sister, Mrs. Condit-Smith, also of Washington.
Among the diplomats who will finish the season at Bar Harbor are the Portuguese minister, Viscount Santo Thyrso, and his wife, and the Argentine minister, Mr. Meton.
Mr. Carl Mercer and family are at Edgewood, Frederick, Md.
Miss Harland, of Washington, is a guest at Mount Ida, near Elkton City, of Miss Annie Crocker.
Miss Mira Mahan is spending August with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Mahan, at Harre de Grace.
Misses Eva and Hattie Darnelle were guests at a delightful dance given last Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. G. W. C. Beall, near Rockville, Md.
The friends of Mrs. Hartsock, wife of Rev. Dr. S. M. Hartsock, of this city, will regret to learn that she is quite ill at her country home, "Harlow," near Laurel.
Mr. John Sutherland, of this city, is visiting his brother, Mr. Howard Sutherland, of Piedmont, W. Va.
Mr. Harry Park and wife, of this city, are at Laurel, the guests of Mr. J. D. B. Fetzer.
Mrs. John C. Spooner and family are at their cottage on Aurora Heights, Nantuxet.

Among the recent arrivals at the New Grand Hotel in the Catskills, near Bohart, N. Y., is Stefleson Bay, secretary of the Turkish ambassador.
Miss Catherine Starke is visiting her cousin, the Misses Dornich, of Baltimore.
Miss Etta Gudorf, of Washington, is the guest of Mrs. Sol Joseph, of Baltimore.
Miss Lunsden, of Washington, is spending a few days with Miss Marian Curtis, of Baltimore.
Misses Lizzie and Gerie Hartsock are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Loti Hartsock, of Johns ville, near Westminster, Md.
Mr. Almer McKinley, the President's brother, accompanied by his wife, his daughter, Miss Malie, and maid, and Mr. Alfred Perry Dinsler, reached Cumberland, Md., from Bedford Springs last week, where they were entertained by Gov. and Mrs. Lowmyer.
Hon. Webster Davis, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, is among the recent arrivals at Atlantic City.
Mr. Grenville de Willant, first secretary of the Russian legation at Washington, is a prominent member of the diplomatic corps staying at Congress Hall, Cape May.
Miss Teresa Snyder, of Washington, is one of a horse party at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Courtney at Oak Lane, near Philadelphia.
Mr. S. E. Dawson, private secretary to Postmaster General Gray, is spending a pleasant vacation at Atlantic City.
Mr. William H. Mickle and wife are among the guests at the cottage of Mr. C. W. Mecke and family at Ocean City.
Mr. James C. Hare has been making a brief visit to Philadelphia as the guest of E. Hayward Fairbanks.
Mr. Philip Arlick will spend his vacation in New England. He left yesterday for Boston by sea.
Dr. G. H. Kennard has returned to practice after a sojourn of three weeks at Atlantic City.
The garden party at St. Aloysius' grounds for the benefit of the summer home for St. Ann's Asylum will close on Wednesday evening next. Don't fail to attend and your wife to the organist.

DR. KENT'S WARNING NOTE
Preaches on "Signs of the Times and Duty of the Hour."
EVILS OF OUR SOCIAL SYSTEM
Iniquity of Present Conditions—The Growing Power of Land Barons and Monopolists—Grip of the Gold Trust—Advocates the Single Tax and Bimetallism.

Rev. Dr. Alexander Kent preached a sermon of absorbing interest yesterday from the platform of the People's Church. Dr. Kent chose for his theme, "Signs of the Times and Duty of the Hour." And Jesus said to the multitude, also, when ye see a cloud rising in the west, straightway ye say, There cometh a shower, and so it cometh to pass. And when ye see a south wind blowing ye say, there will be a scorching heat, and so it cometh to pass. Ye know how to interpret the face of the earth and the heaven, how is that ye know not how to interpret this time?"
Three very important truths, said Dr. Kent, are suggested by this passage. The first is that the evil is a social evil, not only in the social as in the physical realm. The future is contained in the present as the present is the outcome of the past. The possibilities of tomorrow depend largely upon the uses we make of today. The harvest will be as the seed we sow. The value and durability of the structure we are building will depend upon the material we use and the skill with which we build. There is the same constancy of relation between cause and effect in the realm of morals as in that of physics.
Hence in the second place, great changes in the social and political world are as early foreshadowed by preceding social phenomena as changes in the weather are indicated by signs in the sky. There fore we ought to be able to discern the significance of present social phenomena so as to determine to what sort of social conditions we are tending as we are discern the tokens of an approaching storm.
"What will so conspicuously true of the future classes in the time of Jesus is equally true of the same classes in our time. I do not mean that these classes are morally worse than the suffering masses. They are not. Perhaps they are better. They certainly have more of those virtues that make for respectability, and I do not believe they are any more selfish. But while the selfishness of the ruling classes—the men who have vested interests in the existing order—leads them to close their eyes to evils which bring them financial profit, the selfishness of the masses makes them ready to do these evils and to clamor for their removal.
But even the masses have no clear perception of the real character of the wrongs from which they suffer. They do not perceive the iniquity, and therefore the iniquity of the system that breeds these evils, they have no deeper trust than the simple fact that they are the sufferers. If they were at the top instead of at the bottom; if others were being exploited for their advantage, instead of they for the advantage of others, they would be as good as angels as any other class.
I speak of course not of all, but of the many. An increasing number of people are showing a real and humane interest in the common welfare. They are against present conditions not simply because those conditions bear heavily upon them, but because they are keenly sensitive and unfavorable to that moral development and growth of mankind in the people at large, which are the strength and glory of a state. Our hope is in the multiplication of this class; in the increase of men and women who have an interest in the welfare of their fellows, and in real and vital and commanding as that they have in their own.
"Let us note this morning," said Dr. Kent, "some of the things in our present social condition that are prophetic of change and indicate in the nature of things that the day is near when it will be so. Dr. Kent said that he did not essay the role of the prophet, for what the future holds for the people of this country and the world, no finite mind can predict. We can readily foresee what the country will do, if the people, and their representatives in Congress, will only do their duty to the people and to the future as they have been in the past. Society as it is, and as it is destined to be, is a resultant of conflicting forces.
"Those forces that make for the role of the rich and the wealthy, the holders of the few and to close the avenues of wealth-getting to the many. Nearly ten years ago more than one-fifth of the national wealth had passed into the hands of less than 5,000 families. It is impossible to estimate the power for evil which this concentration of wealth carries with it. Men having such power and such vast interests in common to protect will stop at nothing that is needful to the accomplishment of their ends. The economies possible to unified management make it often profitable for the monopoly to be operated for the common good instead of for the enrichment of a small part of society.
He said that the plutocracy was working toward the monopoly of land. In an important sense this monopoly already exists. The greater part of our population are alienated shut out from access to the land. Dr. Kent then took the single tax line of argument against private and exclusive enjoyment of land and urged that it be taxed to its full rental value.
Another form of monopoly that is making for plutocracy is the money monopoly. Dr. Kent then reviewed the fiscal legislation of the country since the "excise tax" was printed on the greenback in 1861. He argued for bimetallism and evidently believed in independent bimetallism.
He said: "The money monopoly is probably the most effective instrument of the plutocracy. No other form of combination is so far reaching and powerful as that which controls the money of a country. And no other danger which now threatens the life of the republic is comparable to that which lurks in the selfish purposes of this most heinous of all the combinations."
Prof. Richard Addresses the Christian Church Congregation.
The pastor of the Ninth Street Christian Church being absent from the city, Prof. J. Frazer Richard, of the Modern Normal College, yesterday addressed the congregation on the "Education for the Times." He maintained that the language of Edmund Burke, "Education is the cheap defense of nations," is strictly true, and

THE PANGS OF CONSCIENCE.
Dr. Baker Preaches at the Metropolitan M. E. Church.
Rev. Henry Baker, D. D., preached the sermon at the Metropolitan M. E. Church yesterday in the absence of the pastor, Dr. Johnston. Dr. Baker is a member of the congregation of the Metropolitan.

The text chosen by Dr. Baker was read from Proverbs, "A wounded spirit who can be healed?" The center of his thought was the possibility of the immortality of conscience, a "wounded spirit."
He spoke of the pain that comes to us from losses, from plans that go amiss, from all grievous things that come to us because of our own fault. A man will bear up bravely and go forth warlike into the world if he have not also to bear the pang of conscience.
If fortune is lost everything goes, and a man must begin again at the beginning. He does it courageously and sometimes with hardly a murmur. But if guilty indignities be the following of sin brings on his just reward; if one brings misery and suffering on one's family by one's acts, the guilt bears heavily. Repose is a terrible punishment.
Dr. Baker pictured the condition of one suffering eternally from conscience, lying on the thought of his sins and their dire consequences forever with him. He did not allude to a physical hell, but let his hearers draw the inference that the hell of a wounded spirit would be a terrible punishment.
Dr. Johnston is expected to return to the city from his trip to Europe during the first two weeks of next month.

CHRISTIAN ALLIANCE CAMP
First Summer Convention in Session at Washington Grove.

Three Meetings Yesterday Attended by Many Visitors From Washington.
The first summer convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance of the District of Columbia convened yesterday at Washington Grove. There were three meetings held during the day, each of which was well attended, both by visitors from the immediate neighborhood and Washington.
The purpose of the alliance is the evangelization of the world, and this, it is believed, can be best accomplished by preaching the fourfold gospel of the fullness of Christ. The basic principles of articles of faith upon which the alliance is founded are, first, Christ, our savior from sin; second, Christ, our sanctifier or power over sin; third, Christ, our healer, physical as well as spiritual; and fourth, Christ, our coming king.
The alliance was founded about fifteen years ago by the Rev. A. H. Simpson, of New York city, and for many years accomplished much. It was found, however, that it could not be a complete success without doing missionary work, and this branch was added to the organization last year. Since then the organization has made rapid progress in every way and now has a membership of between 200,000 and 400,000.
The alliance has also established a missionary training school near New York, and has over 200 active field workers.
The convention was opened at 11 a. m. by the Rev. A. E. Fink, the superintendent of the mission school, who spoke of "The Coming Christ." His text was from Luke II, 4: "Glorify to God in the highest, peace on earth, good will toward men."
From 2 to 3 p. m. there was a children's meeting, at which Mr. A. Forster, who was for six years a missionary in Arabia, entertained the little ones with many incidents of his experiences among the Arabs.
Mr. Forster will speak on the same subject, again tonight, and on Wednesday evening will deliver an illustrated lecture on "Life in Arabia," at the People's Tabernacle, in this city.
The largest attendance of the day was at the 7:30 p. m. service, when Rev. Dean A. C. Peck, founder of the Haymarket Mission, Denver, Col., and field organizer of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, conducted the meeting. Dr. Peck spoke of Christian life and service, the return of the Lord and the speedy evangelization of the world.
The convention will continue until Wednesday, and three meetings will be held each day.
Others besides those already mentioned who will take an active part in the proceedings of the convention are Rev. C. C. Cook, superintendent of the Christian and Missionary Alliance for the District of Columbia and Maryland, and pastor of the People's Tabernacle, this city; Rev. W. L. Bruen, District of Columbia; Miss Phoebe Hall, District of Columbia; Rev. P. R. Nugent, of Richmond, Va.; and Mr. J. H. Smith, formerly a missionary to the Sudan, Africa.

that the true standing of a nation is its faithful and concentrated teachers.
The speaker maintained that the best fortune which parents can bequeath to their children is a thoroughly practical education that fully equips them for the actual work of life. In defining this education he presented these characteristics:
It must be thorough, not in the meaningless repetition of pages, but in the complete mastery of subjects.
It must be progressive. The myths and rubbish of the dark ages must not be perpetuated by the drift and scientific light of the present age.
It must be practical. Fine-spun theories may be profitable as a species of mental gymnastics, but in these days of progress, students in school must not imitate the numbers of the aged in the study of Latin, as described by Dean Swift, who spent their time trying to thread invisible needles with invisible thread.
It must be patriotic. Love of country and its institutions, respect for lawful authority, the duties of citizenship, the rights of industry and commerce—these must be taught.
It must be Christian in the broad and liberal sense of the term. In the ancient world, the four cardinal elements were purely material, viz: Earth, air, fire and water. The four elements of the modern world are mental and spiritual, viz: the family, the school, the church, and the state. The life blood of these is the periodical press with its leading productions.
The lecture was well received.

PRELATES FOR HIS GUESTS
Col. Kerens to Entertain Visiting Catholic Dignitaries.
Archbishop Ireland Will Go to Buffalo Tonight to Address the Grand Army Veterans.
It is expected that Archbishop Keane will leave the city today for tomorrow for a visit to the mountains of West Virginia. He has been invited by Col. R. C. Kerens to spend a part of the vacation at the summer home of the latter in West Virginia.
It is also understood that Cardinal Gibbons will spend a short time with Col. Kerens and Archbishop Keane in West Virginia.
A committee of Carroll Institute called yesterday on Archbishop Keane to pay their respects. It is not stated what other business the committee had in view, but it is understood that the institute is desirous of a reception which has been talked about for some time. The new arrangements of Archbishop Keane will probably have the effect of postponing this courtesy until the fall.
Archbishop Ireland spent the day in the city. He will leave Washington tonight for Buffalo, where he is to deliver an address at the G. A. R. encampment.
The archbishop was in a very affable mood last night at the Ebbitt House, where he has been since arriving in Washington. He was here, he said, simply on vacation, and did not care to comment on anything said about him. He had no criticism to make of the statements credited to him by the New York press. He proposes to go home to St. Paul after his engagement at Buffalo, and he will be the guest of the party of Col. Kerens in West Virginia.
Archbishop Keane spent a part of Saturday and the greater part of yesterday out of the city.

CHARACTER OF STEPHEN.
Rev. Dr. Lemmon Extols the Virtues of the Saint.
Rev. Dr. Lemmon, the former pastor of Gorskam M. E. Church, occupied the pulpit at Foundry Church last night. He selected his text from the sixth chapter of Acts, the fifty-fifth verse: "And he was full of the faith of the Holy Ghost."
Dr. Lemmon in his remarks by a reference to the beautiful, symmetrical character of Stephen, and pointed out that there were two essential elements necessary for this character—faith and the courage of conviction. "Stephen's brilliancy in utterance and character of manner," he said, "the preacher said, 'is a great degree of these two distinctive features.'" Human nature is a wonderful study. Men love sin, but it is so because we are born in sin. But the infidelity which once had a foothold no longer exists. Truth has swept it out, for truth has, shall and always will triumph.
"Truth crushed to earth shall rise again." Our faith must be clear and strong and pure as the sunlight, and must be replete with power, and power. We must live under the shadow of the cross, and our basis of faith must be ever expanding. Oh, the transforming power of the Son of God. How He changes us from the vilest sinners to upright, honest men and women. Faith is power, full of the Holy Ghost, and must permeate our lives as well as our words.
"Let us emulate the beautiful character of Stephen, with its magnificent combination of meekness, temperance, gentleness, piety, love and reverence. Faith is just as powerful as it was then, and Christ is just as willing to receive and bless us."

FUNERAL OF MRS. CHESTER.
Simple Services Over the Remains Conducted by Rev. Dr. Warren.
The funeral of the late Mrs. Rachel Anna Alward Chester, wife of Dr. Chester, the former pastor of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church, was held from the residence, No. 1226 Fifteenth street, yesterday morning at 9 o'clock. Going to the fact that the interment was at Harrisburg, the service was very simple.
Rev. Dr. Warren read the burial service and made a few brief remarks on the simple but beautiful life of the dead woman. "The modest virtues of this beloved lady, who has been more than a mother to me, were not paraded before the public. She was more than content that her Lord alone should know what she did. Her noble qualities and beautiful character had won her hosts of friends, all of whom sincerely mourn her loss today. As a princely royal she has passed through the petty gates and trends today the paths of gold."
Mr. Warren spoke of the old mother ninety years old, who had outlived the daughter, and of the "venerable lady and her ever present Christ, that was helping her to bear the affliction."
Dr. Chester was confined to his bed by sickness and was unable to accompany the remains to their last resting place.
Mrs. Chester was seventy years old and had been a constant companion and helper to her husband during his twenty years' pastorate.
