LONDON BANKERS ASK MORE TIME TO MEET LOAN

Urge McKenna to Extend Period on War Issue Subscriptions.

London, July 5.—Leading British bankers urged on Chancellor McKenna privately tonight the absolute necessity of postponing the payment of war loan subscriptions as long as possible—at least until July 20, instead of the 15th.

The banks have already begun to call in all loans, with the result that money was tighter in the city to-day than there has been for some time.

Their view is that it is impossible to expect American subscriptions while the tax is enforced, with the effect that the yield is only 3.00 per cent.

Another point which bankers took up with the Chancellor was the question of the British income tax for foreign loan holders.

Miss Jane Addams, returned from the woman's peace conference at The Hague, greeted by Miss Lillian Wald, who climbed aboard the St. Louis to meet her.

Intervention Only Can Stop War, She Believes, Though People Are Ready to Lay Down Arms.

By ELEANOR BOOTH SIMMONS.

It was a fierce welcome that the elements gave Miss Jane Addams when she returned yesterday morning to her native land from her errand of peace at The Hague.

"Do you see the end of the war?" I asked. "No," she answered, "how could I? But I see that the time has come for intervention, and it is only by intervention that the war will be ended."

"Time Ripe for Intervention." "Was there ever," I persisted, "any indication on their part of that feeling?"

Lugano, July 5.—The German-Swiss frontier is still hermetically closed.

That these measures are taken to prevent information regarding the vast movements of troops is confirmed in part by the fact that the Germans have shut down the Steublingen-Immensing railway, which runs along the Swiss frontier.

GEN. HAMILTON PUTS TURK DEAD AT 5,150

British Destroyer Wipes Out Half a Battalion—Turks Who Desert Trenches Shot.

London, July 5.—The Official Press Bureau to-night issued the following report from General Sir Ian Hamilton, covering the recent operations in the Dardanelles:

"About 2 a. m. (date not given) the searchlights of the destroyer Scorpion discovered half a Turkish battalion advancing near the sea to the northwest of Krithia. The Scorpion opened fire and a few of the enemy got away."

"Simultaneously the enemy attacked a knoll which we had captured, due west of Krithia, advancing in close formation in several lines."

"The operations reflect great credit on the vigilance and accurate shooting of the Scorpion. The Turkish losses are estimated at from 1,500 to 2,500 dead."

"About 10 p. m. on June 30 the Turks again attacked with bombs a portion of the most northerly trench captured by us on the 28th."

"About dawn the Turks once more attempted to attack over the open, but nearly the whole of these attacking forces, about half a battalion, were shot down, and a final bomb attack, though commenced, failed utterly."

Turk Attack Broken. "Further reports from the Australian and New Zealand corps concerning the enemy's attacks on the 29th and 30th."

"The Turkish officers could be seen endeavoring to get their men forward, but they would not face the fire, and retreated in disorder after suffering heavy casualties."

"After checking and counter-checking the reports from all sources, I put down their total casualties between June 28 and July 2 at 5,150 killed and 15,000 wounded."

"Shoot All Who Surrender." "Following is an extract from captured divisional orders: 'There is nothing that causes us to spare any man who surrenders.'"

30th on our right flank state that the action was commenced with a very heavy fire, from midnight until 1:30 a. m., to which our men only replied by a series of cheers.

"Following the defeat of this attack the enemy attacked at 3 a. m. on our left, and thirty men came over the parapets in front of the right of Queen's post. These were fully polished off."

"Ever Pacha Ordered Assault." "Prisoners brought in state that three fresh battalions were employed in the main attack, which was made by personal order of Ever Pacha (the Turkish War Minister), who, as they definitely assert, was present in the trenches on June 29. This is confirmed by the statement of an intelligent Armenian prisoner captured on that date."

"On July 2, after a heavy bombardment of our advanced positions by high explosives and shrapnel, lasting half an hour, the enemy infantry advanced, but were driven back to the main nullah, about a mile from our front, by the accurate shooting of the Scorpion and by our rifle and machine gun fire."

"At the outset a very effective shrapnel fire from the 10th Battery, Royal Field Artillery, caused great confusion among the attacking forces. Gurkha supports then advanced, and there being insufficient room in the trenches, took up a position on some excavated earth in the rear, from which a deadly rifle fire was poured into the advancing lines."

more sorrow, increases the courage of the enemy and encourages him to attack more freely, causing us great losses than the losing of these trenches. Henceforth commanders who surrender these trenches, from whatever side the attack may come, before the last man is killed will be punished in the same way as if they had fled. Especially will the commanders of units told off to guard a certain front be punished, if, instead of thinking about their work, supporting their units and giving information to the higher command, they only take action after a regrettable incident has taken place.

"I hope this will not occur again. I give notice that if it does I shall carry out the punishment. I do not desire to see a blot made on the courage of our men by those who escape from the trenches to avoid the rifle and machine gun fire of the enemy. Henceforth I shall hold responsible all officers who do not shoot with their revolvers all privates who try to escape from the trenches on any pretext."
