STARVATION SEEN FOR INDIAN TRIBES

Removal of Federal Restrictions in Oklahoma Area Held Start of Suffering.

WASHINGTON, D.C., April 15—Seven deaths from starvation and more than 7,000 cases of malnutrition were reported among Oklahoma Indians in the past year. This information was revealed yesterday at a United Nations Emergency Food Conference in this city by Mrs. Frances Perkins, head of the Department of Labor.

Mrs. Perkins disclosed that the Oklahoma Indians, who number about 16,000, have not had food in their diet sufficient for the prevention of scurvy. The United Nations Emergency Food Conference, opening today, is expected to pass on a recommendation that the federal government provide adequate food supplies for the Indians and others in similar plight.

It's Cherry Blossom Time in

KENWOOD

The Beautiful

It is springtime: the cherry trees are in bloom. The beauty of the cherry blossoms is matched by the beauty of the homes of Kenwood. The homes are well-maintained, with abundant greenery and well-manicured lawns. The trees are in full bloom, and the scenery is breathtaking. Kenwood is the perfect place to spend a beautiful spring day.
