

Scelba Announces Cabinet Decision On Pact With Yugoslavia For Division Of Trieste

ROME (AP) — Italian Premier Mario Scelba formally announced to his Cabinet today that agreement finally had been reached with Yugoslavia on a division of the Trieste free territory.

Initialing of the long-awaited accord was scheduled in London later today.

Scelba called it "a great day for Italy."

"I am very happy," he said. "Finally we are going back into Trieste."

Settlement of the bitter nine-year dispute between the two Adriatic Sea neighbors is expected to ease the task of welding the defense line across southeastern Europe against possible Communist aggression.

Immediately after signing of the agreement by the British and Yugoslav ambassadors in London, Scelba planned to present it to the Italian Parliament and demand a vote of confidence on it.

Under the agreement, virtually all Zone A of the strategic territory at the head of the Adriatic Sea goes to Italy. This zone, which includes the port city of Trieste, has been occupied jointly by U.S. and British troops since World War II.

Yugoslavia gets Zone B, the hinterland area which Yugoslav forces have held since they marched into Trieste in 1945, as well as several pockets in Zone A along the southern boundary which are populated mostly by Yugoslavs.

The 4,000 American and 3,000 British troops garrisoning Zone A are expected to pull out shortly, making way for Italian troops.

Both Italy and Yugoslavia had long demanded all the territory. The dispute led to numerous border incidents, and relations between the two countries deteriorated seriously.

The settlement was reached in London after lengthy negotiations among Italy, Yugoslavia, the United States and Britain. London and Washington have been prodding Rome and Belgrade for some time to end the dispute, which has blocked Western efforts to close their defense chain across south Europe.

The agreement is expected to smooth the way for Italy's participation in the Balkans anti-aggression alliance signed in August by Yugoslavia, Greece and Turkey.

Officially, the agreement is classed as a provisional settlement. This is to help Scelba secure the Italian Parliament's approval. The United States and Britain, however, consider the division of the territory in reality a permanent one.

Most of the 300,000 inhabitants in the 86-square-mile Zone A took the advance news of the settlement calmly.

Some tension was reported in the small areas slated to go to Yugoslavia. About 3,000 persons live in those sections. Some of Italian descent already are selling their holdings and moving into the Italian zone.

Yugoslavia received the biggest hunk of territory — 199 square miles of sparse hillsides, sheep grazing land and vineyards. Its 73,000 inhabitants are largely peasants of Yugoslav origin. Belgrade also gained special port rights in Trieste city and protection for its minority living there.

The area given to Italy contains the bulk of the territory's population — 302,000 persons. The city of Trieste, a major port since the 18th century when it was part of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, has about 280,000 residents.

Italy won the whole of the Istrian Peninsula, including the Trieste territory, from Austria at the close of World War I and lost it during World War II. For 40 tense days in 1945, it was occupied by Yugoslav partisans. Then an Allied military government was set up.

The free territory was formally set up by the Italian Peace Treaty of 1947, which formalized the division of the area into two occupation zones. Under the arrangement, a governor was to be appointed by the United Nations, but the Russians and the West could not agree on a candidate.

In 1948, before Yugoslavia's Communist government broke with the Kremlin, the Allies announced that both zones of Trieste should be returned to Italy. This idea was dropped after Yugoslavia left the Cominform.

In 1952, Italy was given a hand in local administration of the Allied zone.

Jewish Congregation To Mark Yom Kippur Celebration Here

Yom Kippur (day of atonement) will be observed by the B'nai Zion Congregation starting with the Kol Nidrah Services, Wednesday evening at 6:00 p. m. on October 6. The following morning the regular Yom Kippur services will begin at 8:00 a. m. The services will last all day, until at least 20 minutes after sunset. The usual Maskir Nashomos (memorial service) for the departed dear ones will take place around the noon hour.

The services will be in charge of the Congregation's religious and spiritual leader, Rabbi Abraham Schwartz, assisted by the Reverend Meyer Redlich from Miami Beach. There will also be a special service conducted for the youth in the social hall by local representatives of the U. S. Navy. They are Harvey Hochwald and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kotinsky. This special service will be divided into two sessions, one starting at 10:00 a. m. and lasting until 12:00 noon, and the second session starting at 2:00 p. m. and lasting until 4:00 p. m.

The usual sounding of the Shofar (the Rams Horn) will be done by Jack Appel of this city.

Rabbi Schwartz is again pleased to inform Key Westers of the significance of the Yom Kippur religious aspects. He said today, "To begin with we start the Celebration by the meal before the fasting. This meal must be finished before sun set on Wednesday. The fasting starts at sunset and last for twenty-four hours. No food or drink may be taken in the mouth for this period. It is also customary to be dressed in white, in order to accept this solemn sacrifice in a cheerful mood, we must turn ourselves over entirely in our feelings and our thoughts to God.

"It is said by the sages and our Rabbis and Prophets, that this day our sins or good deeds that have been counted and reckoned with on the Rosh Hashonah, (New Years) day is looked over and if it has been found by God satisfactory and complying with the command of God, God demands additional prayers which we offer and additional sacrifices with the offering of charity. This cleans us of all sins, and a good verdict is sealed by the almighty.

"Each individual is supposed to make a total repentance on this solemn day and each and every one takes upon himself not to commit any sins. Each and every one makes a direct confession to God of all evils and mistakes which have been done during the past year.

"We make a promise," the Rabbi continued, "that this will not be repeated anymore. And the true love and kindness to our fellow man, as well as the true love to our Father in Heaven will from here on be our main objective, in this New Year, 5715.

"Each and every one of us feel like a new person free and clear between man and God. Oh, what a wonderful feeling this is."

Rabbi Schwartz has expressed himself, and sincerely feels that this practice, this kind of a Yom Kippur Day, this kind of a celebration should be made universal to all people of the world.

He said, "The entire universe should have a day of repentance, a day of Yom Kippur to seek forgiveness, just as we have a Mother's Day, a Father's Day, etc., we should have a "God's Command Day." On this day all people can stop business, arguing, prejudices, jealousies, envy, selfishness, and stop looking for honors and special privileges, and think only of peace and happiness to all peoples regardless of race, nationality, creed or color.

"The love to our fellow men and the love to our God should be our slogan in deed and in practice. We should declare ourselves on this God's Commanding Day that all people are equal children to our God in Heaven. Then genuine peace of mind will make us all happy. Let us hope and pray that this will happen in the near future in all mankind."

Rabbi Schwartz and the B'nai Zion Congregation wishes the citizens of Key West and all people of the universe a continuous Happy New Year.

Martin, Lewis Are Terrific In Golf Film

Be prepared for some wonderful rollicking entertainment, for Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, those two inimitable gentlemen of uproarious comedy are due back in town. The new picture that they so richly endorse is "The Caddy," Paramount's brand new laugh sensation, opening Thursday at the Monroe Theatre. "The Caddy" is a complete delight and is the best Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis entry to date.

Containing several lavish production numbers, gorgeous girls and, of course, punctuated with loads of rib-tickling incidents, "The Caddy" follows the adventures of two young men who would rather play golf than work for a living. The pair of gents are, who else, Dean and Jerry. The latter is the superior golfer but he falls to pieces every time he appears before a gallery.

The solution to this dilemma is arrived at when he trains Dean and relegates himself to the role of caddy. In no time at all Dean becomes a top-notch professional and the darling of the country club set. This success goes to his head and causes dissent with Jerry, but of course all turns out fine before the final fade.

Sprinkled throughout the story are many melodic episodes which give both Dean and Jerry ample opportunity to show off their talent for song. Dean warbles several romantic ballads and Jerry does a specialty number, "The Gay Continental," which keeps the audience roaring with uncontrolled laughter. Adding the love interest are lovely Donna Reed as Dean's amour and Barbara Bates, an extremely cute trick, who keeps Jerry's arms busy when he is not carrying a golf bag.

DIVORCE REPLAY MAY BE CALLED

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Susan Hayward-Jess Barker divorce trial may be in for a replay, if Barker's attorney wins his move. Atty. S. S. Hahn asked Superior Court yesterday for a new trial, contending that the evidence was not sufficient to support the verdict in Miss Hayward's favor last August.

Judge Tests Legality Of "Skilball"

Big Cigaretts Warn Of Fire

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Grand Rapids has endorsed king sized cigarettes—big ones 17 feet long and 18 inches in diameter. They have been placed throughout the city in observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Each carries the slogan "chaperone your cigarette; don't let it go out alone."

Fire Chief Frank N. Burns said 80 per cent of the city's fires in an average year are traceable to a carelessly discarded cigarette.

A jack rabbit can get up to 40 miles per hour over a short distance.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—The judge tried his luck, or his skill, at an ocean front bingo parlor. The court is still out on whether the games are gambling devices or tests of skill.

Superior Judge Frank G. Swain, moving his court with him, took a personal hand in the proceedings. He tossed a few balls into holes in a "Skilball" board. He then let 20 "experts" provided by the game operators demonstrate their contention that skill can win.

Nathan H. Schur, a former operator in nearby Venice, has sued the city of Santa Monica and others to have the games declared illegal. Also on trial is a suit by operators of six of the games who ask that the city be ordered to reissue licenses denied them since July 1.

The games have been operating under a temporary court order pending a final decision.
