DUG UP HER BABY'S BODY.

Issue Act of an Austrian Mother.
VIENNA, Sept. 26.—A horrible deed of a grief-demented mother has been made public. Helene Mueller, the wife of a master painter in Moulding, near this city, lost her only child, a boy 2 years old, by diphtheria in February last, after an illness of only one day. The suddenness of the death appeared to paralyze the mother's brain and make it entirely impossible for her to realize that the child was dead. She has, therefore, devoted almost every hour to sitting on the baby's grave, holding imaginary conversations with the dead one.

One morning a week ago the sexton discovered that the grave had been opened, the coffin lid taken off and the body stolen. He at once went to the house of the mother, and after considerable trouble he found that the woman had dug the body up a few nights before and taken it to her home wrapped in a shawl and placed it in her trunk. During the day she had taken it out and caressed it and at night, after her husband slept, she had taken the baby to bed with her and endeavored to infuse warmth into it.

A FIST FIGHT FOR A WIFE.

The Winner, Clymer Thomas, Marries the Girl After the Mill.
WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 26.—Clymer Thomas and Frank Williams, two well-known young men of Schick-shinny, engaged in a prize fight at Avondale Wednesday evening, in order to determine which one should wed Miss Annie Griffith, the belle of the village. Two incoherent headbutts furnished light for the pugilists, and only a few friends of the fighters witnessed the mill. Miss Griffith said she would marry the best man. Thomas won after seven rounds had been fought. Miss Griffith's brother-in-law carried the victor out of the ring, placed him on a hackboard and drove him to the house where the young lady was stopping. Two hours later, after Thomas had had his wounds dressed, the young people were married. Thomas remarked to the preacher that he was somewhat disgusted, but still in the ring.

Death of a Prominent Afro-American.

New York, Sept. 25.—William A. Hodges, the most prominent Afro-American citizen in Virginia, died in Norfolk on September 24, from heart failure, at the advanced age of 73 years. He was born in Kenosha, Va., in 1817, of free parents, and at an early age began to advocate the cause of freedom among and for his race.

CAPITOL GOSSIP

MR. ENLOE'S CHARGES AGAINST POSTMASTER WHEAT.

THE HOUSE ADOPTS HIS RESOLUTION.

But in the Meantime the Tennesseean and the Speaker

INDULGE IN A LITTLE WAR OF WORDS.

Kennedy's Bitterest Remarks Coming from Enloe's Mouth Will Still Remain in the Record.

Mr. Enloe of Tennessee to-day presented a resolution, as a question of privilege, which stated that it is alleged that the Postmaster of the House has on the roll of his employees at $100 a month a Mr. Bradley, who works in the Government Printing Office, and that said Bradley pays $20 a month to the son of the Postmaster, who does not work in the Postoffice, and directing the Committee on Accounts to investigate the allegations.

In speaking to the resolution Mr. Enloe referred to the resolution offered by him yesterday, and complained of his being deprived of the floor in a parliamentary, but unfair, manner.

The Speaker suggested that the gentleman was out of order in not confining himself to the resolution under consideration.

Mr. Enloe retorted that sometimes it appeared that the Speaker saw gentlemen of the Democratic side out of order much more quickly than he did gentlemen of the Republican side.

The Speaker replied that, in some instances, gentlemen on the Democratic side were much more clearly out of order.

Mr. Blount was also called to order for not speaking directly to the matter under consideration. He resented this, and declared that only the other day, when the resolution expunging the Kennedy speech from the Record was under consideration, Mr. Kennedy had been permitted to go on for twenty minutes rehashing that speech.

The Speaker inquired whether the gentleman from Georgia had objected.

Mr. Blount replied that there were times when the Speaker should object.

The Speaker said that he had seen nothing in the remarks of the gentleman from Ohio that called for interference. The gentleman had been allowed by the House to make an explanation.

Mr. Blount remarked that the explanation was a reiteration of the offense.

The Chair did not think so. No one had objected to it.

Mr. Blount retorted that no one had objected to the delivery of the first speech—not even the Speaker.

The Speaker thought the gentleman did not mean to incorporate in his speech an intimation that the present occupant was in the chair.

Mr. Blount said he did not mean the present occupant.

Mr. Enloe again took the floor. He alluded to Kennedy and was called to order. He objected, and said the Speaker had allowed Kennedy on both sides a great range in discussing questions of privilege. He instanced Mr. Rogers of Arkansas, who, on such a question, had been allowed to speak for an hour, attacking the Speaker—an attack which the Speaker had taken very courteously.

The Speaker admitted that Mr. Rogers had made attacks on the Chair which might not have been permitted.

Mr. Enloe—While we are settling these little matters—

The Speaker—But the question is on the resolution, and the House is not settling these little matters.

Mr. Enloe—It does not come with propriety for any occupant of the chair to indulge in wit and sarcasm and witticisms at the expense of a member on the floor.

The Speaker—The Chair calls the gentleman from Tennessee to order.

Mr. Enloe—The gentleman will address himself to the resolution.

This he did, and the resolution was adopted.

In spite of the order of the House on Wednesday directing the Public Printer to exclude Representative Kennedy's speech, sent the Senate and Senator Quay, from the bound copy of the Congressional Record, all that part of that able effort which describes Quay as a criminal, branded or unbranded, and as a second Judas Iscariot, will remain embodied in the archives of the Government as a part of Representative Enloe's remarks. The Tennesseean reported the resolution made the fatal mistake of ordering the "speech" expunged, and, by limitation, applies only to Kennedy's utterances. This fact was developed when some of Quay's paragraphs yesterday tried to have the order applied to the portion quoted by Mr. Enloe. It was found that it could not be done.

It was held that had the word "remarks" been used in the resolution instead of the word "speech" the order quoted by Mr. Enloe would have had the fate accorded to the same chairman

INGRATITUDE

PRESIDENTS, LIKE REPTILES, ARE SOMETIMES UNGRATEFUL.

HARRISON'S TREATMENT OF HUSTON.

The Man Who Worked Night and Day and Spent His Money for Him.

THE TREASURER EXHAUSTS HIS PATIENCE

And Is Making Hasty Preparations to Return to His Indiana Home--Will Resign Within Three Weeks.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—A dispatch to the Herald from Connersville, Ind., says: James N. Huston, treasurer of the United States, will resign his office within three weeks and return to this city. The exact date of his resignation has not been decided upon, but it will be sent to President Harrison as soon as Mr. Huston's residence is ready for occupancy. For several months workmen have been busy in the house, and as soon as they move out Treasurer Huston will sever his connection with the Administration and move in. Friends of the President are urging him to remain in Washington and hold back his resignation until after the Indiana elections. It is even said that the President has made to Mr. Huston, begging him to at least tacitly refute the stories of his quarrels by remaining in office a few months longer. None of these appeals has swayed the treasurer from his intentions. He will cut loose from Harrison as a time-server, and as a man whose most regretted and the President has most grieved and of friends in Indiana. If an endorsement of the Administration by the voters of his native State is desired, Mr. Huston's presence is a guarantee of friendship for Harrison to be repudiated.

A PERSONAL APPEAL

THE MASK OF FRIENDSHIP

has been discarded, and, as between the Harrison and Gresham forces in this State, Huston is undoubtedly throwing his influence to the latter. The story of the friendship of these two men is a record of self-sacrificing loyalty and devotion on Huston's part and of ingratitude on Harrison's. Among the many are familiar with their relations during the last three years the greatest astonishment is expressed that the nervous and quick-tempered Treasurer bore the arrogance and insults of Harrison as long as he has. For years before his elevation to the Presidency Mr. Harrison found it advantageous to himself and to his family

CULTIVATE THE HUSTONS.

The Treasurer is distinguished for the splendor and cordiality of his entertainments. His palatial home, occupying the most picturesque site in this city, has been the scene of many royal feasts. The mansion, surrounded by stately forest trees, stands in the center of a twenty-acre lawn that slopes gradually to the river. Four thousand acres of fertile farming land constitute a small portion of Mr. Huston's taxable property in this country. With almost unlimited resources at his command and whose Kentucky hospitality is celebrated throughout the State, Huston entertained his friends as long as he could that would be difficult to surpass. Mr. Harrison for a number of years was among the most frequent guests at the Huston mansion. When the Treasurer drifted into politics and assumed the leadership of the Republican side of the Indiana Senate and Harrison became inseparable friends. After the defeat of the Republican national ticket in 1888, when the States were to elect a delegate to re-election to the Senate, he selected Huston to conduct the campaign. The party, disorganized by defeat and disheartened by the prospect of losing a United States Senator, Vice-President, to an aggressive campaign, Harrison had none of the elements of successful leadership. His candidacy did not entice the voters. Naturally

A CHARMING WIFE

FATAL FISTICUFFS.

AN AFFAIR OF HONOR BETWEEN STUDENTS ENDS IN DEATH.

Warren Tallafero Went to Sleep and Never Woke Again--His Antagonist Speechless and Unconscious.

LEXINGTON, Va., Sept. 26.—Yesterday afternoon Cadets Warren Tallafero of Virginia and Frank W. McCommico of Texas had a trial at fisticuffs, from the effects of which Tallafero died a few moments later. There was some point of honor at stake, and the two young men, respectively about 16 and 18 years of age, repaired to one of the society halls, had their seconds, and drew the ring.

The fight lasted about half an hour, and both were badly bruised. Tallafero went to his room with his nose bleeding and went to sleep, and never woke again. His death was only discovered late yesterday afternoon.

The town is both excited and distressed. Opinions seem to be that nothing can be done to McCommico before any jury hereabouts, as the two were evenly matched as to size, and the fight was fair.

This is the first instance of the kind in the history of the institute. Ten years ago Washington and Lee man killed another student with a croquet ball in a fit of anger; but, beyond these, fist fights have been going on constantly, seemingly as a test of pluck, with no bad results.

Tallafero is a nephew of General Tallafero, one of the most prominent men in the State and brother of the first honor man of last year, now assistant professor. Both cadets are first-year men.

McCommico was arrested and bailed. He was so badly injured that he has been speechless and unconscious since the fight.

ARREST OF O'BRIEN AND DILLON.

Enthusiastic Mass Meeting in Detroit Addressed by Prominent Men.

DETROIT, Sept. 26.—An enthusiastic meeting was held here last evening to protest against the arrest of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien and the action of the police at Tipperary. Colonel John Atkinson presided. The orators were Don M. Dickinson, ex Postmaster-General; Representative Chipman of this district; Bishop Foley of the diocese of Detroit; and Rev. Charles O'Reilly, secretary of the National Land League.

To Close Up a Lottery.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 26.—Attorney General Hays, yesterday gave Auditor Neelman an opinion on the standing of the Frankfort and the Henry County lotteries. He holds that the license under which the lotteries claim to operate is void. It is left for Prosecuting Attorney Parsons here to close the general offices of the lottery under the new law.

Getting Even With the Deans.

St. Louis, Sept. 26.—You get a lot of getting even with some of his men who are alleged to have signed Brotherhood contracts. Shorty Fuller, the famous little shortstop, was fined $100 yesterday for signing a Brotherhood contract. He is charged with drinking a glass of beer, but the real reason is that he signed with Comiskey.

HARMONY PREVAILS AMONG THE QUAKER CITY DEMOCRATS.

HARMONY IN PENNSYLVANIA.

COUNTY AND DISTRICT NOMINATIONS THAT MAKE A STRONG TICKET.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.

The county and district Democratic conventions yesterday nominated the following ticket:

County--Sheriff, Frank A. Hartranft; City Controller, Robert V. Packer; Recorder of Deeds, C. Oscar Bessler; City Commissioner, J. P. J. Sussenger; Judge, Thomas K. Finletter; Indorsed for Court of Common Pleas, No. 2.

Congress--First district, Edwin G. Frazier; Second district, Edwin F. Lutz; Third district, William Miller; Fourth district, William M. Ayers; Fifth district, J. Harry Taylor.

Second district, James D. Lee. The conventions were characterized by the utmost harmony, and all the delegates expressed a determination to work enthusiastically. The heavy Republican majorities in all the Congressional districts save the Third make the fight a desperate one against heavy odds.

Mr. McAleer is a sure winner in his district. Randall's old one, and now represented by Vaux. The ticket gives general satisfaction, and is considered a very strong one.

MR. KERR DEFEATED.

PENNSYLVANIA'S DEMOCRATIC STATE CHAIRMAN NOT RENOMINATED.

DEBON, Pa., Sept. 26.—C. F. Krebs of Clarion County was nominated at Ridgway yesterday for Congress to succeed James Kerr, by the Democratic conference of the Twenty-eighth district. The nomination was made on the fourth day of the Clinton, Elk and Elk counties, voted for Krebs, and Clearfield and Centre for Kerr. The action of the conference is a surprise, as it has not been thought at any time that Mr. Kerr, who is the Democratic State chairman, would have serious trouble in securing a renomination.

Kerr owes his defeat to a bargain made at the recent Democratic State Convention when the Hall of Elk County was nominated by the Republicans of the State, to have, through their State Central Committee, nominated such disgruntled Democrats as A. C. Haskell of Columbia for Governor, and Joseph H. Earl of Summit for Attorney-General, supplementing the ticket with the following nominees: For Lieutenant-Governor, John Bratton of Fairfield; Secretary of State, J. Q. Marshall of Columbia; Treasurer, W. A. Antrim of Clarion; Controller, George W. Barrow of Charleston; Adjutant and Inspector General, M. L. Bonham; Superintendent of Education, J. H. Rice of Union. Haskell and Earl were most bitter opponents of Tillman and his men, and it remains to be seen whether they will accept the honors proffered by the Republicans and take the chances of an election through the negro vote.

SOUTH CAROLINA REPUBLICANS IMPROVE THEIR OPPORTUNITY.

CHARLESTON, S. Earl of Summit for Attorney-General, supplementing the ticket with the following nominees: For Lieutenant-Governor, John Bratton of Fairfield; Secretary of State, J. Q. HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 26.—Grangers of this vicinity do not believe the Free-supper theories concerning the Pennsylvania farm profits that have been promulgated by the anti-Tariff Reform people, Grange No. 42, Patrons of Husbandry, of Grantville, has adopted unanimously the following resolution:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Grange that the farmer, or anybody else, who believes that the agricultural has less ability to pay his taxes than the manufacturer, is entirely mistaken, or else doing for political effect, regardless of the best interests of the farmer, and that the best mode of relieving the farmer is to reduce the Pennsylvania tax a sufficient reduction of such a character, without further words on the subject.

CANADA AND THE TARIFF.

THE WEXLEY HILL MILL INDUSTRY ATTRACTION FOR BRITISH INVESTORS.

St. Johns, Sept. 26.—Sir Leonard Tilley, Lieutenant-Governor of New Brunswick, in opening the exhibition here referred to the McKinley Tariff bill and its effects on this province. He said that while the United States Congress were sitting in what they supposed to be the interest of their country, it could not be denied that the effect of the measure would reach this country. He said no measure for manufacturing protection was so essential to the welfare of the province as was the McKinley Tariff. He said that the province was so situated in respect to the border, and though the farmers could not advantageously produce here and their goods for sale.

If it could not be sold in the United States they could be sold at home or converted into chickens, which could be sold at a ready market in England. He closed his address with a story of a day's work in explaining that there was always an English market for Canadian wheat.
