WEDNESDAY—Caro-Burpee wedding pastor, Rev. Minor Ross.

MARRIAGE OF MISS LEVY TO CAPTAIN A. D. DANNEHEISSER IN NEW YORK.

Of the marriage of Miss Leone Levy of Malone, N. Y., to Capt. Alvin D. Danneheisser, U. S. A. M. C. of Pensacola the Malone Evening Telegram of January 14 says:

The house decorations, arranged in honor of the wedding, were very attractive and beautiful, pink and white roses, intertwined with green and lilies of the valley, being used in the decorative design in the various apartments of the home.

The bride was beautiful and charming in her traveling costume of navy blue tulle. She wore a hat to match of navy-blue straw, with an outer coat of seal, with collar and cuffs of gray squirrel.

Those present at the wedding ceremony and the dinner which followed were Mrs. Minnie Levy, mother of the bride; Miss Sadie Levy, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Pratt, Joseph Levy, Samuel Levy, of Schenectady, Ralph Levy, sister and brothers of the bride; Benjamin Forchheimer, of Pensacola, Florida, an uncle of the bridegroom, acting in the capacity of best man.

The dinner at the Elks club was a most enjoyable function, where the bride and groom were showered with congratulations during the serving of the elaborate menu. The dinner gowns of georgette and satin worn by the lady guests were very handsome.

The bride has a multitude of friends among young people of Malone and those who have made the acquaintance of Capt. Danneheisser during his brief stay in Malone have formed a high estimate of his soldierly qualities.

Complimenting Miss Mary Faith Yow of Atlanta, the pretty debutante guest of Miss Robble Hyer, Mrs. C. W. Lamar entertained at Five Hundred yesterday afternoon.

Among those playing were Misses Yow, Valerie Leese, Judith Maxwell, Eleanor Mitchell, Virginia Royal, of Boston, Elizabeth Brownson, Elizabeth Aiken, Gertrude Wilcox, Charlotte Sheppard, Beatrice Howe, Elizabeth Dunham and Kohlie Hyer.

BIRTHDAY ROBERT E. LEE CELEBRATED WITH BRILLIANT RECEPTION.

The birthday anniversary of Robert E. Lee was appropriately celebrated yesterday afternoon by sons and daughters of the old and new south who had gathered to pay homage to the memory of that great southern hero.

Two especially pretty features was the presentation of a Cross of Honor to Rev. James D. West, a veteran, by Mrs. Frank D. Tracy, president of the Pensacola chapter, in behalf of the U. S. C., and the presentation to Mrs. Tracy, in recognition of her loyal service as president of the chapter, and thoughtfulness for the veterans and as an expression of their love and esteem, of a beautiful gold pin, bearing the Confederate battle flag, by Mr. C. N. Williams, U. C. V.

A Department for Mothers

Teachers of Small Children

(By Julia Wade Abbott, Specialist in Kindergarten Education, Bureau of Education, Department of the Interior.)

Keep the child at home if he has a fever. Fever is not a disease, it is a symptom. It is nature's danger signal that something is amiss.

Perhaps the child has over-eaten or the wrong food, perhaps there has been high nervous tension, perhaps micro-organisms which produce so-called "colds" are at work, perhaps it is the premonitory sign of measles, whooping cough, scarlet fever, or any other one of the infectious diseases.

Keep the child at home for his sake and the sake of his school fellows. In all cases, save indigestion and nerve strain, you endanger the child and imperil other children.

Keep the child at home that has a ring-worm or any other contagious skin disease.

room with long white ribbons, forming an aisle along which the bridal party proceeded. The ribbons were held by Miss Velma Reaves and Miss Alfredda Parker.

Two matrons-of-honor, Mrs. Lewis T. Smith of DePueville Springs, sister of the groom, and Mrs. J. G. Folmar, of Bonifay, followed the minister down the aisle to the pulpit.

SECHREST-MILLER.

Of cordial interest to friends throughout West Florida will be the following taken from the Bonifay Advertiser: "A very quiet, but beautiful wedding, was solemnized on January the fourteenth, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Miller, when their daughter, Miss Lacey Folmar, became the wife of John Clay Sechrest.

nervous twitchings—a child with nerve disease belongs outdoors. Make a good little animal of him and when he is that he can "catch up" in his studies.

Keep the child at home when there is an epidemic in the neighborhood. Until all women realize that it is no less than criminal to spread disease, mothers must protect their own by keeping them at home in times of danger.

Don't keep the child out of school for visits or visitors. Let him start in school fully equipped the first day and let only sickness or danger cause him to miss a day or an hour.

Keep the child at home that has a ring-worm or any other contagious skin disease.

During the ceremony Schubert's "Serenade" was played softly on the piano.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Sechrest left for a short trip to Georgia.

Only the immediate relations of the contracting parties and a few of the girlhood friends of the bride witnessed this quiet wedding ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Sechrest will make their home in Bonifay.
