quarters as Norway's diplomatic representative was an apartment in the Bachelor villa Sacasa, second in rank to the dean, major-de the presentation which he had across from the Metropolitan Club. "I slept in the bedroom been most instrumental in arranging. When he presented the tray to the dean on be-half of his colleagues, Ambasand the living room was the legation," he quipped as he crossed nigh to a half century

so Wilhelm was "it." His head-

Canadian-born Mme. Morgenstierne, who was the only diplomatic wife present, said she met her husband in Winnipeg, Canada, and came to Washington with him as his bride on December 31, 1926.

Poland. Rumanian Minister

Moisescu arrived with his interpreter.

Nicaraguan Ambassador Se-

in his mind.

sador Morgenstierne amusing-ly began his reply with, "Mr. Vice Dean, amigo." He also drew some chuckles when he remarked, "This business of being dean is not due to any-thing I have done except get-ting older."

TO HONOR THE DEAN-Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne (center), Norwegian Ambassador and dean of the Washington diplomatic corps, is shown receiving a silver tray yesterday marking his 45th anniversary as a diplomat. Ambassador Sevilla-Sacasa of Nicaragua made the presentation as Mme. de Morgenstierne stood

AEC Scientists Pass Washington Party Test

By PATRICIA SIMMONS

A couple of years ago, Prof. Willard Frank Libby, applying the so-called "car-bon test" to a small piece of burnt wood from its site on Salisbury Plain, estimated that the famous ruin, Stonehenge, dates back to 1848 B. C. plus or minus 275 years.

Yesterday Mr. Libby and his colleague in the Atomic Energy Commission, Dr. John Neumann, passed the Washington party test with flying

One uses protocol, not carbon, for the Washington party test.

At a reception given by the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and Mrs. Lewis Strauss for these two new AEC members and their wives the property of the strain of th wives, there were present some not-so-secret ingredients for the successful Washington

A Cabinet Comer—Secretary of Defense Wilson soon settled down on a comfortable couch with a cool glass. He let his wife move through the crowd and tackle the hand-shaking.

A Supreme Court Justice—

A Supreme Court Justice— Stanley Reed still talking about the gala party given at the Sulgrave Club Wednes-day evening by Aviatrix Jackie Cochran.

Cafritz Covers Seven A No. 1 Hostess—Gwen Ca-fritz in dinner clothes an-nouncing that she had seven parties to take in during the day.

A White House Man—PresiSherman Addential Adviser Sherman Adams who always looks like he's having a good time.

having a good time.

Some Diplomats—Like the Ambasador of Canada and Mrs. Heeney, the van Roigens of the Netherlands, the Ambasador from South Africa and Mrs. Holloway, Baron Silvercruys of Belgium and Lord and Lady Makins of Great Britain.

Top Brass—Gen. and Mrs. Mathew B. Ridgway, Mrs. Arthur Radford and asked from the Atomic Energy Military Liaison Committee: Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Kenner F. Hert-

Harry Roper, Rear Admiral and Mrs. George C. Wright, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Paul H. Ramsey, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert Thatcher and Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Richard

Lawmakers - Among those you may have spotted from the Atomic Energy Joint Com-mittee: Senator and Mrs. Clinton P. Anderson, Senator and Mrs. Bourke Hickenlooper, and Representatives John Dempsey, Carl Durham, Carl Hinshaw, Paul Kilday, James Patterson, Melvin Price and James Van Zandt.

Assorted V. I. P.—Like Ambassador for Peace Harold Stassen, Director of CIA Allen Dulles, and Mrs. Alice Leopold who heads the Women's Bu-reau.

Saudi Arabia Fete

Over at the Embassy of Saudi Arabia last evening Ambassador and Mme. Al-Faqih asked a group of their friends to a farewell buffet

Guests included about 150 from the State Department, the Syrian-Lebanese colony and, of course the Arab en-voys The host returns to voys The host return Saudi Arabia in June.

Top Envoy Honored topping her evening dress with a chinchilla capelet, entertained a table of guests that included the Austrian Ambassador and Mme. Gruber, Assistant Secretary of Defense and Mrs. Struve Hensel, former Ambassador and Signora Rosso-she wrapped in white fox; and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Le Baron.

TODAY

EXCLUSIVELY YOURS

The Pan American Union

ballroom wiggled and waved and shimmied and shook last evening like it's never done before. It was the scene of one

The charity ball for the benefit of United Cerebral

Palsy, Washington, D.C., drew

the Capitalites who knew what to do when they heard the hot Latin music of Tito Puente

and his orchestra and how to -do it. There was some extremely warm exhibition dancing by professionals Tybee and Barry at one point, but as the evening waxed and the music

waxed peppier, they might have learned a thing or two by watching some of the Latin

Glimpsed from the Aztec

Glimpsed from the Aztec gardens, the Pan American Union looked like an MGM set. Tables surrounded by socialites filled the upper terrace and spilled down on the grass below. A long table laden with colorful and delectable food and flanked by a bar at each end formed the terrace back-drop. Los Caballeros, strolling

Mexican musicians in snappy

black and white costumes strummed their guitars and sang sweet harmonies that floated out into the general gayety. And overhead the arched balconies of the ball-room framed the brilliant light of the elegant crystal lit-ball-room against the dark of the night.

Beware of Monkeys

Beyond the fountain in the foliage-filled patio three cages of rare marmosets drew the attention of new arrivals. Flown up from South America by Pan American World Airways, they will end up at the Washington Zoo. Despite their minute size and adorable little faces, signs warned, "Don't touch, they all bite." Exotic flowers for every

"Don't touch, they all bite."

Exotic flowers for every table and a gardenia for every feminine guest had been flown in from south of the border by the Air Shopping Service and Avianca of Mexico.

A little burro wearing a lovable look and baskets of flowers on his back stood outside the door of the Union.

side the door of the Union to add more color. He wasn't flown from anywhere. He was driven in from his home in Potomac, Md.

Out on the terrage, Mrs.
Marjorie Merriweather Post,

Beyond the fountain in the big successful party.

Charity Ball Gay;

Mrs. Post's daughter and son-in-law. Deenie and Stan Rumbough, were hosts at another table that included Uruguayan Ambassador and Senora de Mora-he is the president of the Council of the Organization of American States: Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry Holland, Colombian Counselor and Senora de Chavez, Mr. and Mrs. Clive Duval and the David Moores.

Peruvian Ambassador and Senora de Berckemeyer were with the Charles Willises, Nancy and Tom Clagett, Sec-retary Dulles' Man Friday Rod O'Connor and his bride, the Dick Harknesses and the John Sutherlands.

At least 25 Latin ambassa. dors to the United States or OAS were glimpsed in the crowd including Dominican Ambassador Salazar who was doing a terrific samba with Mrs. Loy Anderson.

Taking turns in the receiving line last night were the women responsible for the success of the ball. They were Chairmen Mrs. Tom Killefer and Mrs. John Jordan, and assistants Anne Heard, Mrs. Burdette Wright, jr., Claire Snow, Mrs. Harry Snowden and Mrs. George Mahoney.

The only hitch to the party

The only hitch to the party was that the ballroom was a long flight of stairs from the terrace and had to be climbed for each dance. Next time they'll have to put up a dance floor in the Aztec gardens.

Norwegian Ambassador Marks 45th Year Here

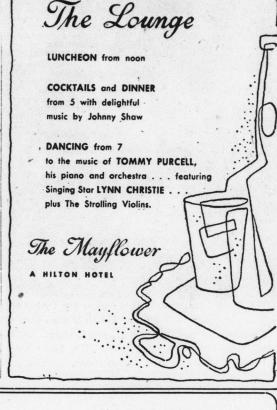

Washington's most delightwashington's most delight-ful dean was given an anni-versary party yesterday morn-ing by the most staggering representation of sovereign nations to gather in one drawing room.

The much loved Norwegian Ambassador Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, dean of the diplomatic corps, was pre-sented with a silver tray from his colleagues to commemorate his 45th year in Washington.

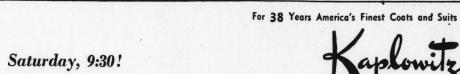

The 11 o'clock gathering was meant to be a surprise affair but Ambassador Morgenstierne confessed in his acceptance remarks that his surprise had come when he first heard about it a few days earlier. "Somehow or other 45 never "Somehow or other 45 never occurred to me as a particularly round figure," he said with a smile, "I thought I would at least have to wait another five years."

Wilhelm Munthe de Mor-genstierne first set foot in Washington on May 26, 1910, when he and the Norwegian Minister comprised the lega-

Too Wonderful to Miss!

400 Nationally Featured 29.95 to 39.95

Summer's favorite "Little Coat" fashions in a wide, wide choice of styles and lengths! Every new wool . . . every coat beautifully lined and detailed to be fashion-perfect for TOWN, COUNTRY, TRAVEL and RESORT now through fall.

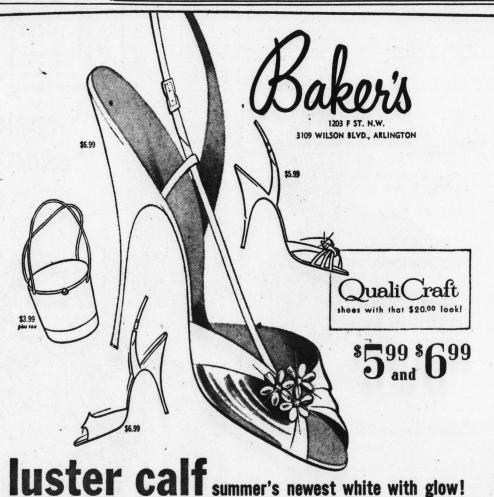

Sizes 8 to 18-7 to 15

Charge Accounts Invited

Sun Colors! White, Navy, Black!

Convenient Lay-Away

Budget Accounts

White calfskin with the subtle luster that gives the look of mother-of-pearl to leather! Sizes 31/2 to 10, AAAA thru C in the group. Above, the strip atwinkle with rhinestones. Center, vinyl windowed halter with pearl-like flowers and rhinestones. Below, twin-peaked sling striking in its simplicity. MAIL ORDERS: Add 256—Post Office charges collected on C.O.D.'s.

summer's newest white with glow!