

EVERY man wants to live long, but no one wants to grow old

Ponce de Leon thought he could find eternal youth in a drink of water. But neither Florida water nor monkey glands ever helped grandfather climb a tree or play one-old-cat.

Men Who Stay Young—no matter what their age—have found the secret in the clothes they wear.

A suit and overcoat of just the right cut, a cravat with just the right color, a smart, proper collar, a jaunty hat and a cane hung over the arm careless like—this is a combination that makes a man look young and feel younger.

Men, young men and younger men all find supreme satisfaction here.

INCOME-TAX FACTS YOU SHOULD KNOW

This is a series of income-tax stories of informative value to every single person in the United States whose net income for 1919 was $1,000 or more and every married person and head of a family whose net income was $2,000 or more. The taxpayer is told how to make out his income-tax form, when and where to file it, and when and where to pay the tax. Deductions and exemptions to which the taxpayer is entitled are shown, and special attention directed to changes in the rates.

No. 2.

Income-Tax Facts You Should Know. Twenty thousand persons last year paid a fine of $5 each for failure to file an income-tax return for 1918, although their income for that year was not taxable.

The revenue act provides an exemption of $1,000 for single persons, $2,000 for married persons and heads of families, and an additional exemption of $200 for each person dependent upon the taxpayer, if such person is under 18 years of age, or incapable of self-support. The delinquents last year were persons whose income exactly equaled the amount of the exemptions and who considered it unnecessary, therefore, to file a return, and others whose income was non-taxable because of dependents, and who were under a similar mistaken impression.

For example, a single man with a net income of $1,000 was supporting a sister for whom he was allowed an exemption of $200, placing his income in the non-taxable list. For this reason he did not file a return. When his delinquency was discovered through a return filed by his employer, who is required to report payments of $1,000 or more to each employee, he was fined $5.

Must File a Return.

To avoid penalty, every person whose income for the last year equaled or exceeded $1,000 or $2,000, according to their marital status or their status as the head of a family, must file a return. The law makes no exceptions, the penalty for failure being a fine of not more than $1,000.

Head of a Family.

Whether or not a person is the "head of a family" and entitled to a $2,000 exemption is a question to be determined largely by circumstances surrounding each individual case. The fixing of his status decides, in many instances, whether his income is taxable or nontaxable.

A head of a family is defined by treasury regulations as "a person who actually supports and maintains one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for these dependents is based upon some moral or legal obligation." A single person is the head of a family if he is the sole support of relatives living in the same house with him and if he exercises control of household affairs. The words "sole support" are used in the sense that there is no other person to whom the dependents may look for support. Income from other sources, such as interest on bonds, stock dividends, pensions, etc., if meagre enough still to leave the recipient dependent, does not preclude a claim for exemption. Such income, however, must be included in the return of the head of the family.

Can Not Divide Exemption.

The $1,000 additional exemption allowed the head of a family can not be divided between two single members of a household. A division of responsibility excludes the parties from such claim. A single person who does not qualify as the head of a family may still claim an exemption of $200 for each person dependent upon him for support, if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support. A son who has left home but who sends to his mother more than half the sum required for her support is entitled to the $200 exemption, provided the mother can not support herself. Otherwise the amount must be considered as a gift, and, therefore, is not deductible. A son living at home and supporting his mother may claim the $2,000 exemption allowed the head of a family, but not an additional exemption of $200 unless the mother is incapable of self-support.

No Great Act of Heroism Required

If some great act of heroism was necessary to protect a child from croup, no mother would hesitate to protect her offspring, but when it is only necessary to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and give it as soon as the first indication of croup appears, there are many who neglect it. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is within the reach of all and is prompt and effectual.

BICYCLE RACES FOR JULY FOURTH

The bicycle club meeting held last night at Wentworth's bicycle store was well attended by interested cyclists who promise some live sports in the near future. A bicycle race was talked of to take place on the Fourth of July. For this occasion a large and valuable list of prizes will be sought from the manufacturers of bicycles and bicycle parts.

A club run will be enjoyed Sunday afternoon by a large number of the boys, those going to leave Wentworth's shop at 2 o'clock.

An invitation will be extended the cyclists at the high school and the Shipbuilding plant to affiliate themselves with the club.

BIG BUSINESS IN CHIPLEY CIRCUIT COURT

A number of attorneys from the first circuit are in the city today, disposing of a case in which Judge A. G. Campbell is disqualified, and among them is our former townsman, Hon. R. A. McGeachy, state attorney of the first circuit.

The past year has been unusually hard on Judge D. J. Jones, Judge of the ninth circuit. Numbers of cases in which judges in the state are disqualified are brought before him for trial, especially chancery matters.

On account of the volume of business in the circuit, there has been some talk of creating a new circuit to be composed of Holmes and Walton counties. That arrangement would lighten the work on Judge Jones as well as Judge Campbell of the first, who is also, it is said, pressed practically all the time to keep up with the large amount of business coming before him in his circuit. With the great progress being made in Holmes, Washington and Bay counties, which compose the ninth circuit, the matters in the court will become so great within two years where no one judge could possibly be able to handle it with that degree of care necessary, and have a moment of time for recreation and rest.
