

THE DAILY HERALD

Will be for sale Daily at the Following Places: J. M. OAT, Jr. & Co., Merchant Street; T. G. THURM, Fort Street.

LOCAL NEWS.

The HERALD was well received yesterday.

St. Louis College will re-open on Monday, Sept. 13.

Subscribers will please notify the office of failure to receive papers.

Cleanliness is next to godliness, and the Kapiolani Bath is next to the Myrtle Boat Club.

Fall term of Mrs. Wallace's Academic School for Girls opens at 190 Nuuanu Avenue on Monday, Sept. 13.

Hon. James Keau, one of the members for Honolulu, has been appointed night-keeper of the Station House.

The first issue of the HERALD was poorly printed, but this defect will be overcome shortly, if not this issue.

S. J. Levey was printed by mistake for J. Leavy in the list of passengers by the Australia as given yesterday.

The police report a very quiet night, no arrests being made for drunkenness. Four prisoners were in the cells, arrested during the day on warrants.

A native man on Liliha street was very near the last extremity on Tuesday night, from excessive drinking. Oil was administered, bringing the spirits up and saving his life.

In the Police Court yesterday Jim Edwards and John Thomas were fined the usual $6 for drunkenness, and Kaanaana was sent over to the bastille for seven days, for stealing a bunch of bananas.

The city was so still last night that a cat crossing Fort street at midnight stood still, for fear our reporter would have her up in the HERALD in the morning for disturbing the quiet of the night with her footfalls.

Mr. H. Hackfeld has retired from the firm of H. Hackfeld & Co.; Mr. J. C. Glade has withdrawn from general partnership therein, and Mr. E. Muller admitted in that capacity; while Mr. H. Loe has been authorized to sign the firm name by procuracy.

The half-hour's delay in getting the S. S. Australia off yesterday, according to a pilot's explanation, was due to the bark Discovery being right ahead in the channel. No harm was done, anyway, by the detention, although many people were seriously cut up with curiosity to know what was the matter.

The Hook & Ladder Co. met last night at the Central Station, and elected the following officers: Geo. Norton, foreman and treasurer; James Lewis, assistant foreman, and Gus Rose, secretary. There was a good muster, about 30, and after discussing the collection of dues and fines they topped off a very satisfactory meeting with refreshments.

A dispute between two contracting builders, at the corner of King and Maunakea streets, about 4:45 last evening, culminated in a sort of free fight, in which laborers of several nationalities took part with their working tools. One of the contractors came out with marks of very hard usage, and it is said the matter will not stop there. Bystanders and a couple of officers interfered with success in restoring peace for the time being.

About dusk last evening a Hawaiian-Chinese wrangle at the King's stables, Lele, was found to have been caused by two lively Chinamen having brought a heavy hand truck into collision with a hack standing in front of the building. The boy in charge of the carriage seized the truck and taking it into the stables held it as security for payment of the repairs to a dished hind wheel of the hack. The reporter left the parties still disputing.

Mr. Ed. Tucker went to the Coast by yesterday's steamer, to push his new invention of a smoke-consuming appliance. With the certificates of its efficiency on steamers of the Wilder S. S. Co. in his pocket, he hopes to have it adopted on board the Oceanic S. S. Zealandia in her projected overhauling. If the invention, which is called "a fire bridge wall," is all that it proved to be in the experiments on board the Wilder steamers, it is the very thing that large steam-users abroad have been seeking for many years.

The O. S. S. Co.'s Hawaiian steamship Australia sailed at noon yesterday. She took the following freight for San Francisco: 10,494 bags sugar, 1,550 bags rice, 1,770 bunches bananas, 348 bundles sugar cane, 14 cases betel leaves, 6 bales goat skins, 9 bales sheep skins, 2 bales hose, 5 cases taro, and 427 packages sundries; also $700 in gold coin. Value $66,165.38. W. G. Irwin & Co. shipped most of the sugar—10,235 bags. Of the bananas A. J. Campbell shipped 640 bunches, E. I. Marshall 429, and C. E. Henson 275. Hyman Bros. shipped 950 bags of rice and M. Phillips & Co. 600.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

Yesterday forenoon several reports of select committees were presented. A committee to which were referred two bills, introduced respectively by Mr. Kaunamano and Mr. Liliokalani, to amend the law of 1874 relating to the distillation of spirituous liquors, recommended that both be laid on the table, and their report was tabled. The committee's reasons for advising the shelving of the bills were, first, that Mr. Liliokalani's contained inconsistent provisions, and secondly, that the law of 1874 gave all the facilities necessary for persons to engage in distilling, and those not being availed of, there was no call for fresh privileges of a similar nature. The select committee on Mr. Richardson's bill to amend certain sections of the Civil Code, relating to prisons, jails and houses of correction, recommended its passage with amendments leaving intact some of the provisions designed in the bill to be changed. The loan bill was passed on a division by 30 to 7, the white Opposition representatives, reinforced by Mr. Palohau, composing the minority. A motion was passed in the morning that when the house adjourned for the day it should adjourn over Friday, to permit the acceptance of an invitation to attend the luau in celebration of the birthday of the Heiress Apparent, Princess Liliuokalani. In the afternoon the Appropriation Bill was on the board, and raised by the addition of items for various wharves and other public works. An interesting discussion took place on the vote of $5,000 for Kapiolani Park. The house passed the item on condition that the high fence surrounding the race course be pulled down. This fence was put up at an expense of $3,000, if we remember correctly, by the Hawaiian Jockey Club. Permission was, however, given by the house to erect a fence at a distance of the eighth of a mile in all directions from the grand stand. Mr. Aholo said that if a fence were built obstructing the public view of the Epsom race course in England, the multitude would incontinently tear it away on the very first opportunity.

Resolutions.

On Tuesday afternoon the employees of the Custom House presented Hon. Curtis P. Iaukea with a handsome wine set of cut glass containing a hundred pieces. An address was tendered at the same time, setting forth that the givers wished to express in a small way their kindly appreciation of the pleasant relations existing between the retiring Collector General and the officers of the Customs during his incumbency. It was signed by G. E. Boardman, W. Chamberlain, I. Q. Tewksbury, H. W. Auld, Oliver Stillman, Richard N. Mossman, Geo. Markham, J. Crowder, G. Parmenter, J. Markham and D. K. Beka. Col. Iaukea responded in an impromptu speech, after which there was a sociable season with complimentary toasts.

Last evening a very pleasant party assembled at the Palama residence of Princess Liliuokalani. The Nihoa Society, formed to commemorate the famous trip to Nihoa last year, met at that place to proffer salutations to the Princess on the eve of her birthday. The society is composed of the party that accompanied Her Royal Highness on that eventful expedition. On assembling at the house last evening they presented her with a beautiful cut glass wine set of a hundred pieces. A string band and a choir were in attendance, filling the delightful tropical retreat for the time with entrancing Hawaiian music.

The Postal Savings Bank.

In an interview with Mr. Henry Poor, Postal Savings Bank Clerk, it is learned that the institution is succeeding beyond anticipation. Natives not generally supposed to possess accumulations of wealth, have come forward in surprising numbers, with deposits all the way up to the limit of $1,000. The amounts paid in by Hawaiians amount to about one-half of the aggregate so far received. Hitherto the native population have been rather shy of banks, but they are not so regarding this one. They have given it the name of "Banako Lahui," or, "The People's Bank," and seem to regard it as a long-wanted opportunity for enabling them to exercise economy and thrift with due profit. Of others who are availing themselves of the chance of safe investment, many are mechanics who regularly deposit what they can spare over living expenses from their earnings. Mr. Poor believes that there will be a quarter of a million loaned to the Government, through the agency of this bank, within a few months.

In the Wrong Fold.

Yesterday, during the afternoon session of the Legislature, a sheep entered the east door of the Assembly room, and surveyed the legislators for a few moments. Then, with a disappointed look on its face, the animal turned about and went away. It is supposed, on the one hand, that it came to see how much truth there was in the Opposition charge that the Government supporters acted like a flock of sheep; and, on the other, that it was looking for the Shepherd of Lanai. If the latter, the reason for the creature's disappointment was that the personage in question had, in a dejected mood, slid down on his chair until he was almost concealed from view by his desk.

LILUOKALANI.

Birthday of the Heiress Apparent.

Great preparations have been made the last few days for the luau in celebration of the Princess Liliuokalani's forty-eighth birthday, at her Palama residence to-morrow. A marquee surrounded by many small tents has been erected on the grounds. Yesterday afternoon teams were employed hauling stones to the place for the vast baking operations, and last evening the fires to heat the stones threw a ruddy glimmer over the gipsy scene. The Legislature in a body will form a portion of the distinguished company at the grand luau. At half-past six in the morning the Marshal and police force will call on Her Royal Highness, being accompanied from the Station by the Reformatory School Band. The Royal Hawaiian Band will attend at eight to play throughout the successive stages of the festival. At eleven o'clock the First Division of the Educational Society will greet the Princess and proffer mementoes of their high regards. Their Majesties the King and Queen will arrive at twelve. A salute will be fired and a company of the Prince's Own will form a guard of honor. The Second Division of the Educational Society will pay their respects at one o'clock, and the Ladies' Savings Bank Association at half-past one. The luau coming on at two o'clock promises to be one of the grandest social events in a long time. The DAILY HERALD tenders hearty congratulations to Her Royal Highness, wishing her many years of continued usefulness and popularity.

Owing to a pressure of advertisements on our columns, "Trade Pointers" are omitted from this issue of the HERALD.
