AN INTERESTING REPORT OF TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

E. J. TOMLINSON ARRIVES AT ARIZONA, SOUTH OF SAN FRANCISCO, AFTER ALMOST A WEEK OF TRAVELING FROM PENSACOLA.

Aromas, Cal., Jan. 8, 1913.
Editor Pensacola Journal:—
Before we left Florida a great many of our neighbors and friends, including yourself, asked us to write them. If you will allow me a little space in your columns it will save me a great deal of writing, as they all read the Journal.

We left there Dec. 16, on the night train arriving in New Orleans the next morning at 8:30 and were transferred by cab over the rough cobble stone paved streets to the S. P. union station. Leaving at 11:30 we soon reached "the father of waters," and out train was ferried across in two sections, side by side. We were soon in the sugar cane section of Louisiana where we saw them loading cane on cars run right out into the fields of cane. I predict that this will be a familiar scene in some parts of Florida in a few years.

I was not favorably impressed with this section as a place of residence. There is so much low marshy land, I would think there would be a great deal of malaria. Night coming on, the next morning, Wednesday, found us in Texas, in which state we travelled all day and night. Saw some good country, but most of it is uninviting.

Our train was heavily loaded and at El Paso, Thursday morning, we were told they would have to run a second section, and we were ordered to get off and wait half an hour until it was ready. On leaving the train we found it was cold and chilly. Icicles three or four feet long were hanging to the water tank. We were soon speeding on our way, the ponderous engines drawing a train of ten or twelve heavily loaded cars at a good speed.

Crossing into New Mexico we saw little of interest, except a few Indians and their "adobe" houses, as we passed through most of the state after night. We arrived at Yuma and passed into California at day break Friday morning.

Here we were at last, in the great state of California, but we traveled half of the forenoon before we saw anything very inviting. We passed through a sand storm, which reminded me very much of the snow storms in the north. It almost stopped the train, but we were soon through it. We were now hearing Pomona and could see oranges everywhere. Arrived at Los Angeles at 12:00 and left for Watsonville at 2:40 p. m. Got some glimpses of the Pacific by moonlight.

We arrived at our destination Saturday morning at 5 o'clock and were met by our brother-in-law and driven to his home. We found the morning air quite chilly. In fact, they claim it has been the coldest here it has been for over twenty years, and some say the coldest ever known. There has been an inch thick and it is reported that the orange crop is ruined. There has been very little rain, but it is raining today and suppose the rainy season has just commenced. So much depends on this people are anxious about it. This is a great fruit section, but there is considerable farming done also. They do things on a larger scale here than they do in Florida. I saw one man plowing with sixteen large horses to a gang plow.

We are very nicely located on a hillside fruit "ranch" seven miles east of Watsonville on the main line of the Southern Pacific, about one hundred miles south of San Francisco. Our place adjoins the little town of Arroyo and we have a fine view of the town and the Santa Cruz mountains beyond. The place is all set to fruit, mostly apples and apricots, some cherries, peaches, prunes, English walnuts, and berries, all in good bearing. This is the pruning season. We have a fine view on the hillside with water piped into the house, and outside for irrigation.

Having always lived in a level country it looks pretty rough to us, but we think we are going to like it here. Will be pleased to hear from any of our old friends who feel like writing.

The Journal is a welcome visitor.
E. J. TOMLINSON.

PAST FIFTY? "CASCARETS"

What glasses are to weak eyes Cascarets are to weak bowels—a 10-cent box will truly amaze you.

Most old people must give to the bowels some regular help, else they suffer from constipation. The condition is perfectly natural. It is just as natural as it is for old people to walk slowly. For age is never so active as youth. The muscles are less elastic. And the bowels are muscles.

So all old people need Cascarets. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect this gentle aid to weak bowels. The bowels must be kept active. This is important at all ages, but never so much as at fifty.

Age is not a time for harsh physics. Youth may occasionally whip the bowels into activity. But a lash can't be used every day. What the bowels of the old need is a gentle and natural tonic. One that can be constantly used without harm. The only such tonic is Cascarets and they cost only 10 cents per box at any drug store. They work while you sleep. (Adv.)

PENSACOLA PEOPLE

(This is One of a Series of Interviews, Guaranteed to Contain the Least Possible Amount of Truth. Based Upon a Minimum of Fact, Which The Journal Will Publish Until Stopped. The Subject of This, the Sixth, is Haakon Paulsen. Only Those Not Acquainted With Mr. Paulsen Will Doubt It.)

In a column which interests so many thousands of people it is essential that variety in choice of those which are honored by the write-ups is exercised. That is why a review of past accomplishments in the gentle art of accumulating exclusive and hitherto unpublished interviews reveals that we have so far given complete and ultra-reliable information upon one politician who sells umbrellas, one commercial secretary who was formerly a champion cow-milker, one scout for a baseball team who is also advertising manager of the Maxent park, one blind musician who is also a money-maker and one magazine writer of such varied attainments that he went down to the wharf and jumped a boat for Mobile immediately after reading the nice things we said about him last Sunday.

Today we give an absolutely unverified and incorrect report in an interview with a man who has 141 growing boys and girls in his family. His name is Haakon Paulsen, and everybody knows him. It may be explained by way of opening, however, that they know him as "H. Paulsen;" that makes it much easier for the newspaper men and the county clerk that signs his checks for salary as probation officer.

To return to the diversity of this column just for an instant and to the reason for conducting it at all, we may merely say with all the ego which we possess that the diversity gives to the column to the gentlemen and suffragettes—who know?—the individuality which is their due. As to the reason for conducting it, well, it gives us something to do.

It has one limitation worth nothing; it is understood only by one or two people that do not understand themselves. They are forgiven—they do their best to advertise it.

Now when the interviewer called at the office of County Judge Henry Bellinger to find if that gentleman had returned to his desk or is still convalescent after his recent illness he found the judge is still absent. Mr. Paulsen was present.

"The judge will be back Monday," said the probation officer, whose hands has issued a number of marriage licenses the past two weeks.

"Are you glad?"

"Well, I've had to neglect my large family a little bit, maybe, the past few days."

"How many have you now?"

"One hundred and forty-one; they're not all mine, though. I only have four."

"I'm glad you told me they're not all yours; I was just thinking that would be a fine point for the basis of an interview to publish Sunday."

"Say, now! it would, wouldn't it? You know I'm a pretty modest fellow but I enjoy reading that and was thinking just last Sunday I wish you'd come and write me up."

That made it very easy for the interviewer. In fairness, however, he warned him.

"You realize the chance you are taking? Do you appreciate the fact that the whole business might be republished within a day or two, particularly if you should fall and stub a toe or lose a nickel?"

Mr. Paulsen grew very grave. It was easy to see that he was facing a question of great moment.

MEADE WILSON PAYS A VISIT

FORMER RESIDENT IS HERE AFTER ABSENCE OF SOME TIME AND ASSERTS THAT THE DEEP WATER CITY HAS MOST PROMISING FUTURE.

E. Meade Wilson, formerly of Pensacola, but for several years a resident of Jacksonville, is spending several days in the city, and is being warmly greeted by his many friends.

"I have been closely associated with Pensacola for many years. It is my old home and I have watched the Deep Water City's growth with as much pleasure and gratification as if I owned the whole town," said he.

"Nobody," said Mr. Wilson, "was happier than I when the news was flashed over the state that Pensacola had shown her determination to be the most important city on the gulf coast by voting for municipal ownership of wharves and a belt line railroad."

Mr. Wilson expressed regret that business engagements would preclude the possibility of his presence in Jacksonville on the 21st inst., when an election will be held for the purpose of determining the municipal dock problem. Mr. Wilson is vice-president of the municipal campaign committee of the Jacksonville Board of Trade, through whose efforts the election to pass upon the proposition was made possible, and worked indefatigably for the movement when an extra session of the legislature was called to consider the submission of the proposition to the people.

Mr. Wilson, who is at present manager for northern and western Florida for a well-known insurance company and travels throughout the state, is of the opinion that Pensacola is attracting more attention than any other Florida city at the present time.

SOUTHERN BOYS PLAYING BALL WITH THE NAPS

THE SONS OF DIXIE HAVE BEEN MUCH SOUGHT AFTER BY THE OWNERS AND MANY ARE ON THE TEAM.

Sons of Dixie have been much sought after by the owners of the Cleveland baseball club of the American league which, accompanied by the Toledo club of the American association, comes here to train, Feb. 24. Chief among these is "Ginny" Joe Jackson, the famous outfielder, who has given Ty Cobb such wonderful battles for the batting honors of the country the last two years. Joe makes his home at Greenville, S. C. Next comes Doc Johnston, the former Pelican first sacker, who jumped into popularity upon his debut as one of the Naps' last September. Clevelanders say that Doc has more ginger than any first baseman they ever had and the amateurs have already begun to name their teams after him.

Catcher Grover Land falls from Frankfort, Ky., while Pitcher Willie Mitchell calls Sardis, Miss., his home. Pitchers Cullop, Walker and Wilson and infielder Grubb, recruits from the Appalachian league, are all southern boys, while Infielder Clancy, who is Nap Lajoie's understudy, is a South Carolinian by adoption as he now makes his home in Winston-Salem, N. C. Also known to Pensacola through his career as one of the Pelicans. The last of the Naps' Dixie recruits is Pitcher Jim Baskette of Athens, Tenn. Jim used to pitch for Chattanooga when Al Demaree was a teammate, Chattanooga being then a member of the South Atlantic league.

NOTICE.

It is with deepest gratitude I take this method of thanking my kind friends and neighbors and fraternal organizations for the many acts of kindness bestowed on me in my great bereavement in the loss of my beloved husband, Capt. E. D. Eldredge.

Special thanks are due Capt. I. H. Aiken, Sovereigns Davis and White, whose kind consideration was unbounded in the following fraternal orders for the beautiful floral offerings sent, I am deeply grateful: Woodmen of the World, Woodmen Circle, Knights of Honor, Rainbow Council, Marine Engineers, and Naomi Rebekah Lodge No. 10.

CARRIE V. ELDRIDGE AND FAMILY.

SAY, YOUNG MAN,

Our Chief Physician Says:

"I want to talk to you in reference to that which should concern every man more than all the money in the world—Health, Heritage and Success. What is true of your physical condition must be reflected in the well-being of your family and children for future generations. The time has come for you to decide whether you will be the man that Nature intended, or will permit yourself to be deluded. Your first duty should be self-preservation. I believe if you had well-being of your family and children the resulting weakness, this you and the fact that I was unable to secure right way to do justice by yourself. If the more concern in making a sincere and honest effort to have you see the right way to do justice by yourself. If you are suffering from Blood Poison, Old Sores, Skin Diseases, Lupus, Rheumatism, Ulcers, Bladder, Stomach or Kidney Trouble, would you rather consult a man who has made his life's work the study of these troubles, or one who has devoted himself to whooping cough, measles, childhood, etc.?"

"I don't ask for the easy cases; bring me the most difficult ones you know; tell your friend; it may save him life-long misery. Come today."

MILITARY BOYS PREPARING FOR INAUGURATION

THE TWO PENSACOLA COMPANIES OF THE FLORIDA NATIONAL GUARD UNDER CAPT. FRED BLOUNT ARE GETTING IN FINE SHAPE FOR THE TRIP TO WASHINGTON.

Tonight being the regular drill night of the two crack military companies of the city, they will assemble at the armory with the intention of getting into the very best shape possible. If the plans that are being made now are successful, a company of the local National Guard will represent Pensacola at the inauguration of President-elect Wilson at Washington on March 4th.

In all probability the company will be composed of picked men from the two companies, and they are to make the trip to Washington under the command of Capt. Fred Blount, of company "M."

The two companies, and especially company "M," made a fine showing in Jacksonville when there on strike duty, and with regular drilling the men believe that they can carry off the honors at the inauguration.

The drills are to be held regularly and the men are doing their best to show a marked improvement each night.

The companies are to drill at Mallory Court where there is enough space to go through all of the maneuvers.
