WISHING AND GETTING.

Old Man's Realized Day Dream and the Moral It Teaches.
He had started in the most primitive way, the man and his wife, back in the little log house, but they were one of the day when they would be a farm of their own and not have to work so hard. After a time their lot was rewarded, and they owned a farm. Then it seemed desirable to build a better, and they worked a steady accompaniment to the large farm, so the work could not stop.
He came to the age when he must be educated and have his chance in the world, and they toiled on. All the time he dreamed of the days ahead when he could stop work and take life easy. Somehow the days did not come, and he did not recognize them when they came, for he kept on working until he had grown old and worn. Then death came, and he had to stop.
The man for whom they had given years out of their lives now found his gratitude by his gentle, unending love and care. It seemed to him that the goal had been reached—the old man could now enjoy life.
The old man could now enjoy life, and he was quiet with head bowed on his worn hands.
The doctor, stopping in for a little while, said, "How are you getting on, old man?" Then the secret of his life burst forth as he earnestly, "Oh, if I could only get my work!"

THREE RACIAL INSTINCTS.

One Reason, Perhaps, For the Interest Taken in Baseball.
How shall we explain the absorbing interest in baseball and football? In baseball we have a game combining three of the most deep seated racial instincts—the instinct to throw, to run and to strike. During untold periods of the life history of our race survival has come to him who could throw the straightest, run the swiftest and strike the hardest. To throw something at something is almost as natural for a boy as to breathe.
Throwing, batting, running, are no longer of any service in this age of mind, but they were the conditions of survival in the distant past. Baseball reinstates those ancient attitudes and brings a thrill of cherished memories. Any one who has ever held a bat in hand and assumed the expectant attitude of the batter knows the peculiar thrill which is explained only by recalling that his distant ancestors in just that attitude beat down with a real club many an opposing foe, whether man or beast, and those who held clubs in this position and struck hard quickly survived and transmitted this instinct.
The awkward throw of girls, like the left arm throw of boys, is widely known. The plays of girls reveal their own set of instincts recalling the habits of primitive. "We are the descendants of those men who could throw and those women who loved children."

Coal Hauling in Japan.

A coal truck is unknown in Japan. It would be a nine days' wonder in the Flowery Kingdom, for they have seen coal hauled only by hand. The coal is put in baskets that hold about forty pounds and so handled and delivered. The baskets are piled on a two wheel wagon, and two men with ropes round their shoulders pull the wagon to the house of the rich person who can afford to buy coal. Then they carry the coal in, dump it out of the baskets and carefully carry back the baskets. The men wear white cloths over their heads to keep the dust out of their hair and as a protection from the sun.

Stingy.

"They tell me that Blank is awfully stingy."
"He is! Why, if that fellow killed two birds with one stone he would want the stone back!"—Exchange.

HOME DUTIES.

"Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home." When you want consolation go home. When you want to show yourself at your best go home and do the act there. When you feel like being extra liberal go home and practice on your wife and children first. When you want to shine with unusual brilliancy go home and light up the whole household.

The Way It Goes.
"This is an odd way girls have of getting into society."
"How is it odd?"
"Why, to get in they first have to come out."—New York Journal.

It is the appreciation, not of the indulgent, but of the exacting, that counts.

McRAE BROTHERS

Dealers in Complete Household Furniture. South Jacksonville, Fla. Apr. 18, 1916. Editor Palatka News, Palatka, Fla.

In your announcement column I see that my old friend, G. F. Bullard, is asking the voters of your county for the place he now fills. For forty years I have known him; he was assessor in Georgia four years and resigned the place in 1889 to make his home in Florida. He helped me in a merchandise store at Hawthorne, then married and moved to Putnam and then became an orange grower. The freezes "knocked him out" twice and then he sold his place at a sacrifice to better educate his children. They are now a credit to him.

His wife being in ill health all the while has, of course, seen an expense to him, but I watched him along, and he has, with the office the good people gave him, managed to go since these freezes.

He is one who has lived right and made friends all the time, and I am so sure that he will continue thus, and shall watch and hope for his success in the coming race. The tried ones of his kind are the ones to be retained and not exchanged for new ones who might not be as efficient.
Yours &c., THOS. J. McRAE.

VISIT YOUR DAIRY

Have you ever visited the dairy from which you get your milk? If not, how do you know as to the cleanliness of the milk you are getting and as to the sanitary condition of the bottles in which it is delivered to you?
The bottle delivered to you today may not have been sterilized and may have been returned to the dairyman yesterday from a sick room where there is measles, mumps, whooping cough, scarlet fever, diphtheria or some other contagious disease. And this endangers the lives of your children. Is this not a matter well worth the attention of every parent to consider, that in a single year the infant deaths in New York city were reduced more than one-fourth simply by providing for inspection of the city's milk supply.
FROM THE TIME OUR MILK LEAVES THE COW UNTIL IT IS DELIVERED TO THE CUSTOMER IT TOUCHES NO SURFACE THAT HAS NOT BEEN STERILIZED, AND ALL OUR BOTTLES ARE THOROUGHLY STERILIZED.

COME AND SEE

our dairy and see the milk produced. Sylvan Dell is located less than half a mile north of East Palatka station, on the west side of the East Coast railroad. Several trains run daily between Palatka and East Palatka and on alighting at the East Palatka station you simply walk north along the tracks until you come to our large sign, "Sylvan Dell," over the front gate at the first crossing beyond the water tank. Our milking time is from 4:30 to 5:30 morning and evening. Call then or at any time it suits you.
