

"September Morn in Rock Creek Park."
Photo by J. M. McLeod.

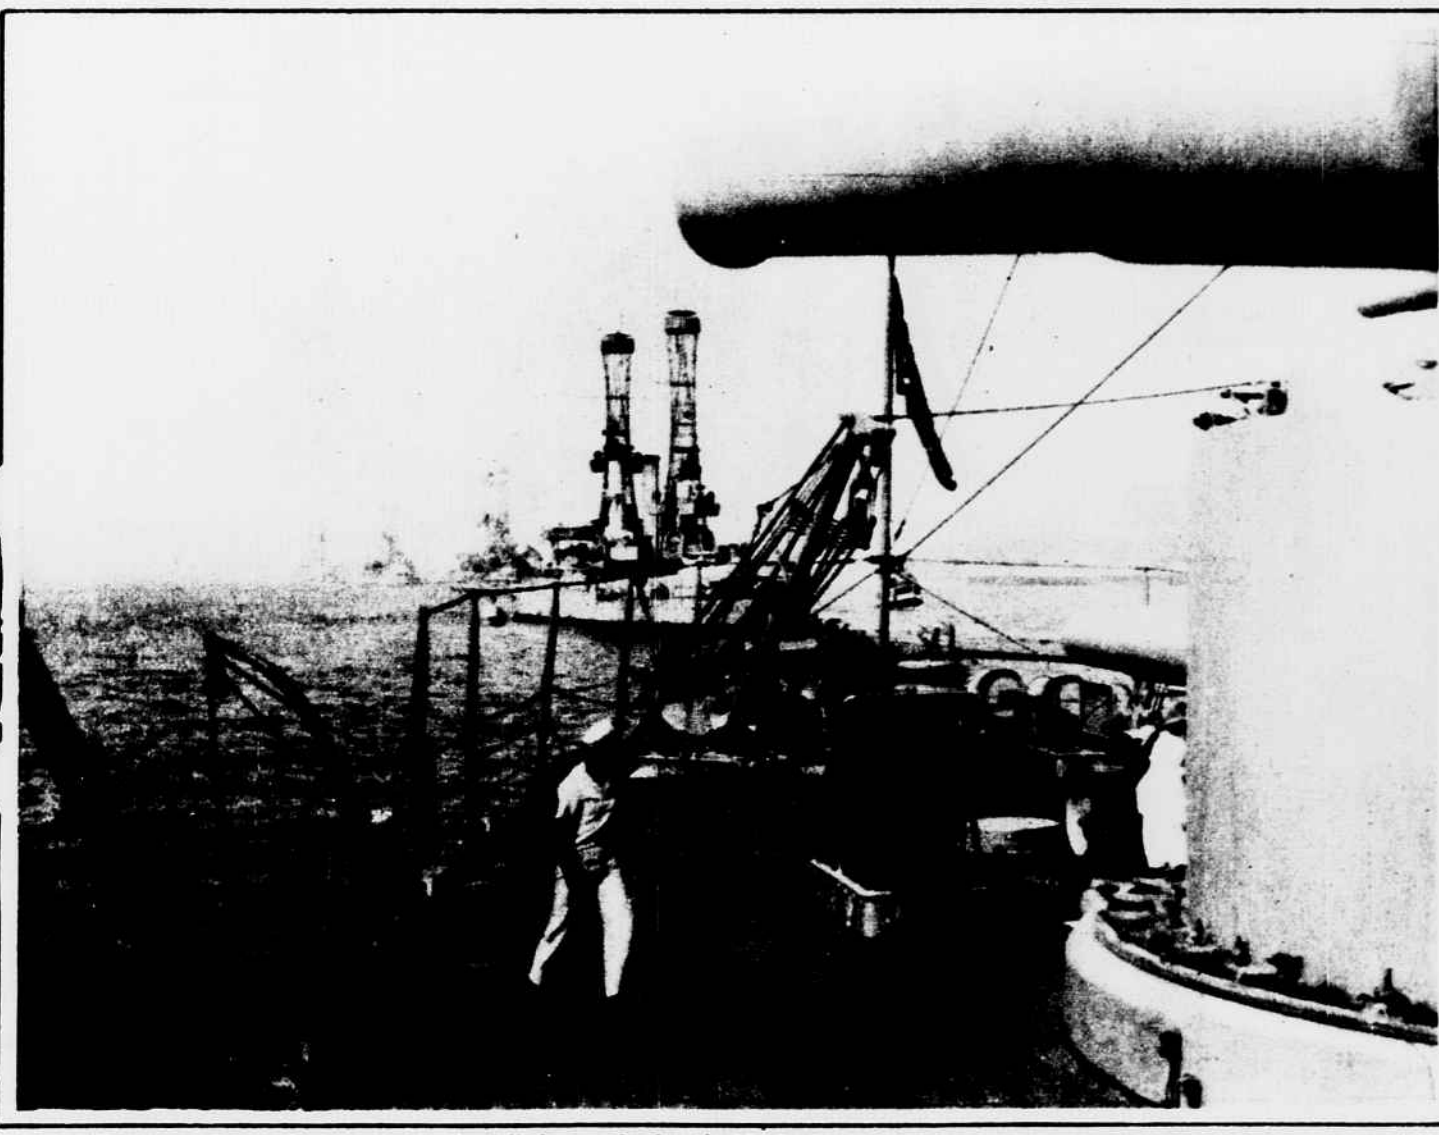

A new photograph of Viscount Grey, who will soon be stationed at Washington as British ambassador.

By Press Illustrating Service.

Fighting men from Australia arrive in this country to study agriculture. Ninety-seven officers and men formed the party, which will study at various American colleges. Thirty of the men are wearers of war decorations.

By International Film Service.

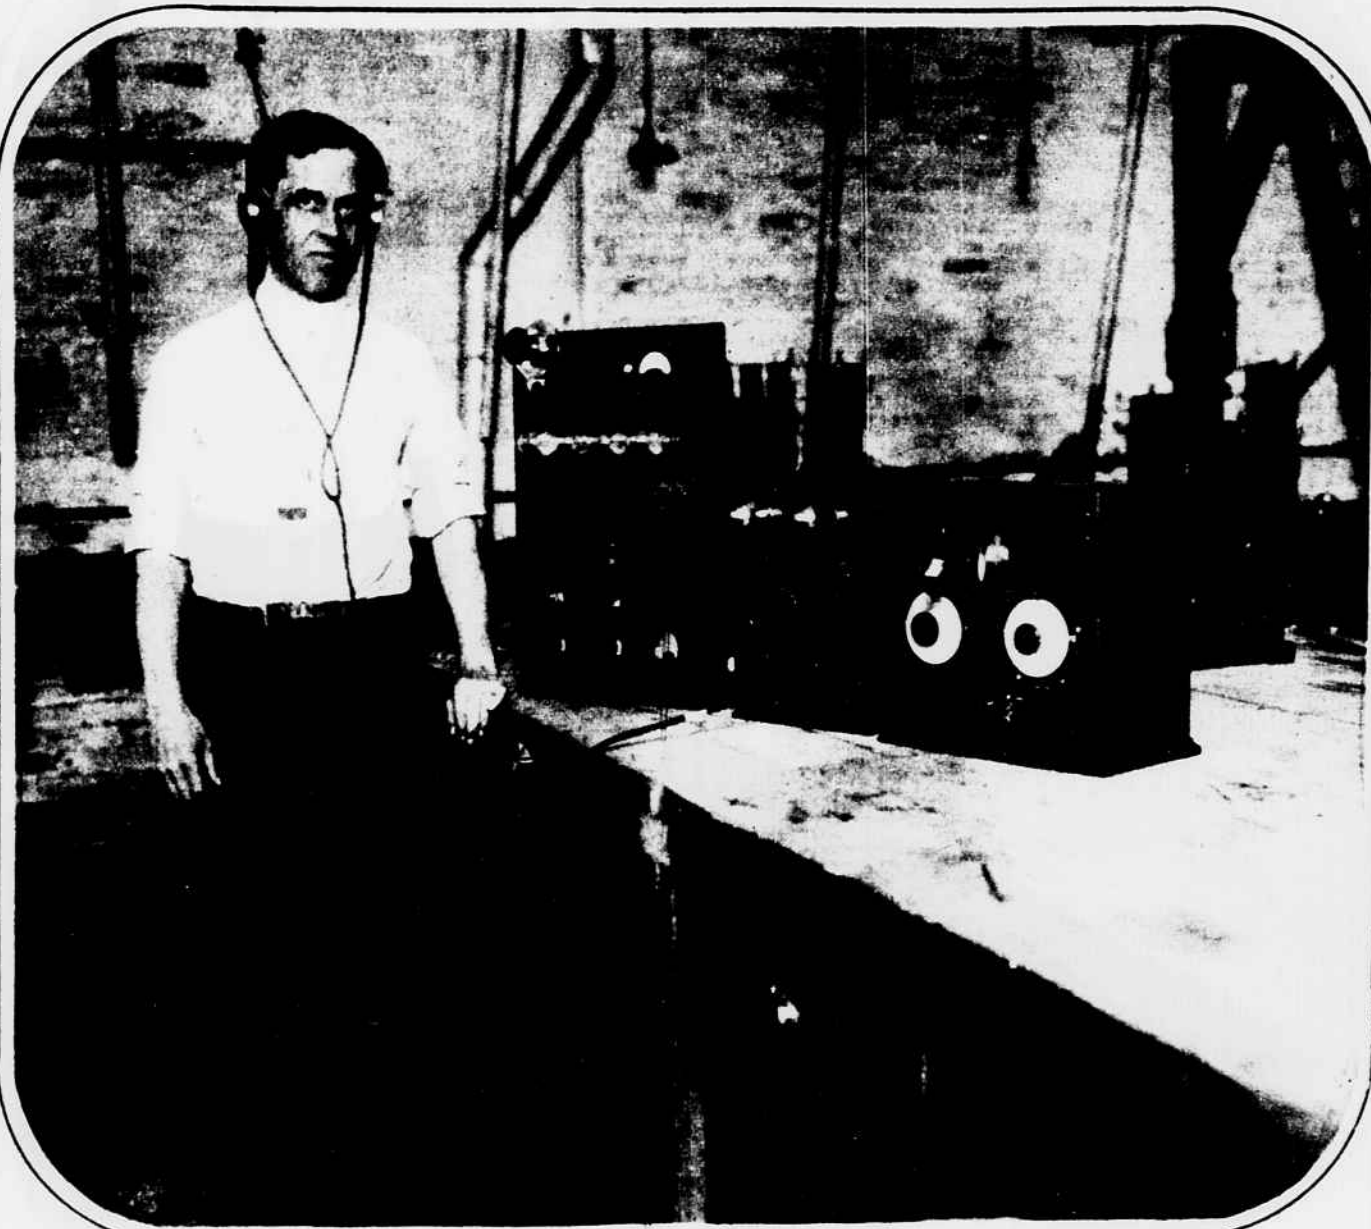

Last review of the "crab fleet," from deck of U. S. S. Kentucky. The Alabama, Kenshaw and Illinois in the background. The sailors named the fleet after the crab. It is made up of fighting ships that were the pride of the Navy during the Spanish-American war. The vessels are to be given a military funeral—dismantled and used as targets.

© Press Illustrating Service.

A wild chipmunk trained to eat from his hand by Dr. Gotfried of New Zealand, now in Washington. The tiny rodent, which claims a home in the Soldiers' Home grounds, is resting on Dr. Gotfried's left hand while he photographs it with the right.

© Dr. Gotfried.

This telephone with no "central" is a new invention. It is a wireless affair which can be used for a distance of twenty miles. The entire outfit is mounted on a small baseboard. Dr. Lee de Forrest is the inventor.

© Press Illustrating Service.

Famous Norwegian tennis star marries. The photograph, snapped during the tennis matches at Forest Hills, L. I., shows Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Mr. Mallory.

© Underwood & Underwood.