The American public seems to overlook a very important fact: that the European governments toward the United States are in the process of changing. The character of the old countries has been transformed completely, and there is a new force behind them, a natural and direct development of this country. These men are human, and they are not likely to do anything of the sort we have been accustomed to. They will be more likely to go for the man-power rather than for the money.

Man-power has been the leading matter of discussion in this country, and it is time that the people of the United States realized that our government is more likely to do something for the man-power than for the money.

It has been made clear by the recent developments that the American people are more interested in the money than in the man-power. The American people are more likely to do something for the money than for the man-power. The American people are more likely to do something for the money than for the man-power. The American people are more likely to do something for the money than for the man-power. The American people are more likely to do something for the money than for the man-power. The American people are more likely to do something for the money than for the man-power.
