OLD TROOP SHIP

Capt. "Ben" Whitney's Recollections of Transports.

'Twas Many Years Agone—Not a Great Deal of Attention for the Old Time Boys—No Pie.

Cap'n Ben, the pilots watchman, was listening to the strains of the Pennsylvania's band the other evening. The sun had just sunk from sight around Barber's point and carriages were going to and from the Mail wharf where the big transport was moored. It was then that he told of the quiet way, in which the men of the North left for the battle fields of Cerro Gordo, Chapultepec and Vera Cruz during the Mexican war of the later '40s.

There were no women around the old ship on which he was stationed as she swung at anchor off Governor's Island in New York harbor. They shed their tears at home in those days. There might have been buttons with "Remember the Alamo" on them, but Cap'n Ben didn't think there was. Fair hands brought no pie to the hungry boys. There were no snap shots by Kodak friends to send to home and mother. Somehow or other, the lads got along without these things. Eighteen days on salt pork and cabbage is rather a long stretch but that was all the food of the troopship of '47 that had Cap'n Ben and his comrades all the way to Vera Cruz. Then there was a long march over the burning sands to the City of Mexico. There had been no stopping off place for the seafaring soldier boys to find sympathizing friends and send word back to New England that they had eaten no other pie for many weeks. Salt pork and sauer kraut with coffee, morning, noon and night. Cap'n Ben got sauer kraut lodged and can't look at a head of cabbage without becoming nauseated now a days.

The return by the old side-wheeler Massachusetts, which broke the record of those days by making the trip in 13 days was more pleasant. Upon the arrival of the victorious army after their two years' campaign in Mexico a good deal of fuss was made over the soldiers in New York and Boston. "But notin', nothin'," said grizzled Cap'n Ben, "compared to what these youngsters are gettin'." Somehow we didn't feel so rich in those days and the main thing was to get back to the farm, get the crop in and go out fishin' for all us Maine men were more or less sea farin'.

Later on, when misfortune came, and Cap'n Ben reminded Uncle Sam through the pension office of his service in the war of '48, reward came promptly, and comes every three months still, in the small amount allotted to pensioners of the Mexican war. Once, some ferret, in the pension office in Washington thought he had picked a flaw in Cap'n Ben's record and wrote on saying he wanted affidavits of birth and other things that for sixty years he had long quit worrying about. But plenty of letters went from Honolulu to Washington, showing that Cap'n Ben had not only been a soldier of the Mexican war but master of an American ship as well and never again has he been questioned by the pension office.

HARRY BODE.

Honolulu Lad Who Has Been in Many Lands.

Harry Bode, the young musician of Company G, Montana Volunteers, has seen a good deal of life for a boy of his age, and, of course, he has been in some narrow places. He was on the Maine, for one thing, and left her just before she sailed for Havana. Once he was in jail for 30 days for refusing to leave a tabu freight train upon which he had taken passage. He was in Skaguay, Alaska, only a short time ago and saw a good deal of the gold excitement. His enlistment for Manila was not a surprise to any of his friends.

Bode was born in these Islands. Being cut adrift in the world when a mere boy he was taken up, raised and educated by H. Klemme. Once when 14 years of age he was given a switching for a serious breach of parental discipline. He ran away immediately and was gone three years. During this time he wandered over most of the world.

When last in Honolulu he worked on the dredger and was bell boy at the Hawaiian hotel. One day he was gone, no one knew where or how. His face was recognized a few months later in a group picture of a U. S. S. Maine crew. For a long time after the terrible disaster in Havana harbor, Bode was supposed to have gone down with the ship. News of him in Alaska, however, dispelled this fear of his friends.

Bode is a polite little gentleman. He has none of the bumptiousness of a wanderer or tough, and is honest to the core. He is also smart and industrious. For these reasons he has gotten along fairly well everywhere and undoubtedly has a good future before him. He is very popular with officers and men of his company.

RAINIER BEER

Is a winner with the "boys." They drink as much of it as they like—without fear of having a "large" head next day. Rainier leaves no unpleasant after-effects. It's the most delightful of all fine beers. On tap or in bottles at the Criterion.

Fence, Fence, Fence!

Please don't take offense when I tell you an Iron fence is the greatest that ever happened at 58 cents per foot and erected and painted. Be modern and show your beautiful homes. Down with the hedges and board fences (relics of by-gone days) and beautify your grounds and the city by throwing them open to view. It does not take a scholar to see the economy in beauty and durability in an Iron fence over all others at our prices. Every one acknowledges its superiority in every way, but former high prices have kept it from all but the wealthy. Iron and Wire Work of all kinds at lowest prices.

The Result of Neglect Is Blindness.

Many people are given to procrastination. They think that wrongs will right themselves. Not so with the eyes. Every day brings further complication. Many suffer with headaches, nervousness and dizziness without thinking they are caused by the eyes.

By my methods of examination mistake is impossible. Examinations free.

S. E. LUCAS, PARISIAN OPTICIAN. OFFICE: Love Building, Fort Street. (UPSTAIRS.)

Come to Attention!

At this time, when the minds of the people are absorbed with greeting and aloha toward the army of visitors, attention should not be forgotten to personal wants. Note the attitude of the soldiers when attention is called. They are all business, so should be the civilian when attention is called to their personal needs. Newspapers are the medium of attention and thought and through them we call the public to attention. Shoes need attention, your feet need consideration. We have shoes to suit everybody in price and style. We ask your attention and patronage.
