WALLINGFORD, THE PATH OF THE TORNADO, Special Dispatch to The Tribune, NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—A Times special from Wallingford, Conn., says no man who has not looked upon the ruin wrought in this place by the storm of Friday can conceive of the terrible force with which the elements beat upon the plains of Wallingford during the few moments that elapsed.

THE CLOUDS GREW DARKER toward 5 o'clock, when the workmen about the village left the factories and the mills, and started for their homes, the wires about the premises for their returning husbands, and only a passing glance was cast toward the murky clouds that rolled over the western hills.

At 5:30 o'clock they had become intensely black. Still there was no sense of impending danger. The utter stillness that precedes many thunderstorms settled down in the valley just before 6 o'clock. All the wind seemed to have died away, but a few wisps of smoke were seen to rise from the chimneys.

WASHINGTON, ANOTHER TORNADO, Special Dispatch to The Tribune, WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 10.—Washington was visited by two very severe storms, heavy rain and strong winds, with intervals of calm.

SCANDAL, A St. Louis Clergyman Accidentally Exposed in His Career of Licentiousness, ST. LOUIS, Aug. 10.—For over two weeks, Notary Watts has been engaged in taking depositions in what is known as the Chambers-Dameron suit.

then told me that Logan D. Dameron was the father of the child. I asked if he had advised her to get this medicine. She said "No." I asked her who told her. She said a cook in Mr. Dameron's kitchen told her, and she tried to recall to my mind the way she got the medicine.

Q.—Now, have you stated, as near as you can recollect, this conversation with Miss Robinson with reference to the paternity of the child. A.—Yes, sir; every word that I can recollect. I remember now I asked her if Mr. Dameron promised to do something for her, and she said she had promised to support her.

Q.—Did you have any further conversation with her? A.—No, sir. She was not in her right mind after that, so she never came back to see me. Q.—Will you please talk to me about the child.

Q.—After the child was born, and Dr. Pallen was told who the father of the child was, his response was that he would do nothing for her. Q.—Did you see the child? A.—Yes, I saw the child, and I saw the mother.
