PENDULUM OBSERVATIONS.

Professor W. D. Alexander recently returned from Maui, where he had been engaged with Mr. E. D. Preston, of the United States Coast Survey, in making pendulum observations on the summit of the extinct crater of Haleakala.

Arriving at the summit of Haleakala, ten thousand feet above the level of the sea, the party experienced very cold weather and had plenty of ice.

A large number of men, mules and horses had to be called into requisition to carry out this work.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION OATH

Following is the form of oath to support the new Constitution, adopted by the Government:

I, _____, aged _____, a native of _____, residing on _____ street, in ward No. _____, in the city and district of Honolulu, do solemnly swear, in the presence of Almighty God, that I will support the Constitution of the Hawaiian Kingdom, promulgated and proclaimed on the 7th day of July, 1877, and the laws said Kingdom, not hereby renouncing, but expressly reserving all allegiance and citizenship now owing or held by me.

The above is the form for the district of Honolulu, but of course it will be varied to suit all the other districts.

The Fire Department.

The following is the certificate of membership of the Honolulu Fire Department:

CERTIFICATE OF MEMBERSHIP. Having received the assurance that _____ a member of _____ Company No. _____ has properly equipped himself in accordance with the requirements of Article II of the Constitution, I hereby declare the said _____ a member of the Honolulu Fire Department, and as such entitled to all the privileges which the laws regulating the Department grant to its members.

Witness my hand and the Seal of the Department at Honolulu, this _____ day of _____ 1887.

St. Louis College.

The examinations at St. Louis College commenced yesterday in the primary department, and attracted a large number of parents and friends of the institution.

The closing exercises will take place on Friday afternoon, commencing at 3 o'clock.

St. Andrew's Priory.

The closing exercises at St. Andrew's Primary School for Girls will take place in the new schoolroom on Thursday afternoon next, commencing at 1 o'clock.

DINNER PARTY

Given Last Evening by the Hon. Samuel Parker

To the Captains and Officers of the U. S. S. Adams and H. B. M. S. Conquest.

Last evening Major the Hon. Samuel Parker gave a dinner party at his residence, King street, in honor of Commander Louis Kempf and officers of the U. S. S. Adams and Captain Charles L. Oxley and officers of H. B. M. S. Conquest.

The following sat down to dinner: His Majesty the King, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn, Acting Governor of Oahu; His Excellency George W. Merrill, United States Minister Resident; Major James H. Wodehouse, H. B. M. S. Commissioner and Consul General; Hon. Antonio Rosa, H. M. S. Vice Chamberlain; Commander Louis Kempf, Lieutenant W. I. Moore, P. A., Surgeon A. G. Cahell and Ensign L. M. Garrett, of the U. S. S. Adams; Capt. Chas. L. Oxley, Lieutenant Richard J. Symonds and Lieutenant R. M. Charles Clarke of H. B. M. S. Conquest; Hon. Samuel Parker, Hon. Wm. G. Irwin, Major A. B. Hayley and Mr. C. O. Berger.

The following was the menu:

- MENU. CRABES FARCIES. POTAGE. Consomme. POISSON. Maitre a la Mayonnaise. Uno a la Hollandaise. ENTREE. Salmis de Pigeons. Coquelets d'Agneau aux Champignons. Rissole de Polets aux Petits Pois. Poneh a la Romaine. ROTIS. Dinde a la Pyramide. Filet de Boeuf a la Chartreuse. Jambon de Westphalie. Curry de Poulet au Riz. Pudding a la Diplomat. Tartare Assortis. Glaces. Fruits de la Saison. CAPE.

The dinner table presented a beautiful appearance. In the center was a raised bank of magnificent roses. On the plate of each guest laid a broad ribbon, on which was hand-painted flowers and the name in gold letters.

After dinner the guests strolled through the house inspecting its many attractions, and also listened to a number of vocal and instrumental selections capably rendered by a band of Hawaiian musicians. The dinner was a most enjoyable affair throughout.

Honolulu Rifles Battalion.

In response to a call issued by Colonel V. V. Ashford, the Honolulu Rifles Battalion met at their armory last evening. Upwards of 200 men were present, and made a fine appearance as they were drawn up in line within the armory.

Company B proceeded to ballot to fill the vacancy made by the promotion of C. W. Ashford to the captaincy of Company D. E. F. Bishop was elected First Lieutenant, and A. Robertson Second Lieutenant, both by acclamation.

The general orders were then read, after which Colonel Ashford addressed the battalion, complimenting the men on their promptness in always responding to all calls, and hoping they would continue to attend company drills.

The several companies then proceeded to agree on the evenings for drilling purposes, with the result that the same nights as before were agreed upon.

The battalion was then dismissed and partook of a bounteous repast which was spread out at one end of the armory.

During the evening the Portuguese Band discoursed choice music, and thus added greatly to the sociability of the meeting.

Waianai English School.

The annual examination of this school was held in the school-house last Thursday. There was a large attendance of the parents and friends of the pupils, who were very much pleased with the progress during the year.

The spelling of the whole school organized in classes (as in a spelling book), was also very good, and considerable enthusiasm was evinced by the audience in the endeavor of the classes to spell each other down. The whole examination was most creditable to the Principal, Mr. Armstrong Smith, and his very able assistant, Mr. Andrew Cox.

In the evening at 7 o'clock the school gave an exhibition, at which over 200 persons were present, while many went away or hung around outside trying to obtain a casual glance through the window.

The programme consisted of twenty-six numbers, among the most noticeable of which was the Court House scene (a local take-off), and was interspersed with local hits, that were very much appreciated. "The Dwarf," representing that freak of nature often seen on exhibition in other countries, but seldom if ever seen here, caused a great deal of merriment and laughter, especially among the natives, who were highly delighted with the antics of the little fellow. The tableau, "Blue Beard," was exceedingly well executed by the young ladies of the school.

Special mention should be made of H. Cox, Solomon, Kaulahua, J. Paipai and Mary Timonoo for the admirable manner in which they sustained their parts, both in the examination and the exhibition. Their English was faultless, and showed careful training and close application to study.

Appropriate remarks were made by the District Judge Kalamakee, which closed a most creditable and enjoyable exhibition.—Bulletin.

Supreme Court—July Term.

BEFORE PRESTON, J. MONDAY, July 25th.

S. M. Kaunakai vs. James Wight, ejectment. Tried before the following jury: T. J. King, A. J. Cartwright, Jr., W. C. Peacock, H. Gunn, S. G. Spencer, W. E. H. Deverell, Maile, S. W. Kalkahine, C. B. Dwight, M. Kelua, S. Kaili, S. Kanoo. This case was tried at the last term, when the jury disagreed, after being out five hours and a half.

The Rev. S. C. Luhnau, the ninth witness called by defendant, is the most important witness in the case. Mahi Pahale, claimed by plaintiff as the original owner of the land in dispute, is claimed by the defendant as not the owner, and to support which contention on the part of defendant the tax books of the district of Kohala are produced as evidence in Court to show that Mahi did not own any real property, but paid taxes only on personal.

The case will be continued this morning. W. C. Achi for plaintiff, W. A. Kinney for defendant.

AT CHAMBERS.

Sol Ephriam vs. bark Forest Queen, in admiralty. The Chief Justice gave a written decision in this case as follows: This is a libel to recover of the owners of the bark Forest Queen the sum of $632, the value of 42 hogs alleged to have died on a voyage from San Francisco to Honolulu by reason of the carelessness and negligence of the persons in charge of the said vessel in "stowing them" and in "keeping them stowed during the voyage."

The bill of lading was signed in San Francisco on November 6, 1886, by the agents of the vessel.

It shows that 399 hogs (alive) were shipped in good order and condition in the bark Forest Queen by the San Francisco Packing and Provision Company to Sol Ephriam and his assignee. * * * On the whole case I do not find that the loss of the hogs was occasioned by the negligence of those in charge of the vessel, and therefore dismiss the libel.

A. F. JUDD, Chief Justice Supreme Court.

Paul Neumann for libellant, F. M. Hatch for respondent.

Police Court.

BEFORE POLICE JUSTICE DAYTON. MONDAY, July 25th.

Frank May was charged with selling and disposing of spirituous liquor in Honolulu within the two months past without license, contrary to law. This is the second offense. He was remanded to August 1st. A. C. Smith appeared for him.

The same defendant was also charged with keeping a disorderly house, but a nolle pro. was entered.

A nolle pro. was entered against W. Queen, charged with larceny of $38.85 from E. M. Legras.

Twelve Chinese were charged with gaming and remanded to the 26th.

Joseph Brizzini was charged with selling and disposing of spirituous liquors without a license, and contrary to law. He pleaded guilty and was fined $100 and $3 costs.

Kane, John Smith, Makawala, S. Kanai, Tame (Jap) and Marie (w) had each to pay $6 for drunkenness.

Wo Kan was reprimanded and discharged for assault and battery on Honolulu.

Henry M. Whitney was charged with making and publishing a libel on F. S. Pratt on the 1st instant, contrary to law, as set forth in the warrant of arrest. Defendant waived examination and was committed to the Supreme Court for trial for libel in the first degree.

A Family Necessity.

"The way to men's hearts is down their throats, or I mistake mankind," is an axiom which there is no gainsaying, and with equal truth it may be said that whatever most contributes to the facilities for thus gaining man's esteem and appreciation secures a lasting place in the hearts of women, or, at least, those having the comfort and happiness of their liege lords in view, and what good housewife has not? Premising this, it is only necessary to say that no one thing combines so many of the elements calculated to accomplish this laudable purpose as a good cook-stove or range, and none so entirely meet the indications implied above as the Golden Anvil wrought steel cooking ranges, lately introduced into this city by the Pacific Hardware Company. Call at their store and examine one.

Royal Breakfast.

Yesterday morning His Majesty the King gave a breakfast at Iolani Palace, in honor of Monsieur Laurent Cochelet, Commissioner and Consul for France. In addition to the Royal host and his guest there were present: The Right Rev. Dr. Hermann, Bishop of Oha, Monsieur Georges Bouliche, Chancellor French Legation; Hon. Antonio Kojor, H. M. S. Vice Chamberlain, and Major A. Burrell Hayley. The Royal Hawaiian Band played a programme of music in the pavilion.

The "Elele" Newspaper.

Mr. F. H. Hayselden has leased the "Elele" printing office, including the good will of the "Elele" newspaper, together with all the type and printing presses to Mr. D. Lyons, who will hereafter conduct the same on his own account. Mr. Lyons has leased one of the new stores on King street, adjoining Messrs. Castle & Cooke's, and the "Elele" office will be located there.

ADAM AND HIS WIFE.

Eve Spoken of as a Lady Who Had Come of Excellent Stock.

In appearance Eve was exceedingly graceful and beautiful, full of refinement and dignity, people always spoke of her as a lady, and whispered to one another that she had come of good stock. To her husband she was full of a wildness of spirit, as if he had made some sacrifice in marrying her, and her devotion was mingled with gratitude. In Adam there was less that was peculiar than in his wife. He would stand often on his threshold in the evening and look out. He had forgotten that centuries had passed by, and was still yearning for the return of his first born—the wanderer. It was Eve who in the spring tide turned to the meadows where the lambs were playing, and she always went alone. When she came back she would pat her arms around her husband's neck and kiss him. He did not understand that she was come from a grave; but he was grateful for the kiss, and drew her away to look at the young sprouting blades of corn. He had become a husbandman and was skilled in the tending of the ground.

Eve never looked happier than when he came home hot and hungry from working in the fields. She loved to set his meal, lay her head on his knee, and listen to his talk of the coming of new ways of raising crops and planting vineyards. He was busy and contented, and there was no regret in his face. But their conversation did not always turn on commonplace matters. On winter evenings they often discussed ancient history, and showed a familiar acquaintance with the stories we now read in the early chapters of Genesis. Sometimes they would quarrel and grow sullen, or violently disagree. Then Adam's voice would be heard in reproach, or Eve's in contention, and Adam would walk out and lean against the old swing gate that seemed to be the natural boundary of his little domain.

When Eve saw him leaning against the gate and apparently forgetful of her, she would steal up to him softly and they would lounge together, a new light in their eyes. All age had passed from their faces, and there was majesty in their least careless touch, for they had no suspicion of intruders, and thought only of each other. After these hours of recollection they would speak of quite another time in their lives, when evidently there had been deep accord between them; then, and then only, was Eve heard to say, "I have used it for twenty years for Blood Diseases, such as Profusio, Salt Rheum, Tetor and Cancer, and I cannot recommend it too highly." The Rev. Dr. Thomas, of Hong Kong, says, "PARDEE'S REMEDY is a wonderful medicine for the Blood, and when given in time cures Leprosy, and when given in time cures Leprosy, and when given in time cures Leprosy, and when given in time cures Leprosy."

Attorney General Garland's Luck. "How on earth did such a bright fellow as Garland come to live at such a place as Honolulu?" asked an admirer of the attorney general of an Arkansas traveler the other day. "It's as bad as Polunk, Kalamazoo, Kokomo, Oshkosh, or Chatham Four Corners."

"I'll tell you," said the other. "Hominy Hill is not, as everybody supposes, a town. It's an old time sacred name given the farm Garland owns near Little Rock. Garland keeps his mail at Little Rock, and is for all practical purposes a resident of that place. They worship him there. There is a queer story of how he happened to settle at that place. He was living in Washington, a little, shabby place, where his parents settled when he was admitted to the bar. It was no place for a rising lawyer. One day he astonished his office chum by asking him to tie a handkerchief around his eyes. His friend complied. Garland took a pencil in his hand, stepped up to a map of the state, whirled his hand around three times and jabbed the pencil at the map. There, said the young lawyer, unto this handkerchief and I'll tell you what I am doing. I'm sick of this town. I'm going to move to where my pencil struck the map. If it's a town, I'll practice law; if it's a country, I'll farm it; if it's a river, I'll go to steamboating." The pencil had struck Little Rock, and there he went. A. H. Garland has been just as fateful and just as lucky as that all his life.—New York Sun.

As the Spirit Wings Its Flight.

At a recent meeting of the Academy of Science, M. Hayem, of the medical school, read a paper of the phenomena noticed in the head of an autum after decapitation, with or without transfusion of fresh blood. As soon as the head is separated from the body the eyes move convulsively, and a look of wonder and anxiety is noticeable on the face. The jaws separate with force, and the tongue seems to be in a tetanic state. There appears to be some consciousness of what is going on, but this does not last more than three or four seconds. If preparations have previously been made so that the head after separation continues to receive a fresh supply of blood, the voluntary manifestations persist, as long as the blood supply is sufficient—that is, for half an hour or so. When a blood supply is furnished after the head has become entirely motionless, the phenomena are as follows: Some contractions, very weak and feeble, take place, especially in the muscles of the lips; then some respiratory efforts; reflex actions of the eye, first weak, then well marked, but the eyelids remain drooping, the senses are quite asleep, and no will is manifested.—Science.

Ladies of the White House.

The recent presence in Washington at the same time of Mrs. Julia Dent Grant, the widow of ex-President Grant, and of Mrs. Cleveland, the present lady of the White House, and of Mrs. Cleveland, the last preceding lady who held that high position, has suggested that perhaps it might be as agreeable to the ladies concerned, as it certainly would be gratifying to those who might visit the White House, if the ladies now living who have at any time presided at the executive mansion could assemble at the national capital and hold a reception together in the White House. Eleven ladies are now living who at one time or another have done this honors of the White House.—Chicago Times.

The Pinte Turns an Honest Penny.

A Pinte Indian recently appeared in Virginia City, N. M., with two large sacks of goose and duck feathers, which he was willing to exchange for coin. The sacks were stuffed till they were as round and plump as a watermelon, and apparently weighing many pounds. The Indian consented to a recommendation to say that the feathers were all white and the product of "big geese." In these latter days even the Pinte is beginning to have an eye to the earning of an honest penny. Formerly the only use he found for feathers was as a decoration for his warlike trophies. Now he puts them in a sack and peddles them among the "pale faces."—Chicago Herald.

Managing a Railroad.

Senator Stanford manages the Central Pacific by receiving every day in Washington a telegram report half a column or more in length from his representatives in California. Every evening he sends off a telegram equally minute giving his directions in detail.—Chicago Herald.
