BISHOPS IN LOCAL PULPITS (Continued from First Page.) extent we have followed out divine teachings. "Think for a moment of the degradation of the women of China. They are ignorant, depressed, abused and feared if they are seen going to church. They are sold as slaves, and if there are too many they are killed. They have no relief for their miseries. One often sees there a woman put out of the house where she has been living, when she is in a dangerous sickness, for the reason of superstition on the part of the landlord."

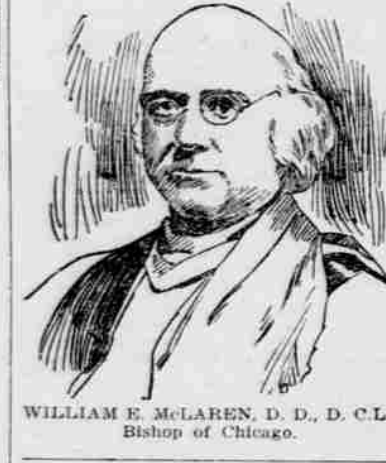

HENRY B. WHIPPLE, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Minnesota.

to the recent Indian outbreak in Minnesota, stating that Bishop Whipple had been laboring among them for the past forty years. Bishop Whipple said: "We believe in missions because we believe in Christ. It is that love of Christ that finds a resting place in the sin-sick soul which makes us love to reach out our hands in His name to those still in darkness."

He spoke of the wonderful development of the English-speaking race, and accounted for it by the fact that they carried their open Bible in their hand and demanded no more than a simple belief in it. He declared that some of the grandest men that this world ever knew had given their lives for Africa and in fighting the cause of Christ there.

SERVICES AT ST. PAUL'S. John K. Ochiai, a Native of Japan, Ordained to the Diaconate. Interesting ordination services were held at St. Paul's Church, on Twenty-third Street, yesterday morning, conducted by the Right Rev. William E. McLaren, Bishop of Chicago, assisted by the Right Rev. Dr. McKim, Bishop of Tokyo.

WILLIAM E. McLAREN, D. D., D. C. L., Bishop of Chicago.

Mr. Ochiai is a native of Japan, but for several years has pursued a course of studies at the Western Theological Seminary and the Chicago University to fit him for missionary work in the Orient. He expects to return to his own country with Bishop McKim, with whom he will work.

JOHN MCKIM, D. D., Missionary Bishop of Tokyo.

Morning prayers had been read at the early services, and the sermon by Bishop McLaren followed the processional. It was a missionary, rather than an ordination sermon, although he spoke of the duty and office of such as come to be ordained deacon; how necessary that work is in the Church of Christ. He chose for his text the great commission from the sixteenth chapter of the Gospel according to St. Luke: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

CHARLES REUBEN HALE, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Cairo, Assistant Bishop of Springfield.

A conspicuous example of the value of such work, he said, was furnished them in the young girl who was about to be ordained. He had been converted to Christianity through missionary labors, and having qualified himself for the work was now about to return to his own country to pursue it.

After the sermon hymn 183 was sung, followed by the preface to the ordination and the presentation of the candidate. The bishop was seated near the altar and Mr. Ochiai was led up to him and presented as a candidate for ordination by Dr. Gould. The challenge and catechism, as prescribed by the church, was read and satisfactorily answered, and he was ordained, the choir and congregation standing.

After the laying on of hands and while the candidate was still kneeling, the bishop placed the stole on his shoulders. He then turned to the right shoulder, coming under the left arm, instead of over both shoulders, as the rite of the West requires. The candidate, according to custom, then read the gospel, clearly and with perfect accentuation, and the Nicene creed was repeated.

BISHOP DOANE'S SERMON. Church Duties in Connection With Expansion of the State. The Right Rev. William C. Doane, Bishop of Albany, preached at the Holy Communion service held at the Pro-Cathedral of St. Mark, corner Third and A Street, yesterday morning, at 11 o'clock yesterday morning. He spoke from the text "Launch out into the deep and throw down your nets," found in the fifth chapter of Luke. Bishop Doane spoke in part as follows:

WILLIAM C. DOANE, D. D., LL. D., Bishop of Albany.

"Many persons have come to understand the workings of the miracles of our Lord as though they were evidences of physical acts of pity in which Jesus alone was concerned, that in the curious mixture of false science and questionable Christianity the Christian healer is talked of as a kind of anesthetic influence with anodyne powers. "I protest against this as a misuse of a very dangerous way to deal with the facts. These miracles were evidences of divine power, but it was not the power that was the object, but the very simplest ways. It is preposterous to speak of the supernatural when nobody can speak of the confines of nature."

Among the things touching and teaching in the way in which the Lord's acts and words progress in the written record of this story of Luke. First he prays in silence, that perfect picture of early stage of a characteristic element in every stage of Christian duty to the world. Then he told the fishermen to thrust out only a little way from the picture of duty on the quiet waters and ways of pastoral life. Isn't it a picture to be a little way out, yet to be able to touch the shore at every turn? Then the Lord commanded the men in the boats to launch out into the deep and to let down their nets for a draft.

as churches of light one and apostolic church of Jesus Christ which is intended to embrace with outstretched arms the universal race of man. Look at the time of the rush to the Klondike. There was a church in every town, and men were listening of mercy for the bodies of the men when they returned, behind which stand the ministrings of mercy to their souls."

THE VISION OF JEREMIAH. "The Lesson of the Candlestick and the Seven Lamps. "It is a lesson in living to stand up and preach to our fellow men," said Bishop Wilmer, of Alabama, yesterday morning, in beginning his sermon to the congregation in Trinity Church, at Third and C Streets northwest. "But do you know that it is just as serious a thing to listen to the preaching of the Word of God? You are apt to look to the preacher to do all the work and build the church, while you shake off the responsibility you should feel. But honest preaching and honest hearing is what the Lord wants."

Bishop Wilmer chose as the subject of his remarks the vision of Jeremiah in reference to the golden candlestick and the seven lamps as exemplifying the might and power of the spirit of the Lord. "Solomon's temple had just been destroyed and an effort was being made to build it again," he said. "The people were in their sore extremity had become hearted, and the vision was sent to Jeremiah to reassure them of the promise of the spirit to encourage them. Man's extremity is God's opportunity."

THE PURSUIT OF HAPPINESS. Bishop Nelson Tells of the Privileges of Church Members. Bishop Nelson, of Georgia, occupied the pulpit at St. Luke's Church last night. The preliminary services were conducted by the rector of the church, Rev. O. L. Waller. Bishop Nelson took his text from the twenty-ninth verse of the twenty-first chapter of Acts, in which the Apostle Paul tells the soldier who arrests him that he is "a Roman and a citizen of no mean city."

INFLUENCE OF MISSIONS. Bishop Nelson Preaches of the Duty of the Christian. At the Church of the Ascension, at Twelfth Street and Massachusetts Avenue northwest, the Right Rev. W. C. Doane, Bishop of Georgia, discussed the subject of missions from the standpoint of their influence in the spreading and advancement of civilization and the duty of the Christian in giving active support to the church. Bishop Nelson is an eloquent and impressive speaker, and was listened to with the greatest interest by the congregation which attended the morning service.

THE GOOD OF THE GOSPEL. Should Be Sent to the Relief of All People. The Rt. Rev. Boyd Vincent, D. D., Bishop Coadjutor of Southern Ohio, delivered the mission sermon at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, on Twenty-second Street, yesterday morning. His text was from St. John, xxi: "Now is the judgment of this world, and now is the prince cast out, and I, looking out, will draw all men to me."

DIRECTION OF CHURCH FORCE. Christianity Moves in the Direction of the Greatest Resistance. Bishop Nichols preached to the board of missions last night at the church of the Epiphany in G Street. Among other things in his reference to mission work the bishop said: "It is a movement of humanity for God and a movement of God for humanity through the agents of the Holy Spirit, that reaches out to man in the voice of Christ. It is the same voice that says 'I am the vine, ye are the branches.' The church is the body of Christ."

LESSONS OF HEROISM. Isaiah's Vision of Duty Not a Selfish Ambition. The Right Rev. Thomas F. Gallor, Bishop of Tennessee, preached at the evening service at the Pro-Cathedral of St. Mark, preaching from the text Isaiah vi: "Here am I, send me." "At the time when these words were uttered by Isaiah," began the bishop, "the kingdom of Judah had been greatly prospered, the army was exultant with power, the treasury was filled with gold, silver and jewels; wealth had produced indifference, success had caused idleness, and Judah was suffering from a dry rot. Then it was that the young man Isaiah, just learning of his own strength, brought up in a religious atmosphere, entered the temple."

D., Bishop Coadjutor of Southern Ohio, delivered the mission sermon at St. Michael and All Angels' Church, on Twenty-second Street, yesterday morning. His text was from St. John, xxi: "Now is the judgment of this world, and now is the prince cast out, and I, looking out, will draw all men to me."

the trumpet's peal, and the first vision of his life was revealed to him. It was a vision of duty and of responsibility, and he answered to his God, 'Here am I, send me to bear the message that Thou dost send me.' "The words of young Isaiah have re-echoed with blessings for all humanity while all that part of once great Judah has crumbled. The factors are brought out in Isaiah's action, the recognition of God and the appreciation of himself. When a man works for the good of humanity, of a race, some thing beyond mere thought of self moves him. When a man works for the good of a cause, of an idea or of a person, when his power moves him, he is in some degree the result of a vision of God."

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL. Invitations will shortly be sent out for the wedding of Miss Caroline Sogard Duer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Denning Duer, of New Haven, to George Xavier McLanahan, of Washington. The ceremony will take place in New Haven on Tuesday, November 8, and will be followed by an elaborate breakfast.

Former Postmaster General Gary, Mrs. Gary and the Misses Gary, will spend October at the Summit, their country place, at Catonsville, Md., and will return to their city house in Linden Avenue, Baltimore, until November. Capt. A. S. Crowlins, chief of the Bureau of Navigation, and Mrs. Crowlins, Miss Chamberlain, sister of the Rt. Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, who is their guest, and Miss Long, daughter of the Secretary of the Navy, visited Mount Vernon Saturday in the United States dispatch boat Sylph.

Mr. Morris Clifton, of this city, was one of the attendant ushers at the marriage of Miss Katherine Busted and Mr. John Rush Street, which occurred last evening at the residence of the bride elect's mother, on Huntington Place, Columbia Heights. Mrs. John N. Mitchell, of Philadelphia, is visiting Washington as a member of the Woman's Auxiliary to the triennial congress now in session here.

Miss Annie Owens, who has been visiting her parents in Elkton, Md., has returned to Washington. Mrs. Benjamin S. Morgan is visiting her father, Mr. John M. Gibson, at Berryville, Va. Miss Lillie M. Snodgrass, of California, is visiting the family of Col. James L. Norris.

An interesting out-of-town wedding, set for this month, will be that of Miss Lindsey Lomax, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Lindsey L. Lomax, and Mr. Waddy Butler Woods. Miss Lomax made her debut in this city several winters ago. Deceptive. (From the Detroit Free Press.) "I struck a man on the cheek," said the man who is about to move, "when I said to see a house of which a faithful Irishman was outside. 'You see, no man,' I said, as soon as I saw the place. 'Oh, ay, sir,' he replied, 'till I show ye t'rough. Ye'll find the house some much larger on the inside than it is on the outside, sir.'"

Three Doctors in Consultation. (From Benjamin Franklin.) "When you are sick, what you like best is to be chosen for a medicine in the first place; what experience tells you is best, to be chosen in the second place; what reason (i. e., Theory) says is best, to be chosen in the last place. But if you can get Dr. Inclination, Dr. Experience and Dr. Reason to hold a consultation together, they will give you the best advice that can be taken." When you would recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy because it is pleasant and safe to take, Dr. Experience would recommend it because it never fails to effect a speedy and permanent cure. Dr. Reason would recommend it because it is prepared on scientific principles, and acts on nature's plan in relieving the lungs, opening the secretions and restoring the system to a natural and healthy condition. Sergeant Daley and Precinct Detective Barnes raided another speakeasy yesterday afternoon in the Second Precinct. Alexander Harbour conducts a small grocery store near the corner of Fourth and F Streets northwest, and the police have thought for some time that he was selling liquor "on the side." The store was watched Saturday night without result, and yesterday a man was sent in to buy some whisky. He bought the liquor and gave it to the policeman who was waiting for him on the outside. They then entered the store and arrested the proprietor.
