

1 DEAD, 3 HURT IN STREET ACCIDENTS

David N. Hanway, seventeen years old, 2006 First street northwest, died at Sibley Hospital today from injuries sustained when he was knocked down by an automobile truck operated by Henry Thompson, 2401 Twelfth street northeast, at Twenty-sixth and Brentwood road northeast last Saturday.

Miss Mable Constock, nineteen years old, 340 Twelfth street southeast, is in a serious condition today at Casualty Hospital suffering from severe scalp wounds and bruises on the body and head sustained last night when she was knocked down by a street car of the Capital Traction Company, while she was crossing the street at Twelfth and Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Thrown from his bicycle when it was struck by an automobile operated by Mrs. A. E. Meahan, 423 Fourteenth street northeast, at Second and Maryland avenue northeast last night, Corrie L. Ricks, thirty-five years old, 204 East Capitol street, was removed to Casualty Hospital, suffering from slight injuries on the head and body.

Mrs. Ira E. Conklin, of 919 L street northwest, was slightly injured yesterday when she was knocked down crossing Ninth and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. She was removed to the Emergency Hospital.

D. C. FOOD CHIEF TO PROBE CHILDS

Childs restaurant today is under investigation by the District Food Administration for selling a glass of milk for 10 cents.

Complaints that Childs is charging 30 cents for three pieces of buttered toast also reached the food administration. The usual charge for toast is 5 cents for two pieces. This charge is also being investigated.

Recently Childs restaurant advanced the price of milk from 8 to 10 cents a glass. Under pressure from the District Food Administration the price was reduced to 5 cents, but went up again in disregard of the food administration's decree.

Jilted, She Drowns Herself

MISS MARGARET DEAN. Believing herself jilted in love, committed suicide.

JILTED BY MAN SHE LOVED; ENDS LIFE

Funeral arrangements are being made today for Miss Margaret Dean, nineteen years old, of 1233 K street southeast, who threw herself into the river when she believed that the man she loved had ceased to love her.

She died as a result of a mistake. The man whom she believed had ceased to care for her is heart broken today. He still professes his love for her, according to Mrs. Lillie Tippet, an aunt of the girl. Mrs. Tippet declared that her niece had often threatened to kill herself if for any reason the love of the man for her would die.

Last Monday a quarrel ensued between the couple, according to Mrs. Tippet. Miss Dean told her that she had been jilted and that she saw no hope for future happiness. The following night Miss Dean returned home much agitated, declaring that she had seen the man she loved walking with another woman.

Miss Dean left the house and did not return. The police were notified Friday morning. Later a body was found in the river by the harbor police and taken to the morgue. It was identified by Mrs. Tippet.

BAN ON KRANTZ, GROCER, IN EFFECT

The ban of the District Food Administration against W. B. Krantz, proprietor of the Mendota Market, found guilty of selling flour without standard substitutes, went into full effect today.

Wholesalers and retailers who telephoned to Clarence R. Wilson, District food chief, to confirm reports of the official action against Krantz, were told not to sell a single article of food to the Mendota Market.

Krantz Defiant.

"Since Mr. Krantz has declared his intention of fighting the Food Administration we shall soon see how long he will be able to continue in business," said Mr. Wilson.

Krantz today declared he is being supported in his stand against the Food Administration by "all of the good people of this section."

In a statement issued today Krantz indirectly expressed his fear that the food authorities would confiscate his property when he said:

"This order is aimed to put me out of business and would amount virtually to a confiscation of my hard earned property."

Feels Ill-Treated.

"I have broken no law of the land, and I feel that I have been most unjustly treated for something I cannot help," said Krantz.

"The world, I think, owes every man a living, and I work sixteen hours daily to obtain one. I think this rather a high-handed proceeding in a land where every man should be accorded the privilege of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness while injuring no one."

"I am located in a section of the city where people want the best with a maximum of service. We pay a high rental and in fact everything entering into the expense account has advanced from $0 to 100 per cent, while we have doubled the amount of money invested in the business and at a greatly reduced percentage of profit."

"Selling a box of oats as a substitute for flour led up to this drastic action by the food administration."

Profit Still a Month.

Krantz declared yesterday that he believed he was being discriminated against by the District food chief because he refused to observe the fair price list.

"Mr. Krantz says he earned only $18 a month profit in his store on an investment of $12,000," said Mr. Wilson. "That is a total of $1,932 a year, or over 16 per cent profit on his investment, which could hardly be called unfair."

The District food board expects every wholesaler in the country to be warned of the ban against Krantz within two or three days. The public utility department of the Federal Food Administration will distribute the order.

TO CONTINUE TEN O'CLOCK OPENING

Then 10 o'clock opening for stores will continue in Washington.

Heads of large stores in Washington, owners and managers of small stores, today notified the secretary to the Board of Commissioners that they would cheerfully comply with the request of the Commissioners and continue the 10 o'clock opening.

These stores were provided with a card to be placed in windows of the stores stating that they had complied with the request of the Commissioners.

The card given to these people read: "Open at 10 o'clock. This establishment is cheerfully complying with the request of the District Commissioners."

The secretary to the board stated today that 1,000 of these cards are ready for distribution. The Commissioners have requested heads of businesses in Washington to notify them in writing as to whether they will comply with the request. Cards can be obtained upon such notification from the secretary.

The committee on markets, transportation and distribution has started a survey of the food situation in Washington as a basis for a conservative and anti-profiteering platform.

The most price committee will investigate the present high prices of meat, with the intention of lowering them for the "ultimate consumer."

Publicity will be given the campaign by the war department in connection with the activities of the Food Council and the District Food Administration.

Speakers will be assigned from the council to address meetings of citizens' associations and other organizations in the District.

Mrs. E. E. Baker, at the meeting last night declared that food demonstrators in many cases had been refused permission to use the schools for their work. She urged the Food Council to take action toward asking the school authorities to give their consent for the use of the schools.

Members of the "Fighting Tenth" introduced a new "stunt" in one of their raids, when they carried electric light bulbs attached to the muzzles of their rifles as they scamped over No Man's Land.

Robert Lee Willingham, thirty the second year, who has been fighting with the 103d Infantry in France, since last winter, saw service also with Pershing's men in Mexico. When the call came Robert was employed in Washington as a motorman by the W. R. & E.

Leonard Calvert Willingham resigned from an electric firm in Washington and joined the air service. When volunteers for immediate service were called for at an Ohio training camp, he "was on" and immediately sailed for France. He has been in that country over a year, and is with the 300th air squadron in active fighting.

Frank Carroll Willingham, the youngest, made many attempts to enlist, including one effort to join the British navy, but was rejected. Finally he was accepted by the marine corps, first aviation section. When his unit left for France he was in the hospital. When he recovered he was put on guard duty in New Orleans, but he is now fighting in France, where his two brothers are fighting.

REDFIELD SCORES G. O. P. AS 'HOSTILE'

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Secretary Redfield, in a speech favoring the election of Alfred E. Smith for governor of New York said today that for any human service it may be said that training and experience plus character are essential things—hence his advocacy of the Democratic nominee.

"If you seek a doctor," said the Secretary, "you seek one whom you know to be trained and experienced. If in a factory a superintendent is wanted one is sought who knows the job."

In referring to the Congressional campaign he termed the "strange mental process" which the Republicans were at the present time as "vacillating."

"Unfortunately," he continued, "there is not accord among them. Some leaders declare they are more loyal than the President. If I recall correctly he was once said to be 'vacillating.' At a time when the successful effort of America is the wonder of the world, and Lloyd George has declared that the war was a race between Von Hindenburg and Wilson, in which the latter had won, these Republicans think that their critical support is more important than unity of thought and purpose between Congress and the Executive."

"I put it to you squarely without prophecy, how would you act were you an enemy negotiator at the peace conference, which must some day assemble if you know that the President had behind him an adverse majority in Congress? Would you or would you not take advantage of it? Would it or would it not be your duty to take advantage of it? Would you not think it an entrance for propaganda? And would you not know that all the nations associated with us in the war, every one of whom must in the nature of things have their negotiators backed by a friendly majority in their respective legislatures, would feel there was a weakness in our case which took away from the weight and authority with which the representatives of the United States would otherwise at that time speak?"

7 YANKS DOWN 11 GERMAN PLANES

16 RULES FOR D. C. LODGING HOUSES

A suggestion to Washington householders, who would like to rent rooms, but fear the effect of such action on the household, is contained in a set of rules drawn up for conduct of roomers by one Washington woman.

Mrs. E. R. Deary, 1818 E street northeast, says she can assure herself an orderly, well-conducted household by causing each roomer to sign an agreement governing her conduct, before renting a room. Her rules follow:

1. You rent only your own room.
2. You must be in the house before 12 o'clock (midnight) unless permission is received from landlady.
3. You must keep your own room clean and in order, put trash in receptacle provided, and carry your own water.
4. You furnish your own blankets and linen, sheets, pillow-slips, scarfs, and aprons.
5. One hot bath per week as scheduled by landlady.
6. Absolutely no washing, cooking, or light housekeeping allowed on premises.
7. Must be careful of gas and hot water.
8. Men are not allowed in rooms.
9. No photographs allowed.
10. Long distance calls only in case of emergency, and by permission of landlady. City calls, 5 cents.
11. Arrangements must be made with landlady to call for and return washing when you are at home.
12. Your laundry must be left outside your door upon the day laundry is to be called for, and all arrangements must be made with him concerning payment of bills.
13. All rates paid semi-monthly, advance, unless otherwise agreed.
14. No boisterous, disorderly conduct allowed on premises, or any loitering at night on steps, at gate, in vestibule, or yard.
15. No nails to be driven in walls, only light-weight tacks.
16. Each inmate is expected to be considerate of the rights of others.

TO CUT D. C. FOOD PRICES AND WASTE

A campaign to conserve food and stamp out profiteering in the National Capital is in full swing today under the direction of the District Food Council, and Clarence R. Wilson, District food chief.

Plans for action were projected last night at a meeting of the Food Council in the District Building.

The committee on markets, transportation and distribution has started a survey of the food situation in Washington as a basis for a conservative and anti-profiteering platform.

The most price committee will investigate the present high prices of meat, with the intention of lowering them for the "ultimate consumer."

Publicity will be given the campaign by the war department in connection with the activities of the Food Council and the District Food Administration.
