PORTO RICO COFFEE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—The President has proclaimed an agreement entered into with the government of France on August 22 last, extending an important trade advantage to the island of Puerto Rico by the admission of the coffee produced in that island to the French markets at the minimum tariff rate.

This was accomplished by a special agreement made between Acting Secretary Adee, for the United States, and M. de Margerie, Charge for the Government of France here. This agreement in turn amends the commercial arrangement of date May 28, 1898, which was the first drawn under the terms of the reciprocity section of the Dingley act.

That arrangement applied only to France and to the United States proper, and the amendment just entered into extends it on the one side to Algeria, and on the other to the island of Puerto Rico, as to the general features of the tariff schedules affected, while as to Puerto Rican coffee it is provided that it shall enjoy the minimum French tariff rate until February 23, 1903, by which date it is expected a further extension can be arranged.

SHOULD HAVE BEEN A COPPER.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has been credited with being able to sleep as easily in a standing position as he can lying down. Said the Duke of Devonshire to him on one occasion: "You are like a policeman, Bannerman, you can always sleep standing up." An equally curious habit is that of Lord Rothschild, who confesses that he can sleep better in a theatre during the performance than he can at any other time or place.

HAWAIIAN BIRDS AND THEIR HABITS

Rather more than twenty years ago there was published in the Hawaiian Annual a paper on the birds of these islands from the pen of S. B. Dole, the present governor. In the last Annual an article appeared written by H. W. Henshaw of Hilo, and this has now been completed and published separately as a book of nearly 150 pages. A comparison of the two works will at once show the great increase in our knowledge of the island birds that has been gained, since 1879. Though modestly designated as a "list" the new work is a complete, popular and at the same time scientific, account of all the birds at present known to inhabit these islands. It consists almost entirely of interesting readable matter, the actual descriptions of the various species, although quite sufficient for their identification, being usually limited to seven or eight lines or even less. Mr. Henshaw's work is divided into two parts. The first deals with questions of general interest to the ornithologist, such as the nature of the forests, the destruction that has taken place and its taking place in these, the origin of the native birds, the causes of their decrease, an account of the work done by various collectors and the subjects.

The second part contains the brief technical descriptions referred to and likewise notes on the habits, songs, &c., of the various species. Many of these notes are the result of the author's field observations and contain much of interest. Thus of the "Omau" he says: "It is a common habit for it to alight on a limb lengthwise, a custom which with its erect attitude while perching strongly indicates thrust affinities."

To some species Mr. Henshaw has unquestionably paid more attention than any other observer, to the "Elepaio" of Hawaii and the "Io" for example. A few lines taken from the account of the former are a fair sample of the author's work: "The curiosity of the Elepaio is insatiable and a pair or two are always on hand to inspect an intruder and learn his business. It will follow and catch an insect on the wing, which it has chanced to dislodge from some hiding place, but it never sits and watches for flying insects as do the American Flycatchers. In fact by far the greater part of its insect food is gleaned from the branches of trees and shrubs, and from among the lichens and tangled ferns. Its motions generally and its hunting habits are those of a wren rather than those of a flycatcher. Indeed its resemblance to the wren is remarkable, especially when it droops its wings by its sides and cocks its tail over its back, which is its frequent habit."

It is curious that the use of the distorted mandible of the Akepa should have escaped the notice of the writer, since it is obvious when the live bird is examined with field glasses or even sometimes with the naked eye, or from an examination of the food of the bird, the economic value of some of the birds to and the need of legislation for their protection. As a matter of fact no forest bird should be killed under any pretext from the first of March till the middle of October, for not even for scientific purposes is it necessary to do so. It is a most unfortunate fact too that of the birds of the open country the golden plover both for food and sport surpasses all others, for it is of all the most helpful to the agriculturist, and its habit of selecting the most injurious insects, and its presence in the islands when these are most active might well afford it more protection.

At the end of the list the rice-bird, mynah and other introduced species are dealt with. For the camper out in the woods who wishes to know something of the birds around him, the present work is the very thing, while it is at the same time none the less interesting to the advanced student of ornithology. It should be in the possession of every one who takes any interest in this subject.

MEMORIAL ADOPTED.

The Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Association of Hawaii adopted at its October meeting the following memorial of the late Miss Mary Green, one of its most earnest supporters:

In the Providence of our Heavenly Father, our beloved sister and faithful coworker, Miss Mary Elizabeth Green, has been called home from the scenes of her labors among us. The Free Kindergarten and Children's Aid Association recalls with loving remembrance her earnest devotion to everything that pertained to its highest interest. She was ever ready to contribute liberally of her time and means and self to the physical, intellectual and spiritual betterment of others. Her love for the Hawaiian race, her self-sacrificing labors in their behalf, her steadfast desire to lighten the burdens of others, her sympathy, her spirit of cooperation, have ever been a source of encouragement and inspiration, to all who have been privileged to work by her side.

Her pathway was illumined by a bright and loving disposition, which not only made cheerful her own life, but left a lasting impress upon all with whom she came in contact.

The world is not only better but happier because of the life and influence of Mary Green.

We shall miss our friend and sister from the various places where we have been accustomed to meet her, but we shall cherish her memory with the deepest respect and affection. Let us be glad in our sorrow that we have had the privilege of knowing and of being associated with such a noble and Christ-like worker. To her sister and other relations we tender our heartfelt sympathy in this, their great loss, believing that their consolation will be in the assurance that to her "to die was gain."

TRACK LAYING AT MIDNIGHT

BALLASTING OF THE WAIKIKI EXTENSION OF THE RAPID TRANSIT COMPLETED TONIGHT.

Work was in progress all last night on the Rapid Transit Company's line of track through the McCully tract and the banana plantation between King street and the Waikiki road at Kalia road. Incandescent lights were rigged up on the trolley wire, and plenty of light was thus afforded.

Rush work is being done on the line this extension and it is expected it will be ready for car service by Thursday. The ballasting is expected to be completed today and tonight. There will then be some work straightening up of the trolley wire, and then the line will be ready for service.

The track for this distance is a perfectly straight piece of track, and it crosses no streets it may be expected that fast time can be made on it. The ballasting is now being done and it is claimed that such good work is being done in the ballasting as to make it perfectly safe to run at a very high rate of speed.

Ballasting, a very ingenious device has been resorted to. The track runs through old rice fields and banana patches. It would be an impossibility to haul the ballasting to where it is needed in wagons or carts. In this exigency the platform on top like a flat car. Two hatches are left in this platform. The car is then loaded with ballast and sent as a trailer to a trolley car to any point where ballasting is going on. The ballasting is then thrown down through the hatches in the ballast car right between the rails and ties. In this way the entire track is being ballasted.

When this line is completed and the car service on it has begun, the King street cars will run from Kalia out King to McCully street, then over this straight piece of track to Waikiki road. The other main line system of the road will run its cars from Wylie street down Lihua to King, thence along King, Hotel, Alapai, Kinau, Ponsicola, Wilder avenue, Alexander, Beretania and McCully street stopping at King street. Passengers by this line desiring to go on toward Waikiki will be transferred at this point to the King street cars.

The ballast material for the line is brought by wagons and carts, from Moiliili quarry, at the rate of a hundred or more cubic yards a day.

TUA-TUA REMEDY DEADLY POISON

AFTER EXPERIMENTS WITH THE EXTRACT DR. SHOREY COMES TO FOREGOING CONCLUSION.

Examinations of the tua tua by Dr. Shorey, food commissioner have resulted in the discovery of a deadly poison in the seed of the plant, and this is thought to be the ingredient that produces the painful effects attributed to the extract by those who claim it is a cure. Three cats on which experiments were made by Dr. Shorey have joined the silent majority, turning up their toes in short order after being given only a few drops of the oil of the tua tua seed.

The tua tua extract, without the seed produces no effect at all, and it is thought by Dr. Shorey that in the cases in which the supposed medicine proved an active drug seeds were mixed with the rest of the plant, and the extract contained some of the poison, not enough to produce a serious effect, but sufficient to cause a disturbance of the system.

Dr. Shorey has a small quantity of the oil in his laboratory and some of the extract as well. "I have taken at one time enough of the oil of the tua tua seed," said Dr. Shorey, "to constitute two or three ordinary doses, and no effect has been shown. The oil is a poison somewhat similar to croton oil and as it was fatal to the cats, I don't propose to take any myself. I believe that in all the cases in which the so-called tua tua remedy produced any effect at all, seed was mixed with the rest of the plant in making the extract, and some of this oil, which is not a strong enough poison to be fatal in very small quantities, and may possibly have its medicinal uses as croton oil, was in the extract. This accounts for the contradictory reports about the 'cure.' Some of those who take it remain quite unaffected, and increase the doses beyond all proportion without finding that it effects their systems at all. Others find it a strong purgative, and suffer severe pains from taking it."

Dr. Shorey's experiments have confirmed the opinions of the members of the Board of Health who thought that Tua Tua was useless as a remedy, and there appears to be little chance that anything will come of using it at Mokolai, as reports continue to be discouraging, and patients are giving up the treatment.

CONFIDENCE

said Lord Chatham, "is a plant of slow growth." People believe in things that they see, and in a broad sense they are right. What is sometimes called blind faith is not faith at all. There must be reason and fact to form a foundation for trust. In regard to a medicine or remedy, for example, people ask, "Has it cured others? Have cases like mine been relieved by it? Is it in harmony with the truths of modern science, and has it a record above suspicion? If so, it is worthy of confidence; and if I am ever attacked by any of the maladies for which it is commended I shall resort to it in full belief in its power to help me." On these lines has won its high reputation among medical men, and the people of all civilized countries. They trust it for the same reason that they trust in the familiar laws of nature or in the action of common things. This effective remedy is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. It quickly eradicates the poisonous, disease-breeding acids and other toxic matters from the system; regulates and promotes the normal action of the organs, gives vigorous appetite and digestion, and is infallible in Prostration—following Fevers, etc.—Scrofula, Influenza, Asthma, Wasting Diseases, Throat and Lung Troubles, etc. Dr. W. A. Young, of Canada, says: "Your tasteless preparation of cod liver oil has given me uniformly satisfactory results, my patients having been of all ages." It is a product of the skill and science of to-day and is successful after the old style modes of treatment have been appealed to in vain. Sold by all chemists.

THE GIBSON ESTATE.

Trustee Files His Final Accounts and Resigns.

David Dayton this morning filed his final accounts as trustee of the estate of Walter M. Gibson, deceased, with a resignation and request for the appointment of a new trustee. An inventory was also filed, showing the estate to consist of one-third of Laval ranch and stock, valued at $70,000, the Lanikaha homestead at Lahaina, valued at $5,000 and $2,500.44 in bank, part of the share of Rachel L. Hayselden. Dayton also filed an agreement by David K. Hayselden, one of the devisees under the will, to allow Mrs. Talula L. Hayselden to draw any part of his share that she may desire, and to release his claim for any part she may take under the agreement.

The suit of Hoffschlaeger and Company vs. Yim You and C. Winam, garnishee, was dismissed this morning by Judge Robinson, who sustained a plea of want of jurisdiction.
