Dorothy Dalton, Cabaret Singer, in New Picture.

While she appears in a considerable portion of her new Paramount picture, "Quicksand," as a cabaret singer, Dorothy Dalton the beautiful Thomas H. Ince star, is in reality cast for the role of the devoted wife who only adopts this character in order to support herself and strive for some means of learning the truth concerning her husband, who is falsely accused of crime.

This is the substance of the forceful drama that John Lynch and R. Cecil Smith have prepared for the star, whose ability to enact an emotional role is well-known. Victor Schertzinger, acknowledged to be one of the most talented of directors, made the picture and Mr. Ince supervised the production throughout as is his wont. Ed Coxen is leading man and there is a superior cast in his support.

Alice Joyce in "Everybody's Girl" at the Garden.

There is plenty of action in the picture, albeit it is a love story that runs almost true to form. Miss Joyce is not much given to stunts, but she does one in this picture that would delight Bill Duncan of serial fame. She is trapped on the upper deck of a pleasure steamship by a fire sweeping from stem to stern and she leaps into the water, to be promptly rescued.

That is a real thrill, as is the entire scene with its panic-stricken hundreds fighting for a chance to drown. Another tense scene is when a gunman, after a street battle, seeks refuge in her room. Terrified at first, she sees the man is not all bad. She hides his gun in her work basket, and when the police break in she assures them he is her brother, Bill. The cops know better, but the girl's loveliness and appeal saves Bill.

Miss Joyce is Florence, who trims hats and lives in a furnished room in Brick Dust Row. The owner sublets the parlors and she has to meet her men friends in the parks or on the street corners or anywhere. Hence, her nickname, "Everybody's Girl." She plays no favorites. Trusts her male friends until they show a yellow streak and meets most of them only once.

The Garden's Serial, "Fight for Millions" Today.

Outlaw cunning, remarkable riding and an amazing leap on horseback across a chasm are only a few of the thrills which come thick and fast in the fifth episode of "A Fight for Millions," Vitagraph's greatest of all adventure serials, which will be shown at the Garden theatre today. Edith Johnson and William Duncan, heroine and hero are both seen at their best and are most ably supported by a score of champion cowboys.

The action starts at Devil's Thumb, a wild mountain peak, off which Miss Johnson leaps to escape the outlaws using her khaki skirt as a parachute, and the chase leads to a mountain cabin whether she is decoyed and subsequently rescued after a series of thrilling encounters between Lawless and his bandit gang and Bob Hardy and his staunch supporters.
