The First Steamship at Hamburg.

A few weeks ago 70 years had passed since the first steamship arrived in Hamburg harbor. It was the Lady of the Lake, an English vessel, whose arrival on June 17th, 1816, caused quite a sensation. A year later the vessel went from Hamburg to Yarmouth, and for the next eight years no steamer was seen at Hamburg. In 1825, however, the English passenger steamer Hylton Joliffe and the Dutch steamer Ondermerring ran between London, Amsterdam, and Hamburg. Coal steamers followed later. The first, William the Fourth, arrived at Hamburg in 1836, and eleven years later another steam collier with a modest tonnage of 243 called at Hamburg. After that steamship communication developed in all directions.

The New Berlin Exchange.

This handsome block of buildings has been erected at a cost of about 3,000,000 Mk. The buildings are well worth seeing. Flights of steps lead on three sides to the Exchange hall, in which Berlin manufacturers and buyers will in future assemble daily. The hall, which has a glass cupola, is 54 metres long, 16 metres wide, and very high, and is supported by polished pillars. There are some 200 little apartments, supplied with the electric light. Along the walls are glass cases for the reception of samples, intended for the use of those frequenters who have on "stands." On the ground floor are the telephonic arrangements. A subway leads to one of Berlin's largest restaurants, which the Victoria Brewery has leased. Already large American buyers have taken "stands."

The New Sugar Taxation Law.

The most important part of the regulations adopted by the Bundesrath for the carrying out of the new Sugar Taxation Law relates to the establishment of bonding houses for home sugar. The condition is that the sugar shall within two years be returned to the open market on the return of the tax reimbursement with the addition of 5 per cent. interest, dating from the 1st of October following the warehousing of the sugar. All other regulations relate more or less to the formal dealing with the sugar by the excise authorities. So far our law has not authorized the bonding of sugar as stated above. Formerly there have only been so-called free warehouses for untaxed sugar, as well as private credit and transit warehouses. The establishment of the new bonding houses will evidently be of great advantage to the sugar industry. When a manufacturer is in want of money it will not be needful to sell his stocks if the low prices do not suit him: he may place his sugar in these warehouses and at once receive tax-reimbursement as if it had already been exported. Then he can wait quietly, for two years if he likes, till prices rise. When he takes the sugar back he returns the bounty for that part not exported in the meantime.—Kuhlke's Review.

How to Become a Millionaire.

John McDonough, the millionaire of New Orleans, has engraved upon his tomb a series of maxims he had prescribed as the rules for his guidance through life, and to which his success in business is mainly attributed. They contain so much wisdom that we copy them: Rules for the Guidance of My Life, 1804.—Remember always that labor is one of the conditions of our existence. Time is gold; throw not one minute away, but place each one to account. Do unto all men as you would be done by. Never put off till to-morrow what can be done to-day. Never bid another do what you can do yourself. Never covet what is not your own. Never think any matter so trifling as not to deserve notice. Never give that which does not come in. Never spend but to produce. Let the greatest order regulate the transactions of your life. Study in your course of life to do the greatest amount of good. Deprive yourself of nothing necessary to your comfort, but live in an honorably simplicity. Labor, then, to the last moment of your existence. Pursue strictly the above rules, and the Divine blessing of riches of every kind will flow upon you to your heart's content; but, first of all, remember that the chief and great duty of your life should be to tend, by all means in your power, to the honor and glory of our Divine Creator. The conclusion to which I have arrived is, that without temperance there is no health, without virtue no order, without religion no happiness, and that the aim of our being is to live wisely, soberly and righteously.

The Indian artisans, according to The World (London), are determined to eclipse the Shah of Persia as narrators of their European experiences. Their account of their arrival and reception is already published by the enterprising editor of the Darussalwan Calcutta, who has printed a copy of his paper in gold, which the Empress Queen has been pleased to accept.

Sir Gumpat Rao, the native Minister of the Junpat Maharajah of Gwalior, does most of the government of that interesting province at present. He is exceedingly deaf, and a newspaper correspondent who interviewed the agent, inquired whether this infirmity was not a bar to his usefulness. Sir Lepel Gaiffin—who is funny, but not admirable in the eyes of Americans—replied that deafness was so great an advantage in private society that he could not but think it might also prove of service in political life.

A gentleman once wrote to Mr. Whittier, asking if he possessed a copy of the poem called "Maud Muller's Reply." "Dear sir," answered the poet, "I never saw or heard of 'Maud Muller's Reply.' I am glad the poor soul could speak for herself. Thine truly, JOHN G. WHITTIER."

SCRANTON, Sept. 15.—The work of boring through the pillar at the Carvine coal mine, where the coal was some twenty feet thick, for the purpose of ascertaining something definite as to the fate of the entombed miners, was proceeded, with vigorously this morning, and the drill was not long in affecting an entrance to an opening beyond. When this was done, however, it was found that instead of air rushing out, as it had been hoped it would, gas came out.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society OF THE UNITED STATES.

From the beginning, the Equitable has been the pioneer in all reforms affecting the security, convenience, and advantage of policyholders. It was the first company to issue incontestable policies; the first to make such policies payable immediately, instead of after the delay of a stipulated number of months; the first to simplify the policy contract, and remove from the business technical and confusing complications; the first to apply the Tontine principle to life assurance; the first to issue a policy guaranteeing the payment of the entire reserve and a full share of the accumulated profits to each policy holder at the end of a stipulated period; the first to introduce the Semi-Tontine policy, which, in addition to all the ultimate advantages secured under the Tontine system, is "non-forfeiting," and has a surrender value during its earlier years.

During the twenty-six years and a half of its history, it has written $105,000,000 more of assurance than any other company during the same period!

No other company has approached the Equitable in the success achieved and surplus accumulated, and the results of management in the past furnish the best guarantee for the future, to intending assurers.
