A LITTLE NONSENSE.

CONSIDER.

Insurance.

"If you, ladies and gentlemen," said the insurance agent, "you would like to know the secret of the happiness from which we all suffer, it is this: ..."

We have heard of the losses of properties from which we all suffer, but never before, has the source of our unhappiness been so clearly stated.

A FAITHFUL SERVANT.

A faithful Government agent, Mr. Smith, was called on to perform a task that was considered impossible. The task was to find a needle in a haystack. Mr. Smith, without a second thought, set to work and within minutes had located the needle. His efficiency was applauded by all who witnessed the event.

THE WASHINGTON HeralD, MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1897.

THE WASHINGTON HeralD, MONDAY, MARCH 4, 1897.