

New Jersey Driver Threat Only Rosewall Will Turn Pro, Paper Predicts

The success of several area race drivers this season notwithstanding, Charlie Dyer, 36-year-old diesel engineer of North Bergen, N. J., is given an excellent chance of winning the 500-lap race for strictly production pleasure cars at Marlboro Motor Raceway Sunday afternoon.

A purse of $1,000 to the winner and a total prize list amounting to $3,500, richest stakes ever offered at the track, is expected to lure the best drivers in the East.

Time trials are set for 11:30 a.m. with the big race scheduled to go off at 1 o'clock.

Dyer, who has been driving midwets, modified and sportsman stocks and more recently, late-model stock cars, has been racing for nine years. He has five major victories this year. The latest on the Grand National Circuit was a 500-lapper at 1/2 mile, R. I. He won out over two top-rated drivers, Bobby Devine of Washington, Conn., and Jocko Magriacoma of Foughkeepsie, N. Y.

These three, all driving 1965 Chevrolts, will be faced with stiff competition from area drivers, led by Bill Morgan of Annandale in a 1952 Hudson Hornet.

Other Marlboro favorites expected to be on hand include Nace Mattingly, Elmo Langley, Jim and Mack Hanbury, Bud Phelps, Gene Marohl, Ray Hackett, Lou Spears, Volney Schults and Ray Barbour.

Fishing is right at its height in Chesapeake Bay waters these days. Large schools of small bluefish are still feeding in the Bay. Plenty of trout are still taking baits. Spot and large white perch are biting vigorously. Even the rockfish are beginning to feed in schools, appearing in the early morning and just before dark. The weather during the week has been about as fine as one could wish it. We believe the late fishing season this year will be long remembered as one of the best.

It is still too warm for the pike to be hitting in brackish waters, although a few cool nights should start them off. Plenty of anglers prefer casting for them to all other sports, although more and more are seeking rockfish by the same method instead of trolling. Skiff anglers are learning that they don't have to go way off shore to catch most species and that they can get into good fishing spots into which larger boats dare not venture. We've long been an advocate of small boat fishing, because of the freedom of action it gives and the closer companionship with fellow anglers. However, we do not by any means decry angling from larger boats, which make for longer trips, larger parties and a whole of a lot of excitement when in the fish, where no small boat can follow because of the safety factor. Each has its place in the hearts of anglers.

Fresh water fishing also has picked up this week. Old Atlas of Atlas Sports Store showed us a freak bait that he dreamed up and found extremely effective on large-mouth bass. Using one of the cork-bodied surface popping bugs with rubber legs and feather streamers, he placed a single, small Indiana spinner ahead of it and enough weight

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 14 (AP)—Sydney's sporting press was predicting today that Ken Rosewall and Lew Hoad, "the terrible twins" of Australian tennis, are at last to be split up.

Rosewall and Hoad, who won back the Davis Cup from the United States in August, are considering $50,000 offers from Jack Kramer, American tennis promoter, to turn professional.

The Sydney Morning Herald forecast today that Rosewall, a little man who plays tennis in a big way, will accept. But his beefy Hoad, the paper said, will bludgeon his way through amateur tournaments for at least another year. Hoad is now in Melbourne, where he said he would discuss the professional offer with his parents and his wife, the former Jennifer Staley. But he gave a hint of his intentions at a civic reception for the Davis Cup team in Sydney Town Hall yesterday.

Hoad said: "I hope, if we lose the Davis Cup again, I might be a member of the team to go over and get it back."

Kramer Still 'in Dark'

About Aussie Pair

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 14 (AP)—Tennis Promoter Jack Kramer says he is "as much in the dark as anyone else" over the prospects of Australia's Davis Cup stars, Lew Hoad and Ken Rosewall, joining his coming professional tour with the United States champion, Tony Trabert.

Kramer was advised that Hoad had indicated in Australia that he might continue as an amateur. "That's a switch," Kramer said yesterday. "I thought that if either decided to stay amateur, it would be Rosewall."

"I did feel strongly when they left America that both would turn pro and play for me, although neither has, of course, signed a contract."

"But I hope both will come with me. One is acceptable but they would be more valuable as a team. One thing is for sure, they don't have much time to work on. I must make my move soon."

Kramer, who must make definite tour plans soon, set October 17 as the deadline for the decision from the two Aussies.

WITH THE HIGH SCHOOLS

By DICK SLAY

Several Western High football fans made the trip to Memphis, Tenn., in August to watch Warren Jenkins play end for the East team in the annual All-American Schoolboy classic. One of the rooters brought back this tale:

Jenkins played the entire game except for one play and he probably saved a 21-14 victory for the East when he threw the West passer for a 15-yard loss on the last play of the game with the ball on the East 4-yard line.

On the one play Jenkins missed, the West team ran his end for a 50-yard gain. That's what we were told and we haven't uncovered any information to the contrary.

Warren, 6-foot-2 and 180 pounds in high school, was All-High in 1953 and All-Metropolitan last fall. He is attending the University of Mississippi, where he is playing freshman football.

News of other graduated Washington players finds Tremain Finch, Tech halfback, at Mercersburg Military Academy in Pennsylvania and Stan Robinson, Armstrong tackle, on the frosh team at Michigan State.

Finch received a scholarship to Princeton but was advised to prep for a year at Mercersburg. Princeton, which was more interested in Tremaine's pole vaulting (12 feet, 4 inches in practice), may be shocked to learn that he dislocated his shoulder in Mercersburg's opening football game and is out for the season.

Tommy Dean and George Young, teammates on those good Sidwell Friends clubs in the late 1940s, are coaching high school football. Dean, an outstanding quarterback at Friends and later at Bucknell, has the job at William Penn High in Harrisburg, Pa. Young, formerly a tackle for the Quakers, handles the Calvert Hall team in Baltimore.

Joe Gallagher, whose St. John's team goes to Baltimore Sunday to play Calvert Hall, reports that Young has done a fine job. "It's one of the best teams I've seen in a long time," Gallagher said.

after scouting Calvert's 7-0 defeat by Patterson Park last Monday.

Nat Allbright returns tomorrow to broadcast the Washington-Lee football game over Radio Station WEAM. He also will announce the Wakefield games, which are being carried in entirety for the first time. Nat was under contract to the Brooklyn Baseball Network during the summer. This is the fifth year that W-L games are being broadcast.

That 42-0 licking at Hopewell last Friday was the worst in George Washington's history. Previous high (or low) was a five-touchdown defeat by Peterborough in the early 1940s. Hopewell was a surprisingly small team, reports Rasty Doran, GW athletic director.

Dave Leffler, Washington-Lee's left halfback, again is tied for the Virginia State Group I scoring lead, now at 42 points, with Don Whitley, Jefferson senior of Roanoke, and Ronnie Ballard, E. C. Glass of Lynchburg. Leffler's two touchdowns against Hermitage last Friday were yielded by a team which was unscathed on up to that point.

The prediction department last week was correct on 26 games and wrong on seven, and there was one tie and a cancellation. Coupled with results of the previous week, the score now reads 49 right, 15 wrong and three ties for a 77 per cent average, a slight improvement.

Armstrong over Anacostia, Wilson over Columbia (and Tech), Southern over Chambliss, Eastern over Phelps, Western over Dunbar, Carver over Ball, London over Baltimore, Friends, St. Paul's over Friends, St. Albans over Northern Prep and Landon over Georgetown Prep.

Washington-Lee over Fort Monmouth (Tyr), Lane over Mount Vernon, Fairfax over Highland Springs, Oakburn over Warrenton, Parker-Gray over Manassas Regional, Walker-Grant over Luther Jackson, Bethesda-Cherry Chase over Sullyland, Bladenburg over High Point, Laurel over Charlotte Hall, Galtersburg over Galtersburg and Carver over Boys Club.

Roosevelt over Northwood, Baltimore Southern over Tech, Blair over Allentown, Sherwood over Harper's Ferry, Chesapeake over La Plata, George Mason over Richard Montgomery, Thomas Jefferson over George Washington, Wakefield over Falls Church, Annandale over Beltsville, Herndon over Loudoun County, Gar-Field over St. Stephen's, Fishburne over Episcopal, Navy Prep over Bulls and Fort Union over Columbia Prep, St. John's over Calvert Hall, Cousins over Carroll, Falls Church over Episcopal, B.

Gino Marchetti Put On Reserve List

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14 (AP)—The Baltimore Colts, a man under the player's limit after putting End Gino Marchetti on the injured reserve list yesterday, today announced the signing of Halfback Burrell Shelds, an offensive specialist dropped earlier by the Pittsburgh Steelers, miss Sunday's clash with the Shields, from John Carroll Chicago Bears.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1955

University, was used in reserve by the Steelers last season. Marchetti, 6-foot-4, 245-pound defensive star, suffered a dislocated shoulder in the Colts' 24-20 victory over Green Bay last Saturday night. Joe Campanella, defensive guard, suffered a knee injury in the same game and will miss Sunday's clash with the Chicago Bears.
