

THEORY OF SPEECH

Teheran Has Twelve Gateways.

"At the distance, Teheran, built in great part of the mud on which it stands, is only distinguished from the surrounding plain by the green trees of its many gardens," writes Ella C. Sykes in "Persia and Its People," "but as the traveler gets nearer he will see the outline of the constellated city wall and the tiled domes and minarets of mosques. He will enter the town by a grandiose gateway adorned with glazed bricks in patterns, the prevailing tones being blue and yellow, relieved with black and white, the whole giving a touch of splendor to its squalid surroundings.

"These gateways are 12 in number; some are adorned with the exploits of Rostum, the Hercules and knight-errant of Persia, and others depict the Persian soldier of today—all of them, however, look best at a distance, and do not bear a close examination."

Pantomime Followed Drama.

Pantomime, one of the simplest forms of dramatic art, was not originated until the drama itself had been established for over 500 years. The latter was the invention of the Greeks, but the pantomime was a purely Roman idea. Two aspiring actors, one of whom was afflicted with throat trouble, Pylades and Bathylus, gave the first performance of this kind in the year 22 B. C. It was only a make-shift on their part because of the illness of one of the performers, but their audience was so delighted that they continued with the production of the wordless drama.

Crowded Orchard.

Prof. L. C. Corbett of the United States Department of Agriculture says he found in England a specimen of intensive fruit culture the like of which he has never encountered before. Apple trees are planted in rows 14 feet apart. Between these are plum trees flanked by gooseberries and currant bushes. The growth is so dense that the work of cultivation must be done by hand, and spraying is done by the installation of a permanent piping system. The company which owns this farm maintains a preserving plant for making jam when the fresh fruit cannot be profitably disposed of.

It Works Both Ways.

"The vulgarity of wealthy people is so much more noticeable than that of the poorer ones." "Yes, and at the same time it's so much more endurable."

WHERE APPEAL IS USELESS

Ancients Seem to Have Had the Right Idea in Their Attitude Toward Inevitable Death.

What happens to us when we die? What does it feel like to pass out of this earthly life and enter the unknown beyond?

An interesting answer comes from a group of physiologists. Their observations are that, in the dying hour, the sense of smell is the first to fall. Then, in order, the dying person loses taste, sight, touch, hearing.

Thus the five senses pass. Outwardly, death seems to have taken place. But how about the sixth sense—consciousness? Many medical men believe the brain is conscious, sometimes, as long as 20 minutes after the five senses are gone.

Everyone has heard of people who had visions of angels, music and a flood of bright light, in the moment of passing from the material world.

Why fear death? Life is only a journey, death only a change. The ancients contemplated death without fear, and met it with indifference.

They accepted it as inevitable, hence never raised altars to it as they did to things that might change—misfortune, fever, volcanic eruptions or the god of rain.

They recognized that there was no use in appealing to death, the Great Adventure.—Cincinnati Post.

INTERLACHEN NEWS

The Congregational church held its annual business meeting last week, closing the year most satisfactorily. The old church officers were, with one exception, re-elected. Miss Kephart was chosen to serve as organist and music director, succeeding Mrs. S. B. Ross and Mr. Arden Jones, who filled those positions last year.

A combination musical show and minstrel performance given Friday evening in the hall by a traveling troupe of young men drew a full house, and the youngsters at least were hugely entertained by the antics of the blackface artists. Later, relieved of their makeup, the young musicians furnished most excellent music for dancing. The dance was repeated on Saturday night a number of young people from nearby towns coming to enjoy the occasion.

The young people have just perfected the organization of an Epworth league as an auxiliary to the Methodist church and will hold their meetings Sunday afternoons at 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Schmidt, Miss Ella Schmidt, Mr. Theodore Schmidt and son, Robert, are now absent on a motor trip through the state, with Miami as their ultimate destination.

Mr. Cyrus Evans is away on a pleasure trip, visiting a number of resort towns throughout the state. Edward Gillett came home from Jacksonville Sunday to spend the day with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Buffum, and a party of friends arrived from the north Sunday and will occupy apartments in the DeTilla cottage and the J. H. Corthell cottage for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Lackey, whose removal from the Townsend house has become necessary because of the sale of that property, have secured house-keeping rooms at Mrs. Bennett's.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

Mr. Wide Awake Merchant Will You Rent Your Show Windows To Your Competitors?

Certainly not; For you know they occupy the most valuable Part of your entire store.

Yet— You allow them to remain idle during the most valuable part of the whole twenty-four hours. Light them.

If you have merchandise for sale and are not ashamed for the public to see it, keep your windows bright from dusk until bedtime.

Electricity— By the use of Electricity you can convert them from idle investment to your best add.

Joint Accounts

A husband and wife or others whose interests are in common, often find it convenient to have a "joint" account. Such an account is opened in two names, and is payable to either person. In case of death of one, the account is held subject to the order of the survivor without the necessity of any legal formality. We will be glad to give further information to those interested in the subject of a joint account.
