Summer Fertilizing with Citrus Trees

This is a very important application, for a liberal supply of manures is one of the best and surest ways of increasing the bearing surface for your crop next year. You cannot afford to economize on the nutrition of your citrus trees. To fall short of giving your trees, especially in the early stages of growth, what they need is to fail them for years to come. Nature calls for help in this matter and it is the time when you should take it renowned for the production of the best citrus fruits, men of science and agriculture, have found, that the proper manures, if applied in the manner and in the right proportions, will produce the immediate and lasting benefit to your trees. Nature is in demand for help in this matter and it is the time when you should take it.

We have been very liberal with our manures. To fall short of giving your trees, even at this early stage of growth, what they need is to fail them for years to come. Nature calls for help in this matter and it is the time when you should take it.
