WOUNDED MEN POLI GUESTS

Soldiers at the Walter Reed Hospital Are Given a Treat.

In its season run on Broadway the "Business Before Pleasure" Company may have played to distinguished individuals and before notable audiences, but the special matinee performance given at Poli's Theater yesterday afternoon for the amusement of nearly 500 wounded doughboys from Walter Reed Hospital will live long in the memory of the talented cast of performers.

The actors are mentioned particularly because, from Barney Bernard and Alexander Carr, co-stars, down to the property boy, those behind the footlights found an audience that was not only appreciative and demonstrative, but one before which they were proud to appear, which meant a finished performance where the continuous laughter overshadowed any grim thoughts that the sight of the wounded heroes might arouse.

To the War Camp Community Service goes the credit for an afternoon of real enjoyment. The matinee was transported from the hospital to the theater in a fleet of automobiles provided by Mrs. Charles J. Bell, and the officials of this welfare organization served as ushers and distributed smokes and programs to the guests. Smoking in Poli's is an innovation, but anything that would add to the comfort and amusement of the soldiers is permitted, and King Nicotine ruled for this special performance.

There was a distinct military appearance to the audience and the gold service stripes that told of active service overseas—many of them worn upon an empty sleeve—while scores hobbled about on crutches brought home the stern realization of war better than the most graphic word picture.

War injuries did not prevent these lads from enjoying thoroughly every minute of the sparkling comedy. The soldiers followed the fortunes of Abe Potash and Maxorus Perimeter through the ups and downs of their moving picture industry and punctuated every bright sally with thunderous applause.

At the conclusion of the second act when the entire audience sat for a flashlight, Barney Bernard was sighted behind the scenes and the din would not be quieted until Barney had been dragged out for a curtain speech. In it he voiced the appreciation of his company for the privilege of entertaining the soldiers and expressed the wish that they have a speedy recovery and a return to their homes and well-earned honors. Three cheers that indicated the Hun gas had not injured any of their lungs greeted his effort.

They had a late supper at Walter Reed Hospital last night, but the cooks had kept the victuals warm, and when the automobiles drew up to the institution it was to unload several hundred soldiers who voted "Business Before Pleasure" a swell show.

The theater was tastefully decorated with the national colors, and credit for the smooth-running performance must also be given to the stage hands, orchestra and other theater attaches who volunteered their services to make the afternoon one of real fun for an audience of real American heroes.

Mail Arrangements Made For Vladivostok Troops

Arrangements for the prompt exchange of mail between residents of the United States and members of American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia have been completed.

Postmaster General Burleson has ordered the establishment of a new mail agency at Vladivostok, and letters and other mailable matter may now be sent at the same rates as are applicable to domestic matter. It is added that the address on mail intended for members of the expeditionary forces should include, in connection with the address of name and designation of the unit or organization to which he belongs, the words: "American Expeditionary Forces in Siberia."

WASHINGTON YOUTH ON WOUNDED LIST

Benjamin Oliver Receives Severe Wounds Fighting Boches.

Private Benjamin F. Oliver, 19-year-old son of Mrs. Annie Mosingo, 322 Sixth street southwest, is reported severely wounded in action on the latest casualty list.

In a letter, written to his mother on August 5, Private Oliver told how he was wounded in a trench fight and his life was saved by his gas mask. He said:

"I got in a little scrap with a Boche, and he just stuck me in the leg. The bayonet went in about an inch deep, but I walk around just the same and it is healing fast."

"Just tell Wallie," said the young soldier, speaking of an old schoolmate in the Washington public schools, "that I saw the Liberty Loan button on the lapel of his coat in the picture we had taken in the back yard."

"My gas mask saved my life by stopping two German machine gun bullets. I have lost one bullet but I have the other one with me, and intend to hold on to it for good luck."

Private Oliver, in a letter dated August 20, wrote:

"We were sent over the top in the middle of a very heavy machine gun and artillery barrage. One shell threw me twenty feet, and I was at least fifteen feet from where it exploded."

Oliver enlisted in the District National Guards at the age of 17.

LARGER PRODUCTION OF KEROSENE ASKED

Oil refineries throughout the country have been requested by the Fuel Administration, in a letter issued yesterday, to take immediate steps to increase the production of kerosene.

Mark L. Regus, director of the Oil Division, informed the refiners that the oil situation is far more unsatisfactory than the gasoline situation and that unless production is measurably increased there will be an oil shortage. With the season of maximum consumption approaching and the export movement increasing, the necessity of greater production has become acute, the letter states.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

District of Columbia and Maryland: Fair, warmer Saturday; Sunday probably fair; moderate west winds.

Virginia: Fair, warmer Saturday; Sunday fair north and east, probably rain southwest portion; gentle to moderate shifting winds.

GENERAL FORECAST:
A disturbance of marked character is moving rapidly across the extreme North with its center tonight apparently near the east of James Bay and is without precipitation south of Ontario. There is also a general disturbance over the East Gulf of Mexico, partly of tropical origin, and some continued in the Gulf States and Tennessee and extended into Western Georgia. Cautionary advice regarding this storm have been issued.

It will be warmer Thursday night in New England, the Middle Atlantic States and the Eastern Lower Lake Region; elsewhere fair weather prevails.

It will be warmer Saturday from the Ohio Valley eastward and northward.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Lower Lakes from Buffalo to Oswego.

ISLAND NAMED FOR LAYAYETTE

New National Park on the Eastern Coast Created.

Mount Desert Island, upon the east coast of the United States, is henceforth to be known as Lafayette National Park. Announcement to that effect was made yesterday by Secretary Lane of the Department of the Interior.

The new national park is to embrace lands once owned by France, and the name conferred upon it is meant to express America's deep present sympathy with France as well as a grateful appreciation of aid afforded to us by that nation in the past.

Two years ago the lands now designated as comprising the Lafayette National Park were proclaimed by the President as the Mount Desert Island National Monument. They constitute the dominant and chief landscape part of Mount Desert island. The island itself was discovered by Champlain and for more than a century was a part of French Acadia, established by De Monts in 1604 under a commission given to him by Henry of Navarre.

History of Island.
Mount Desert Island was the site in 1613 of the first French missionary settlement in America, and later passed by a royal grant to Antoine de la Mothe Cadillac, the founder of Detroit and the governor of Louisiana. Passing afterward into the hands first of the Province and then of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that State decided its eastern half, wherein lie Bar Harbor and the higher mountains, to the granddaughter of Cadillac and her husband, French refugees. This gift was moved by gratitude for the assistance rendered by France to this nation in the war for independence, and from this grant proceeded the title to the lands which the President two years ago proclaimed as a national monument.

In its memorandum accompanying the announcement of the naming of the new national park the Interior Department says:

"With these associations and its own magnificent frontage on the great ocean highway which our troops are traversing to France's aid, and for whose freedom we are now contending, no more striking expression of national regard and amity could be conceived than the creation under a name which has become a symbol of international friendship between America and France of our first eastern national park. It will stand as a sign, set up forever and visible to all the navies of the world, of that league of nations for which the President is wisely striving and from which alone true peace can come."

STOP AUTO RACES TO CONSERVE GASOLINE

Fuel Administration Requests Cancellation of Scheduled Contests.

Automobile races have come under the ban of the Fuel Administration because of the gasoline shortage. Races which were to have been held during the coming two months in a number of cities are to be called off in compliance with a request issued yesterday by Fuel Administrator Garfield for the suspension of all automobile, motorcycle and motorboat racing during the period of the war.

The cities for which sanctions for races had been given are: Trenton, N. J.; Danbury, Conn.; Tucson and Phoenix, Ariz.; and Los Angeles, Cal. Chairman Richard Kennerdell, of the American Automobile Association contest board, has notified the Fuel Administration that no more permits for races will be given and that the

The Supreme Tire

THERE is no secret in an ideal tire. All formulas, all methods are well known. A perfect tire is simply a question of care and skill and cost. In every tire factory the great question is, "How much can we give for the money?"

BRUNSWICK TIRES

The Brunswick idea is to give all that is possible—all that anyone gives—all that any cost can buy. We know of no better tire to offer you. And we know them all.

The Brunswick has met with a great welcome among our customers. Every user is enthusiastic. One Brunswick will show you its merits.

"Boy, Howdy"

We are pleased to announce that we have secured the services of
MR. JOHN K. HAYES
—who spent 25 years of his life in constant work and diligent study of the clothing business at the Parker-Bridget store.

Beginning with today, Mr. Hayes assumes his duties as manager of our store and will be pleased to render the same prompt and efficient service to his friends and customers that has for years characterized his work as "EXCEPTIONALLY EXCELLENT."

It will be remembered that Mr. Hayes spent ten years as manager of the clothing department of Parker-Bridget's and has made this business his life's work.

Come in and look "Jack" over—he's the same as ever.

W. D. Tennille

P. S.—There are a number of suits and overcoats on sale today that I bought last October. They cost me just $7.50 less than they are quoted wholesale today. I'll save you that seven-fifty if you get in early this morning. They're all good models and the fabrics are splendid.

Priced $22.50 to $45.00.
And these are last year's prices, too.
