CAPITAL-LABOR CONFERENCE TO BEGIN ALL OVER

ican building where the conference is to present the letter to Mr. Lane. The brief session today, the chairman said the conference would not finish its work and that the leaders of the three groups—capital, labor and the public—had decided to frame a new and comprehensive program, involving all industrial issues of a general nature. It was understood reference to the specific issue that has caused the present situation would be avoided.

While there was no talk of bolting the conference, several members of the labor group plainly were impatient. Delegates in the public group, however, were confident the labor representatives would not leave the conference but would seek to press the advantage gained through having succeeded in to line with them on every important issue thus far introduced.

It developed today that the employers are far from agreeing among themselves on a declaration regarding collective bargaining despite their efforts to reach a common understanding at conference yesterday and last night. Some members of the group were said to favor standing by the substitute already introduced, but others urged that a new proposal be submitted.

Among the resolutions introduced at the session of the conference, this morning was one by L. T. Loree, of the capital group, urging a declaration in favor of the employers furnishing insurance policies covering the five major hazards, sickness, accident, unemployment, superannuation and death. Mr. Loree said that such policies would enable the insured to set up an estate with the initial payment would relieve from the fear of want, would give security and independence, and would encourage the habits of thrift.

Under a resolution by T. C. Atkeson, a farmers' delegate in the capital group the conference would declare in favor of the right of farmers to form co-operative marketing organizations in order to maintain the price of their products.

Timothy O'Shea of the Brotherhood of firemen and enginemen took his seat in the labor group today in the place of P. J. McNamara. Mr. Shea said he had been unable to attend the conference heretofore owing to negotiations with the railroad administration.
