Holiday Events and Festivities Take Up the People's Time.

NOVEL GIFT BY MANAGER WELLS.

The Young Ladies of Makawao Now a "Butterfly Club"—A Party Views the Wonders of Haleakala—Improvements at Paia—A Kona Wind Blows.

MAUI, Jan. 5.—Holiday events and festivities seem to be the only news items at the present moment.

Hana people's methods of celebration rather eclipse those of the rest of Maui. All the residents of that section, whether native or foreign, royalist or republican, united in having a lively and happy time during Christmas.

Bombs and crackers were exploded continuously during the night of the 24th of December, and five bands of musicians (four stringed and one brass) from Kahului, Keanae, Mokaie and Hana promenade and serenaded the village.

During the 25th there were luau everywhere.

During New Year's, Hana plantation gave a grand feast and dance in a spacious lanai erected specially for the occasion.

Judge Kaleo also entertained a large number of friends.

A shooting match took place on the sea-shore at the Kauiki range during Christmas, in which Messrs. H. T. Hayselden, N. Omsted, Ovenden, Manning, Hocking, Tuck, Zoller and A. Hayselden participated. Mr. H. Hayselden made 41 at 150 yards, and Mr. Omsted 40 at 200 yards. There was no prize.

During the 29th of December there was a cobweb party at Haleakala Hall, which surely was a grand place for such an event, with the different webs winding in and out through the long, dusty stairways and over the rafters and beams of the chambers of the old school building.

The young ladies of Makawao have at last selected a name for their club. It is hereafter to be known as the "Butterfly Club," and during the last night of '94 they danced the old year out and welcomed the new one in at Haleakala Hall. The interior decorations were most pleasing and most artistic. Star-bedecked hunting, red, white and blue, most gracefully draped the old room, terminating at the center in a huge ball of malle. Behind the musicians a green and silver and gold butterfly glittered, and reflected the mellow light from the paste-colored lanterns. Under this gorgeous figure was the word "Club" traced in evergreen and silver balls.

Exactly at midnight the usual merry greetings and wishes were interchanged, and, as most of the guests were members of Mrs. Alexander's house-party, it was woefully late ere the festivity came to an end.

Manager C. B. Wells, of Wailuku, distributed forty-nine bags of A1 sugar as Christmas gifts to prominent residents of the town.

Between two and three hundred people attended the native Sunday school convention held at Waihee on the 25th of December.

During December 25th there was some shooting for turkeys at the Kahului range.

The January evening of the Makawao Literary Society will take place at the Hamakuaapoko residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gilhus on Friday evening, the 11th instant.

During the week Misses Leonard, Dyer and Sears, with Fred Baldwin as guide, spent a night at "Craigielea," and viewed the wonders of the extinct volcano.

Misses Agnes Alexander, Beckwith and Fleming return to Honolulu today.

Paia mill has been making great improvements in respect to machinery. A new vacuum pan of huge proportions has been added, and also a pair of Krajewski crushers—rollers with jagged, ugly looking lines of teeth, which are said to grind out 50 per cent. of the juice before the cane reaches the other two pairs of rollers.

During Monday, December 31st, the schooner Mary Dodge, C. Bergmann, master, departed sugar laden for San Francisco.

Weather: A kona wind for a day or two past.

THE NEW YEAR AT HANA.

HANA (Maui), Jan. 2.—New Year's Day at Hana was well celebrated. Manager K. S. Gjerdrum, of Hana plantation, gave a grand feast, to which all were invited. Many accepted the invitation, some coming from distant Kaupo and Keauae. About 300 persons sat down to eat of the good things provided. The table was spread beneath a canopy about 100 feet long, and was very artistically arranged and decorated.

One pleasant feature of the occasion was the appearance of the lucky gentlemen, who all found themselves decorated by the fair ones with leis of roses and myrtle entwined.

After the feast the popular manager entertained many of the guests at his house. Dancing was begun towards evening and continued until the hour of nine. A large pavilion had been erected for the occasion, profusely and tastefully decorated with ferns and evergreens, and with colored lanterns throwing a subdued light around, presenting a very pretty picture. Beyond the pavilion torches lit up the faces of hundreds of interested spectators, who lingered to watch the flying figures and listen to the strains of excellent music furnished by two local string bands.

Mr. Gjerdrum has the good wishes of everyone and is to be congratulated in giving to so many a New Year's day that will long be remembered.

HON. A. F. JUDD'S BIRTHDAY.

The Chief Justice Reaches His Fifty-Seventh Year Today.

BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

A Graduate of Both Yale and Harvard—His First Office was Secretary to the Constitutional Convention in 1864—Appointed Chief Justice in 1881.

Chief Justice Judd will celebrate his fifty-seventh birthday today. He is to be congratulated and no doubt will be by his many friends. Professor Berger has not forgotten the event as he stated last night that the Hawaiian band would serenade Mr. Judd at an early hour this morning. The following is a brief sketch of Mr. Judd's life.

Hon. A. F. Judd was born in Honolulu, on the seventh day of January, 1838. His early education was received at the Royal School and at Punahou College, and he was still a boy when he decided to make the law his profession. It has been said that it was ever the ambition of the late

CHIEF JUSTICE JUDD.

Dr. Judd to see his son Frank at the head of the Supreme Bench of Hawaii, the position which he now holds. His studies were prosecuted with a view to fitting him for a legal career, and at the age of twenty-two, he was admitted to the Junior Class at Yale College, from which he graduated in 1862. He next entered the Harvard Law School, and graduated, two years later, with the degree of LL.B. During his college studies the civil war broke out, and, fired with the patriotism of his forefathers, he could with difficulty restrain himself from joining the army. But his father was opposed to any such proceeding on the part of his son, who, considering the store the old gentleman placed in seeing his son a graduated attorney-at-law, had to content himself with visiting, during vacations, the scene of various battles north of Mason and Dixon's line. After graduating Mr. Judd returned to his island home and was duly admitted to practice before all Hawaiian courts. He was soon after this elected secretary to the constitutional convention, in 1864, which was so arbitrarily broken up by Kamehameha V. After this Mr. Judd entered upon the practice of law, and continued, from 1864 to 1874, building up a large and lucrative connection. Mr. Judd's knowledge of the Hawaiian language was and still is a material aid in his practice. He had meanwhile taken great interest in the affairs of the country, and was intimately identified with all political movements. In 1868 he announced himself a candidate for the Legislature from South Kona, Hawaii. He sent his name to that district as such, and was returned at the election without having gone there in person. In 1872 he was again elected to the Legislature from Honolulu. During this term Kamehameha V. died; and, as the election to fill the vacancy fell upon the Legislature, Mr. Judd was one of those who voted for Lunailo; and, upon the latter's ascension to the throne, he made A. F. Judd Attorney-General in his Cabinet, although then a young man only thirty-four years of age. Being a Noble ex officio, gave him a seat in the Legislature; and upon the death of Lunailo, which occurred after a brief reign, the Legislature was again called upon to elect a king, and Mr. Judd cast his vote for Kalakaua, which confers upon him the distinction of having been the only man in the country now alive, with the exception of Hon. C. R. Bishop, that has voted for two kings. Upon the ascension of Kalakaua, and the formation of the new Cabinet, the King took two of the members of the Bench, viz., Judges Hartwell and Widemann, into his Cabinet, and the subject of this sketch was appointed to one of the vacancies—that of Second Associate Justice. This was in February, 1874. In 1877 the resignation of Chief Justice Allen, and the promotion to that place of First Associate Justice Harris, Mr. Judd became First Associate, and upon the death of Harris he became, on November 5th, '81, Chief Justice, which office he has held ever since.

Blood Poisoning

13 Running Sores Gave Way to Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'Gentlemen—Thirteen years ago I was in Cour De Alene, now called Fort Sherman, Idaho. While there I went in swimming one day and caught cold, chilling the bone in my leg, causing a fever sore on my limb. The sore continued about three months, continually rotting my leg until it got up to my knee, when I had the limb amputated. My leg was so rotten that after the limb was amputated the foot dropped off. From this state I got blood poisoning and had Thirteen Running Sores on my body. These sores continued from three to four years, my blood being in a terrible condition. After this I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. I used three bottles and found it did me good, so I kept on until I had used ten bottles or more. My blood was completely cleansed. The sores stopped running and have not troubled me any now for six years. My appetite and digestion are good and I am perfectly well. I owe my cure to Hood's Sarsaparilla.' P. S.
