$420 Million U. S. Buildings Plan Okayed

NCPC Envisions 10-Year Program Dooming Tempors

By ROBERT J. LEWIS
Star Staff Writer

A huge new Federal office building construction plan for Washington will cost $420 million in the next 10 years.

This was disclosed for the first time today at a meeting of the National Capital Planning Commission.

The program will require appropriations by Congress of $60 million a year in each of the next seven years, Karl E. Wallace, director of the Public Buildings Service, said.

Completion of 12 newly announced buildings, plus 10 under way or authorized, will provide 13,574,000 square feet of office space and allow demolishing of 11 million square feet of obsolete and temporary buildings.

The plan also will enable the Government to release almost a million square feet of space now leased in privately owned buildings.

Other Action

Mr. Wallace said the construction will permit consolidation of now-scattered agencies and the addition of approximately 2,000 new Federal employees per year in each of the 10 years through 1972.

Quickly approving the program, the planning commission said the new buildings will permit the elimination of all temporary and obsolete Government buildings now in the city.

The Commission said it will also "make it possible to restore and develop the National Capital to its proper place as the most beautiful capital in the world—a visual representation of the social and cultural ideas of the United States."

In another action, the commission deferred approval of an interchange to link the proposed Three Sisters Island Bridge to the Potomac River Freeway. After becoming entangled in a complicated parliamentary situation, the Commission adopted a report of its transportation committee that the entire matter be tabled.

A subsequent motion by District Engineer Commissioner Frederick J. Clarke to approve the design of the interchange was voted down 4 to 3.

Dispute Over Bridge

In what appeared to be a revival of the transit versus expressway battles that have stirred the commission in the last year or more, members traded arguments over whether or not the Three Sisters Island Bridge itself was necessary.

Walter C. Louchheim, Jr., a member who was sworn in today for a new six-year term, said there was "some question as to the desirability of the bridge." Referring to an earlier decision against use of the Glover-Archbold Park as a right-of-way for Route 240, Mr. Louchheim said "there seems to be no immediate use for the bridge, and this was behind the transportation committee's decision to table the matter."

Commissioner Clarke said the bridge was needed and could "profitably be used" by 69,000 vehicles a day.

In other action, the commission:

Approved a site on Danglefield Island for a privately owned, $1.5 million Washington Planetarium and Space Center. The planetarium, as described, would be the world's largest. Heading a nonprofit organization to build it is Dr. Edward Teller of the University of California, a well-known nuclear physicist.

Kennedy Gets Report On Industry Exposition

Business-Science-Education Group Sees President on Project for D. C.

Twenty high-ranking officials from business, industry and education met with President Kennedy today to report on plans for a permanent exposition of American science and industry in Washington.

The President's comments on the project were "very encouraging," the spokesman for the group, Byron K. Elliott, said. He is president of the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co.

In a statement issued after the meeting with the group, President Kennedy said: "It seems to me that a permanent exposition in the Nation's Capital is an appropriate means of demonstrating to the many visitors that come to this city, especially school children, the manner in which our Nation's industrial complex operates."

Cites Private Financing

The President said "one of the most appealing features of this undertaking is that it has been initiated and will be financed by private industry." "I am glad to see leaders of the city of Washington here also, since it seems clear that an undertaking of this character if located in Washington must have the support and co-operation of the local community."

The President pledged the "encouragement of this administration" to the group. Last March, the President wrote Commerce Secretary Hodges that the proposal "deserves encouragement by the Federal Government."

After today's meeting with the President, the group met at the Statler Hilton Hotel to discuss the financial and organizational aspects of the project. The members agreed to meet again, probably in September, Mr. Elliott said. In the meantime, the group will be gathering further information.

The earliest that the exposition could open would be 1966. See TRADE, Page A-5

Federal Loan Urged For New D. C. Schools

By DAVID BREASTED
Star Staff Writer

Supt. Carl F. Hansen today asked the Board of Education to seek a $120 million Treasury interest-free loan for new District schools in the next six years.

The proposed loan, he said, would be the minimum needed to cope with runaway enrollment forecasts.

The funds would be earmarked specifically for sites, construction and equipment of new classrooms, and replacement of unsatisfactory buildings now in use.

Dr. Hansen proposed an interest-free loan to be repaid over a period of years from available District revenues. Such a loan, he said, appears to be one of the few ways to meet mounting classroom shortages because District revenues are simply not enough to do the job.

The superintendent asked the school board to request the necessary legislation. He asked approval from a school board committee this afternoon. Approval would put the proposal up for full board consideration next week.

"What we are asking is a non-luxury program to meet the enrollment projections, which are perhaps conservative," Dr. Hansen said. The $120 million, he added, is only an estimate based on the forecasts which one school official termed "staggering."

The revised six-year school public works program submitted to the committee today represents a sharp increase of $37 million over the $83 million approved by the school board last year. The proposed $120 million interest-free loan is intended to keep the system within reach of figures like these: Elementary school enrollment: Previous projections for 1967-8, 96,000; revised forecasts, 102,000, the equivalent of 200 classrooms.

Junior high schools: Former projection for 1969, 35,000; revised projection, almost 38,000.

7th Nuclear Blast Set Off in Pacific

By The Associated Press

The United States has exploded the seventh nuclear burst in its current mid-Pacific test series.

A terse Government announcement described yesterday's blast, the second in two days, as in the intermediate yield range—with an explosive force equivalent to 20,000 to 1 million tons of TNT.

The device was dropped from an airplane near Christmas Island in what was reported as a research and evaluation test.

Freighter Hits Nuclear Sub Making Test Run in Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10 (AP).—A 12,000-ton freighter ran over the nine-month-old nuclear submarine USS Permit 30 miles at sea last night, but both reached port today, although damaged.

There were no injuries among the 140 men and officers aboard the Permit.

The submarine, on a test run with 25 trial board evaluation officers, was run over while submerged near the Farallon Islands.

The Matson freighter Hawaiian Citizen, which passed over the sub, reported hull damage at the No. 4 hold and docked at San Francisco early today. The freighter brought a varied cargo from Hawaii. It had a crew of 47, with William O'Brien as its captain.

A Navy spokesman said the only damage to the submarine was bending of the doors to "the sail," or conning tower. These doors do not lead to the interior of the submarine, but are part of the streamlined tower enclosure.

The crew had to force these doors open, however, after the collision before the radio antenna could be raised and the crew's condition reported to the craft standing by.

It took about 30 minutes to free the Permit's doors.

The Permit was on a preliminary acceptance test run.

It left the Mare Island shipyard in San Francisco Bay early Tuesday with Lt. Comdr. Ernest R. Barrett of Vicksburg, Miss., in charge.

This collision was the second in a month involving a United States nuclear submarine. The Navy announced on May 1 that

Neutral Prince Asks Pullback By Laos Reds

Souvanna Phouma Raps Violations Of Year-Old Truce

VIENTIANE, Laos, May 10 (AP).—Prince Souvanna Phouma has ordered pro-Communist Prince Souphanouvong to withdraw his Pathet Lao troops from Nam Tha and Muong Sing to behind the original cease-fire line, informed diplomatic sources said today.

The informants said the neutralist leader sent a cable from France to Prince Souphanouvong, his half brother and ally, denouncing the seizure of the two government outposts in Northwest Laos as a violation of the year-old cease fire.

Prince Souvanna, the Soviet and American choice to head a neutralist regime in the jungle kingdom, reportedly also cabled his acting "premier," Phagna Khamsoukeola, at rebel headquarters at Khang Kay to arrange for the withdrawal of the pro-Communist troops.

Rebels Near Houei Sai

Rebel battalions dispatched from Nam Tha, striking at remnants of the retreating garrison on their way, were reported by the Defense Ministry to have been only 20 miles from the royal government stronghold of Houei Sai, on Thailand's border.

The Defense Ministry said that, after two battles on the road, a third encounter took place yesterday between the retreating troops' rear guard and pro-Communist forces at Tha Pa, which is 20 miles north of Houei Sai. After a five-hour battle the rear guard at Tha Pa was overrun at 11 p.m., it said.

Prince Souvanna left for Paris five weeks ago to stay until June 1 for medical treatment and the wedding of a daughter. He told French newsmen last night he was prepared to return to Laos any time Prince Boun Oum's right-wing regime formally requests resumption of talks on formation of a coalition government of Communists, conservatives and neutralists.

Ready to Negotiate

Prince Souphanouvong's pro-Communist rebels also were reported ready to return to unity talks. Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, deputy premier and strongman of the royal Lao government, said despite the Pathet Lao attacks, he still was ready to negotiate. But he demanded that Prince Souvanna first return to Laos and give assurances that he is truly neutral.

Before his departure for France, Prince Souvanna publicly pledged that his neutralist and pro-Communist troops would not attack unless they were themselves attacked. He told French newsmen that he believed Nam Tha "was not attacked deliberately" but that royal government forces in the area were neutral.

Secret Army Slays 9 Moslem Women

Toll for Day In Algeria Is 27 Dead

ORAN, Algeria, May 10 (AP).—Secret Army terrorists lashed out at Moslem women on the streets of Oran and Algiers today, killing nine of them by noon. In addition, a Moslem woman and a 12-year-old Moslem girl were injured.

The toll of European Secret Army gunmen in the two cities stood at midday at 27 persons killed and 17 injured. With the exceptions of one European killed and another injured, all the victims were Moslems.

A Secret Army commando swept up five young Moslems in Oran who were on their way to an examination for jobs in the Algerian railway system. There was no immediate word on their fate.

Auto Travel Restricted

Oran's prefect of police issued an order forbidding vehicles occupied by Europeans from driving in streets leading to the city's Moslem neighborhoods. He coupled this with advice to the Moslems to remain away from the European neighborhoods for the time being. Heavily armed police stood guard to enforce the orders against European motor cars.

The killing of the Moslem women was clearly in reprisal for the death of a young European woman yesterday. Europeans said she was shot by a Moslem disguised as a woman in robe and veil.

One by one, the European terrorists shot down Moslem women as they shuffled fearfully along the streets of Algeria's second city.

Riot Police Move In

After the quick series of attacks, several hundred Moslems tried to enter the European quarter to vent their anger. French police and troops were hurried to the scene and dispersed the crowd. No casualties were reported.

Riot police and troops also moved in and sealed off the area where the women were shot.

The bloody morning followed a night of machine gun snatching in various sections of Oran and several heavy explosions. There was no information on what had happened in the darkness or if there were casualties.

The terrorists paid no heed to a broadcast warning from Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda of the Algerian provisional government that they risk their future in the country if they keep up their attacks on the Moslem population.

Points to "Realities"

Speaking from his headquarters in neighboring Tunis in a broadcast beamed to Algeria, Mr. Ben Khedda called on the Europeans "to open your eyes to the new Algerian realities." "The Europeans have their place in the Algeria of tomorrow," he declared, "but it is up to them to decide if they merit it."

The cease fire pact reached by the Nationalist rebels and France provides for equal rights for Europeans when the Moslems take over the government.

But Mr. Ben Khedda charged "ultra-colonialists" and the underground Secret Army with the help of "certain French

Manila Angry At House Vote

Macapagal Visit May Be Canceled

MANILA, Philippines, May 10 (AP).—Sources close to President Diosdado Macapagal said tonight it is possible he will call off his visit to the United States as a result of the defeat in the United States House of Representatives of a $73 million Philippine war damage bill.

Mr. Macapagal, scheduled to make the visit in about a month, called a special cabinet session for tomorrow as a result of the defeat of the measure yesterday by a vote of 201 to 171.

Called "Unfortunate" The action, said the President in a statement, was "most unfortunate." He added: "It was not necessary to shortly before the projected state visit to the United States of the head of a nation which has been America's staunchest ally in Asia. It would have been sufficient not to act on the bill."

Philippine-American relations took a sharp dip here. There was strong pressure by many Senators and Representatives for the President to cancel his visit. Some legislators demanded a break in diplomatic relations. Others suggested that Philippine Ambassador Emilio Abello be recalled from Washington.

Action Deplorable

Emmanuel Pelaez, Vice President and Foreign Secretary, said the House action was deplorable.

"It places the Philippines in a difficult position, since it would seem to support the view that one has to blackmail the Americans to get anything from them," he told newsmen. He said he had told United States Ambassador William Stevenson "it seems the United States treats her friends more abashingly than those who are not for her."

The bill would have authorized the United States Foreign Claims Commission to pay $600 claimants remaining funds due under awards of the United States-Philippines War Damage Commission.

Philippine thought passage of the bill was assured after the Philippine Supreme Court declared legal the entry of a controversial $7 million United States tobacco shipment into this country. Some United States Congressmen from

Eisenhower Criticizes New Executive Power

Calls for Bipartisan Support Of Foreign Policy Decisions

Former President Eisenhower criticized today what he called the Kennedy administration's drive for increased executive power.

He said this poses "a real threat to liberty in this Republic" and makes the election of a Republican House of Representatives "the need of the hour."

Gen. Eisenhower, in his first Washington press conference since leaving office, coupled his assault on President Kennedy's domestic policies with a strong plea for bipartisan support of his foreign policy decisions.

He praised the administration for "growing firmness" in foreign affairs and endorsed American support of the Communist-threatened government of South Viet Nam.

He warned, however, that a coalition government including the Communists in Laos might lead to a loss of that country.

Gen. Eisenhower met reporters in the Caucus room of the Old Senate Office Building, with Republican leaders of the House and Senate flanking him.

Kennedys Lease Home For Newport Vacation

By LEE WALSH
Star Staff Writer

President and Mrs. Kennedy have leased a rambling, Victorian white frame house in Newport, for August and September.

The three-story house, with a magnificent view of the Atlantic, is the property of Beverly Bogert of New York and Newport, a long-time friend of Mrs. Kennedy.

Arrangements for the late summer vacation spot were made on Tuesday, when Mrs. Kennedy flew to Rhode Island by helicopter with her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, following her christening of the Polaris submarine Lafayette in Groton, Conn.

The White House said then that the helicopter was taking the two women to Hamersmith Farm, the Auchincloss summer residence in Newport, to plan for a late summer visit by the President and his wife. However, Mrs. Auchincloss said she had no plans for re-decorating, enlarging or changing Hamersmith Farm, where Mrs. Kennedy spent summers as a girl, and where she and the President and their family visited last summer.

The front of the Bogert house is directly on the ocean, and Mr. Bogert, whom Mrs. Kennedy has known for years, owns a small island which she used for water skiing last year. Sitting at the end of Ruggles avenue, it is somewhat screened from public view. From its ocean side, it is overgrown by The Breakers, the multi-million dollar Vanderbilt mansion owned by Countess Llesio Szechenyi of Washington, the former Gladys Vanderbilt. Two houses away is the home leased for a number of seasons by Washington hostess Perle Mesta, which she called Midcliff.

The house is also next to the property of the late Robert Young, chairman of the board of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad. The Young property includes a heated swimming pool in which the President swam last summer.
