Complete, but unofficial returns from every precinct except Tuten, No. 9, shows Fletcher's majority over Broward for Senator is 148, Mays' majority over Kehoe for Congress is 346, Gilchrist beats Stockton for Governor by 183 votes.

Dunn's majority over Jackson for Railroad Commissioner is 422. For Clerk Circuit Court Martin wins over Perry with a majority of 187. Taylor beats Redding for County Commissioner, District 3, by 6 votes. McLeod defeats Sever for member of School Board, District 3, by 133 votes.

RUN-OVER LOCALS

The infant of Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Buchanan died on the night of the 16th inst. at their home near Hickory Grove. A meeting which we hope will reach great proportions will begin at the Methodist church in Pinetta next Saturday. Everybody cordially invited to attend. Our fellow townsman, J. D. Shaw, received the sad intelligence Monday of the death of his brother, which occurred at his home, Lumber Bridge, N. C., on that day. Rev. Burke Culpepper left Wednesday for his home in Valdosta where he will spend a day or two before going to another field of labor at Apalachicola. His departure was deeply regretted by the entire populace. The good which that man, under God, has accomplished for Madison in the past ten days is incalculable. The meeting which he conducted has no equal in the history of the town. Scores of men and women, through his efforts, were led to a knowledge of God's wonderful goodness and the saving power of Jesus' blood, and the Christian religion in Madison has received an impetus which has been revived to such an appreciable extent that the conditions of the town are almost completely changed. Burke Culpepper will be a name beloved in Madison even unto the coming generations.

Messrs. Mathis and Ray have one of the largest cantaloupe and melon farms in Florida. Their acreage of water melons in Marion county is 50 and in cantaloupe, 300.

Resolutions.

Adopted by the Normal pupils of the Florida Normal Institute of Madison, Fla.
Whereas, during the school year of 1907 and 1908 the faculty of the Normal Department of the Florida Normal Institute have labored so faithfully and earnestly, and have also taken so much personal interest in our behalf, and
WHEREAS, the community at large have been so considerate of our happiness and welfare, therefore be it
Resolved: 1st. That the thanks of the Normal Department be extended to the members of the faculty for their faithful services so unselfishly bestowed.
2nd. That we as a class desire to extend our appreciation to the school officials for their great interest in educational work, as manifested in establishing and maintaining a school of this character.
3rd. That we wish to express our sincere gratitude to the people of the town for their hospitality in welcoming us to their homes, and to the ministers of the various churches, and to the Sunday schools for their cordial Christian greetings, shown us while among them.
4th. That we heartily recommend the Florida Normal Institute to our fellow teachers and to all other ambitious young people throughout the state who are aspiring to higher places of usefulness.
5th. That a copy of these resolutions be published in the local papers, The Florida School Exponent, the Times Union and such county papers as any pupil may desire, for publication.

The Big Head
is of two kinds—conceit and the big head that comes from a sick headache. Does your head ever feel like a gourd and your brain feel loose and sore? You can cure it in no time by acting on your liver with Ballard's Rubine. Isn't it worth trying for the absolute and certain relief you'll get? Sold by W. B. Davis.

HIS PAPERWEIGHT.

Travels of a Bottle of Wine and Its Ultimate Fate.
A paperweight consisting of a piece of thick glass with a tokay wine label fastened on the back and showing through is a part of the desk furniture in the library of a man who goes to Europe nearly every year. "People look at the thing," he said, "and wonder what the wine label is doing there, and when I see the question coming I always tell the story."
"Some years ago I went to Raab, in Hungary, where I called on an old lady who in Vienna years before had shown much interest in and befriended a young American student at the university. The poor student had grown to be a rich physician, and he wanted me to call and present his compliments. When I was about to leave after a pleasant visit the woman handed me a bottle of wine which had come from her estate and asked me to take it to our mutual friend. I carried that bottle all over Europe, paid duty on it several times and finally landed it safe and sound here in the house. A few days after my return we invited the doctor for dinner, and the bottle was brought in with much ceremony. I made a little presentation speech and then in handing it to the doctor dropped it on the floor where you see that stain. That's the label under the glass." — New York Tribune.

HORSE AND DOG.

Contact With Civilization Lessens Their Cunning and Sagacity.
The dog is no doubt the most intelligent of our domestic animals, and I yield to none in my affection for him. I can almost eat and sleep with a fine dog winter and summer. But I try not to deceive myself about his intelligence. It seems to me that if the dog had the least spark of wit akin to our own—that is, power of reason—his long association with man would have fanned it into a flame, however small.
But after all these thousands of years of human companionship and love he has less wit in some respects than his wild brothers, the fox and the wolf. Having been spared the struggle to live that falls to their lot, his cunning and sagacity have deteriorated. The same is true of the horse, which has less intelligence than the wild stallion of the plains and for the same reason.
These animals do not grow wiser as they grow less wild. They do not civilize or develop. We train them into certain ways that make them serviceable to us; we humanize them without adding to their mental capacity. In other words, we cannot cross our intelligence upon theirs and make it fruitful in them. The germ will not take.—John Burroughs in Outing Magazine.

English House Names.

House owners are sometimes rather unfortunate in their selection of names for their abodes, and in suburban house naming is occasionally rather ludicrous. Thus "The Maples" has never a maple near, "The Rosary" only exists in imagination, "Sunnyside" is the most depressing villa residence, and houses named after the English takes no more suggest the lake district than Fleet street suggests the Bois de Boulogne.
The Anglo-Saxon word "byrst," signifying a forest or wood, has become "hurst" in house naming, and "wood" and "holt" have the same meaning. All house names ending with these terminations are pretty and not unsafe to choose.
It is curious to note that in Hastings and St. Leonards quite a number of houses have typically Saxon names, perhaps to commemorate the great Saxon tragedy of which the name Hastings is reminiscent.

Pomp of English Mayors.

Chichester arms its chief magistrate with a gold mounted malacca cane of office, while the mayor of Guildford carries the stick presented to the borough by Queen Elizabeth. At York both the lord mayor and lady mayors are equipped with the silver mounted oak staves which have marked their authority for centuries. Among the official retainers of the mayor of Ripon is the municipal horn blower, who every night at 9 o'clock winds three blasts upon this aged musical instrument before the mayor's residence and again at the marked cross.—London Standard.

Hardened.

"Listen to this, Maria," said Mr. Stubb as he unfolded his scientific paper. "This article states that in some of the old Roman prisons that have been unearthed they found the petrified remains of the prisoners."
"Gracious, John!" replied Mrs. Stubb, with a smile. "I suppose you would call them hardened criminals."

Truthful.

Mark Twain once missed the train which should have taken him to his work. He did not wire any excuse. His telegram to his employer took this form: "My train left at 7:20. I arrived at the station at 7:25 and could not catch it."

CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY

A few doses of this remedy will invariably cure an ordinary attack of diarrhoea.
It can always be depended upon, even in the more severe attacks of cramp colic and cholera morbus.
It is equally successful for summer diarrhoea and cholera infantum in children, and is the means of saving the lives of many children each year.
When reduced with water and sweetened it is pleasant to take.
Every man of a family should keep this remedy in his home. Buy it now.
