

LETTER CANNOT BE LOCATED.

Document Asking for Minister Thurston's Recall.

IS MR. WILLIS HOLDING IT?

Much Conjecture as to the Exact Lay of Land-American Minister Thought to be Following Previous Tactics-Talk About Washington.

NEW YORK, April 21.—The Tribune's Washington correspondent comments on the disappearance of the letter asking for Minister Thurston's recall, as Minister from Hawaii to this country, as follows:

"It is likely that the document is now in Honolulu. But who has it? Suspicion strongly points to Minister Willis, although it is possible it may be reposing in the Foreign Office, the intelligence as to the fact being withheld for good reasons. Minister Willis has on previous occasions kept back important information which he was directed to deliver to persons in Honolulu. It will be remembered he did not promptly obey the instructions to notify the ex-queen that the President thought her a much-wronged person and desired again to see her seated on the Hawaiian throne.

"Mr. Willis thought it good diplomacy to proceed slowly in that instance, and did not seek an audience with her dusky majesty for several days after securing orders to execute the wishes of the President, and take the first formal step in the programme of monarchical restoration.

"In other words, he exercised sound discretion in the matter. Is it not probable that he deems it advisable again to pursue a discreet rather than an abrupt course, and that the letter of recall may be up his sleeve, as suggested.

"Even diplomats acting under authority of President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham sometimes, by chance, show tact. Mr. Willis may have some special object in view in withholding the letter. He may want certain information or favors, or he may not see a prospect of having the attention of the Hawaiian authorities directed to such a matter as the recalling of a Minister. The idea of being "out of a job" is no more agreeable to Mr. Willis than it is to any other unfortunate in his party. He may be exercising discretion, therefore, for both his country's advantage and his own good.

"The letter of recall is not here. It was written and mailed, and no doubt of that, and very likely it is in Mr. Willis's possession, as Mr. Hatch has said that it is not in his office. Has Mr. Willis held back the communication and written to Mr. Gresham strongly advising that the demand for the recall of Mr. Thurston be not insisted upon? There are many persons in Washington who believe that such is the case."

JOKE IS ON GRESHAM. Thurston forestalled the Action of State Department.

WASHINGTON, April 15.—The belief is growing that in the little rupture with Secretary Gresham, Minister Thurston will come out first best. The incident is causing a deal of talk here. It is a popular theme in the diplomatic corps, and the attaches of the foreign office, as the clerks of the State Department are wont to call themselves, are discussing it in whispers.

In fact, pretty much everybody is talking about it more or less except Secretary Gresham. He never touches the subject himself. Those around him are afraid to speak of it; and others have too kindly a feeling for the Judge to mention it.

It is understood that Mr. Thurston learned in some way that the request for his recall had not been sent on the date indicated in the first publication, and that therefore it could not leave the country until the departure of the next steamer.

On consulting his time-tables he discovered that he could reach San Francisco in time for the same steamer.

This he did, and therefore arrived in Honolulu as quickly as Secretary Gresham's request for his recall. It is a simple thing to understand that by placing his resignation in the hands of the Hawaiian Government at once he could forestall the receipt of the request for his recall. By doing this he would play a pretty little trick on the Secretary of State.

Officially the State Department authorities profess indifference to Thurston's fine work.

One of the Secretaries was asked today what would be the probable procedure in the event of Thurston's having forestalled the request. He said: "If Thurston's resignation was placed in the hands of the Hawaiian Government before our request, we will doubtless receive through the Hawaiian charge d'affairs in this city a notification that Thurston has resigned and that somebody else will doubtless be appointed. It is probable that we will receive this some time before the acknowledgment of the request for Thurston's recall."

"Upon the receipt of that notification we will acknowledge it and say something to the effect that if the Hawaiian Government is willing to accept Thurston's resignation, all right; that it matters little to us whether Thurston resigns or is recalled. He will have ceased to be Minister to this country, and that is all we want."

The Gaelic Mirror. One of those hustling Americans who always makes his presence felt no matter where he happens to find himself, conceived the happy idea of issuing a publication relative to the passage of the Gaelic while that vessel was temporarily resting in Honolulu. This took shape in the form of a one-page, two wide columns edition called "The Gaelic Mirror." It contains besides the passenger list numerous local hits on those journeying to the Coast by the steamer. The paper, though small, is cleverly edited and brim full of interesting matter to those among whom it will be circulated. It is dated "At sea, April 30th, 1895," and will afford a fund of amusement to the passengers by the Gaelic.

Walter Smith at the Front. The Weekly Box of Curios, March 23d, published in Yokohama, has the following to say of Walter G. Smith:

"Walter G. Smith, the S. F. Chronicle's war correspondent, left on Thursday evening a week ago for the front via Hiroshima, but he could not or would not tell us his destination. His impression is that another battle will be fought before peace is concluded, and when this occurs, and Li Hung Chang sees the well-armed and well-drilled soldiers that the Japanese will not forget to stick under his nose, he will realize that China's name is 'Dennis,' and will be anxious to make terms rather than permit Japan to annex China as a summer resort."
