PROTECT BUSINESS. CALDER'S SLOGAN

Representative Attacks Wilson at Meeting of Suffolk Republicans.

Riverhead, Long Island, July 28.—What the country needs is a safety first society for business interests, said Representative William M. Calder, of Brooklyn, at a gathering here today of Suffolk County Republicans to select delegates to the unofficial state convention at Saratoga.

Mr. Calder, who is seeking the Republican nomination for United States Senator, severely criticized the Wilson administration and the methods of Secretary Bryan.

Mr. Calder, he said, "a society for the preservation of our business institutions. Just as important to the country at large as abolishment of grade crossings is to Suffolk County the abolition of the knowledge and regardless of consequences."

Ex-Representative William W. Cooke, of Old Westbury, Nassau County, who was beaten four years ago in the gubernatorial election, said he believed this would be a Republican year; at any rate, for those who are backed by the Colonel. But Mr. Will- iam Cooke, of Huntington, said no Republican ought to vote for Mr. Cooke or any other man who dabbled with the Bull Moose.

Ex-Senate Senator W. H. McKelvey's resignation declaring the unofficial convention contrary to the spirit of the direct primary law was defeated.

Mr. Thomas M. Hanson, of New York, at the head of a delegation of twenty-one women, asked that women be admitted to the Saratoga convention and ex-Senator George L. Thompson, of Kings Park, from the 21 District.

The estate of the late Professor Morris Loeb, scientist and philanthropist, was appraised yesterday at a net value of $2,148,042, almost all of which is to go immediately or ultimately to public institutions. Bertram G. Goodhue, formerly of the firm of Cram, Goodhue & Ferguson, has been selected to draw the plans for the new York building at the Panama Exposition, Brooklyn.

The short time intervening before work will have to be begun on the building prevented competition for the commission. Instead, a joint meeting of the architects in the city and in the League and the New York chapter of the American Institute of Architects was called and three members were nominated for the position. Mr. Goodhue was selected from this group.

FIREMAN'S BRIDE-TO-BE BEGS FOR "HOURS AT HOME" RULE

Miss Connolly and Wives of Department's Fighters Plead with Commissioner Adamson for Two Platoon System.

When our life is lonely and hard, sometimes I prepare a dinner of things that I think my husband would like and then he does not get home.

Among others in the delegation were Mrs. John Hill, of 1128 Tiffany st., The Bronx; Mrs. Martin G. Manure, of 1074 st.; Mrs. J. Schwartz, of 104 Nelson av.; Mrs. Charles Fenner, of 725 East 149th st.; and Mrs. J. Higgins, of 1196 Park av.

After the hearing the Commissioner decided to break his mind on the proposition, but hoped to have a letter from the Mayor early next month.

Mrs. P. H. Krauer, of 901 Morris st., The Bronx, who styled herself the "central" of the delegation, not only made a speech, but also presented a written plea, which described the life lived by the families of firemen.

They confessed that their life is filled with worry and that they should receive as much consideration at the hands of the city as the policemen, who have the two platoon system.

WANTS OIL BALM FOR CHINESE HURT

Owner of Injured Finger Would Sue Standard for Cook's Act.

Is a hotel porter a domestic servant, and as such is he excluded from the protection of the workmen's compensation law? This question came up before the State Industrial Commission yesterday. Decision was postponed until Monday.

The case involved is that of James Herson, a porter, formerly in the employ of the Hotel King James in West 43d street. He was washing windows, Herson fell four stories and was killed. His widow, Mrs. Alice Herson, claims $130 a month for life.

The commission is not included in any of the occupations named in the law as hazardous and that he is excluded as a domestic servant.

By far the oddest claim presented to the commission is that of James Hill, of 63 Ferris st., Brooklyn, to whom permission was granted to file a suit against the Standard Oil Company on condition that he submit to an examination by Dr. Loughran and accept the results of the serious nature of his injuries.

Bab asks for compensation on the ground that he has an infected finger, caused by a pinman jumping on it. The pinman is now in the China steamer Powhatan, which was undergirding repairs at the yards of the Robbins Dry Dock and Repair Company, where Bab is employed.

The ruling of the commission makes it possible for an injured workman in the courts, to go to the commission to demand an award against his own employer or the insurance company carrying liability insurance for that employer.

CUPID WINS AFTER MANY REVERSES

Wedding Postponed Three Times — Californian Finally Weds Jersey Girl.

New Providence, N. J., July 28.—After three postponements Mrs. Jane Christopherson, of Berkeley Heights, and Robert M. Elson, of Santa Cruz, Cal., were married here this afternoon.

EMANCIPATION FOR "LITTLE MOTHERS"

Girls Bowed by Too Early Responsibilities to Get Needed Rest.

WILL SAIL DOWN BAY TO FREEDOM

This is Emancipation Day for "little mothers." The name given to those girls who at the age of ten to sixteen years are compelled to become the housekeepers and home-makers of their families.

At an age when they should be learning to conserve their strength, and when their minds should be developing under the stimulus of that which is inspiring and the struggle of housework beyond their powers and with the constant care of younger children.

But to-day one hundred of them are being freed from the quiet country, the washing of pots and kettles, the mopping of floors and the stilling of little ones' cries.

They are going to begin the two weeks of freedom to the glorious salt water bay to Atlantic Highlands, past the islands and the forts, past the Statue of Liberty, through the Narrows, out across the wide waters of the bay.

WOMEN TO GO ON BALLOT

Constitutional Convention to Be Final Judge, Says Carmody

Albany, July 28.—The names of women candidates for delegates to the Constitutional Convention may be placed on official ballots and voted for, but the convention itself will be the final judge of the qualifications of its members, including any women who may be elected.

This is the gist of the answer Attorney General Carmody gave to-day to the inquiry as to whether women should participate in the deliberations of the convention.

For more than a week summer residents here have lived in terror of two wild alligators who escaped from William Hart's place. Parties hunting them have been going five miles for a dip rather than take chances.

Stories regarding the enormous size of the saurians and their bloodthirsty habits have been rife, but to no avail. Louis Hellman, armed to the teeth, came on one of the reptiles asleep by the lake. It made a savage attempt to escape, but Hellman was too much for it.

Daunting straight for the fugitive alligator Hellman presented the muzzle of his rifle at the enemy and pulled the trigger. The explosion almost raised the reptile out of the water, but it soon floated dead as drift-wood.

Hellman and a crowd dragged the alligator out on the shore. He measured more than 10 feet in length and weighed 150 pounds.

HAVEMEYER WANTS $769

Sugar Man Asks Township to Pay for Ducks Killed.

Hackensack, July 28.—H. O. Havemeyer, the sugar man, whose estate is in the town of Ramapo, Bergen County, complains about one-half of Hoboken Township, and is asking $769, has sent a bill to the township for $769, representing the value placed upon nine blue ducks, worth $75 each, two dozen pheasants, valued at $6 each, and half a dozen geese, worth $25 each.

The fowl were killed by wild dogs, a number of which are said to infest the Ramapo Mountains. Mr. Havemeyer's lawyer holds that the township committee is responsible for permitting the dogs to run at large.

The township committee realizes that $769 is a lot of money for dead ducks, pheasants and geese, so the bill was sent to the State Fish and Game Commission at Trenton.

MUZZLE YOUR DOG, IS FIRST WARNING

The Health Department Amends Sanitary Code by Unanimous Vote.

THREE BITTEN BY MONGREL IN BRONX

Nine Victims in Two Jersey Towns—Baby Attacked by Pet Hound.

What was intended to be a long step in advance in the prevention of rabies was taken yesterday by the Department of Health, when the following amendment to the Sanitary Code was unanimously adopted:

"No unmuzzled dog shall be permitted at any time to be on any public highway or in any public park or place in the City of New York."

The officials in charge of the enforcement of the Sanitary Code are the Health Officer of the Port, the Police Commissioner and the Health Commissioner. Speaking for them, Dr. H. Emerson, Deputy Commissioner in the Department of Health, said this amendment did not mean that a wide crusade would be started at once, but that the people who own dogs must be prepared for stringent regulation.

It is the intention of those in charge, he said, to include in the budget a request for an appropriation sufficient to employ a squad to see that the dogs are muzzled. We do not wish to turn this work over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, because that organization does not recognize rabies as anything but the result of imagination. The work must be done by duly chosen officers.

After biting one man, a mongrel ran several blocks through the Bronx last night, biting two others on the way and attacking 300 persons to a chase. The animal's capture was ended by two bullets from a detective's revolver.

Three Men Bitten. Henry Brautser, of 3288 Hill avenue, was the first victim. He was on his way home at Moshulu Parkway and 24th st. when the animal sprang at him and sunk its teeth into his leg four times. Driven away by another man, the dog ran west, with several small boys in pursuit.

At Valentine avenue Henry S. Dreier, of 2927, turned the corner just as the dog came along. His leg was severely bitten before the animal fled before the pursuing crowd. Changing its course, the dog soon reached Villa avenue and 208th st., where Stefano Atza, of 3124 Villa avenue, also was bitten.

The delay proved fatal to the animal. Before it could get out of Bronx Detective Johnson, of the Bronx Park station, had fired two bullets that did the work. The carcass was taken to the morgue for examination by the board of health.

Dr. Jennings, of Fordham Hospital, attended the three victims of the animal.

Mad Dog Bites Nine. Montclair, N. J., July 28.—A mad dog bit nine persons here to-day. Four were sent immediately to the Pasteur Institute for treatment; the others are in other hospitals. The dog is now in the hands of the police.

The dog was first seen in Bloomfield last night. Frothing at the mouth, he attacked several dogs. Then he jumped on the back of a man, who was carrying a child. He bit the man's arm and back, tearing the flesh badly. He then sprang at Emil Richter, a dog, and bit him on the neck. Next he jumped on the back of Raffaele Negro. In fighting the dogs Negro's left arm and back were badly torn.

The animal then turned on the man who had turned up in Montclair. His first victim here was Lorenzo Marell, bitten in the back; then Angelo Curia, on the breast, and Musio Cavaliero.

The first three were treated at the Mountaineer Hospital and directed to go to the Pasteur Institute at once. The animal ran to the stable of Peter Seola and jumped on one of the horses, biting its legs and body. Policeman John McLaughlin followed the dog and killed it.

From The Tribune Correspondent. Washington, N. J., July 28.—Crawling under the kitchen table to get a pound that had been a favorite of children, a three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Ryan, to-day was attacked by the animal and bitten so savagely that she will be in the hospital for some time. As soon as the father learned of the attack he returned home and shot the dog.

The little girl's mother was about her work when she heard the scream of the child and the growl of the dog. She rushed into the room and beat the animal away, but not before Helen's cheeks and one of her eyelids had been pierced by the animal's teeth.

Court Holds He Need Not Testify in Gas Accounting.

Justice Blackman, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, vacated yesterday an order directing William Rockefeller to submit to examination before trial in an action brought for an accounting by the Brooklyn Union Gas Company, against the corporation.

Mr. Rockefeller's suit calls for an accounting of $7,000,000 which he contends should have been returned to the stockholders, but which he alleged was concealed from the Public Service Commission "in an attempt to deceive the Legislature of 1905 as to the cost of producing gas."

DARKNESS CAUSES PANIC

Shrieks Fill House Office Building During Storm.

Washington, July 28.—During a heavy storm which struck Washington last night every light in the House Office Building and adjacent buildings went out and the more nervous of the several hundred young women employed there shrieked that the building had been struck by lightning.

The building remained in comparative darkness after fifteen minutes, and the women employed groped their way along the walls seeking the exit. Representatives Britton and Tanner bumped heavily against each other and forgot their political differences as they followed along the walls to an elevator.

Lightning did not hit the building, but something as strong as a powerful house when the storm was at its height.
