DRINK CURE INSTITUTIONS PLAN TO CLOSE

Chicago, May 2.—Plans are being made by owners of more than two hundred drink institutions to discontinue business with the coming of national prohibition, according to officials of institutions here. A few of the places may continue indefinitely as drug sanitariums, but a large majority is expected to close within a year.

James E. Bruce, an official of a drink cure corporation that advertises it, has cured more than 500,000 victims of alcohol, said the prohibition wave had for some time caused decreased business.

"We figure that there will be no use for our institutions after the country goes dry," he said. "However, we expect business to increase for a few months right after prohibition becomes effective. But after that it will rapidly decrease."

A few years ago we had sixty branches in operation throughout the country. Today we have 25. Drug cases constitute about 25 per cent of our business, the number being about the same as before the Harrison anti-drug law went into effect five years ago. But we do not think it would pay to continue treating drug cases alone.

"Adoption of bone dry prohibition by a number of states has decreased business in many sections. Business also fell off during the war, but last fall it picked up again at about the time of the influenza epidemic and has been fairly good ever since."

An official of one of the oldest chains of drink cures in the country expressed the view their institutions would remain open for at least a year after the coming of national prohibition. He admitted that beyond that the future was uncertain. Two years ago this concern operated fifty branches. Today the number has been reduced to fewer than twenty. He said a few of the branches might be continued permanently for drug users who, since the passing of the Harrison anti-drug law, "are confined largely to the wealthy class and residents of the underworld."

SOUTH FLORIDA LAWMAKERS GET IN SQUABBLE

DESIGNATION OF GOVERNMENT RESERVATION FOR SEMINOLE INDIANS IS CAUSE OF HEATED ARGUMENT.

(By HERBERT FELKEL)

Tallahassee, May 2.—Senators Hulley and Malone locked horns again Thursday on the former's bill to vest in the United States government the title to a proposed Seminole Indian reservation in the former's district, composed of Monroe and Lee counties. Senator Malone insisted that he did not want the "dirty and lawless barbarians concentrated" in his district, and Senator Hulley was as equally determined to put them there. Before the debate was terminated the professor-senator plainly showed his anger and by his frequent disregard for the usages of parliamentary practice, senators said, lost friends for the bill he championed. The senate was under the impression that the bill was on third reading and final passage and the debate would precede a vote on the measure, but the secretary discovered an amendment that had not been engrossed in the bill, and Senator Moore, presiding, ruled that the bill would have to go to the engrossing committee. Senator Hulley demanded an explanation as to why the amendment had not been engrossed and the bill properly referred. Senator Moore handed the situation with marked ability and with a head as cool as the proverbial cucumber, sent the bill to the engrossing room with Dr. Hulley insisting that he did not want any more mistakes to occur.

Senator Malone said he feared the reservation would be a hiding place for criminals and be branded the bill, in his opinion, an iniquitous piece of legislation. Senator Hulley believed it to be a righteous bill and wanted it understood distinctly that he was not fathoming any iniquitous laws in this legislature.

TWO RUNAWAYS IN GERMAN TOGS ARE FIRST IN COBLENZ

Coblentz, May 2.—Two American soldiers who went ahead of the army of occupation during its march across Rhenish Prussia last December, donned German army uniforms and had a series of thrilling adventures, after a court martial recently were sentenced to twenty years at hard labor. The men, both privates, were charged with desertion in addition to eight other offenses connected with their runaway trip.

According to the testimony brought out at the court martial both men spoke a little German, and after going ahead of the advancing troops, fell in with a number of German soldiers, also deserters. The Germans had stolen a lot of food, wearing apparel and other articles of value, and witnesses said, induced the Americans to assist the Germans in rescuing the stolen property from the catch.

The two privates, Frederick Richman and Frank Richards, probably were the first Americans to enter Coblentz, as they were more than a week ahead of the schedule of the third army in its march toward the Rhine. It was in a suburb of Coblentz that the Germans had hidden their booty—in the basement of a German woman's house. In some way the Coblentz police heard of the thefts and for several days and nights had guards watching for the thieves to appear to cart away their loot.

When two supposedly German soldiers appeared one night with sacks and started to pack up the articles and refused to heed repeated German commands to "halt," the German police began to fire. One man fell wounded in the arm, and the other, after a chase, was caught. When the two were taken to the German police station it was discovered they were Americans and they were held until officers of the American army arrived.

Under the circumstances, after an investigation, the Americans decided not to make any charge against the German policeman who had shot Richman.
