PROFIT SHARING

"Excellently," was the reply. "There has never been any trouble under our system. The reported trouble some time since was with an outside party and the plantation had nothing to do with it. We consider it better to contract direct with the laborer than through a third party. I forgot to mention before that we also build houses for those who make agreements with us. If they wish it, on the same terms that other advances are made. We consider our system effects a great saving in that the money required to pay overseers and lunas on other plantations is saved entirely. The company and the laborer both benefit by that. In case of default on the part of the laborer the company reserves the right, as you will see by referring to the agreements, of carrying out his contract at the expense of his share of the profits. Such cases, however, will be very rare. We shall have no trouble in getting all the land put in that we can furnish seed cane for. Most of the Portuguese seed cane does not even grow on their own land. Of course all the parties planting on our lands contract to sell all the cane they raise to our mill."

"Another question, Mr. McChesney. How about the rainfall?"
"I am glad you have mentioned that. Kona is situated on the lee side of Hawaii and our land is in what is termed the rain belt. Coffee grows there luxuriantly, and where coffee does well there is no scarcity of water. Our mill is on the lowest of our lands, about three miles from the beach at Kailua and just inside the rain belt. On the higher lands there is much more rain, but the very best cane yet produced there has come from the lower lands. The additional sun exposure seems to make the cane grow thicker and sweeter. There is no place on these islands where the rain is more evenly distributed than in Kona. On the upper government road in that district coffee, bananas and cane grow to perfection. The people depend solely on the rainfall from month to month for their water supply, catching and storing the rain in barrels and tanks. There can be no question about the sufficiency of the rainfall; in fact, it is somewhat of a drawback above the road and even less would be better. No one who has ever lived in that part of Kona would ever complain of the rainfall. Besides on that side of the island there are no drying winds."

"What varieties of cane do you plant?"
"On the upper lands we find the New Caledonia and Rose Bamboo to be the best; on the lower lands we plant the Lahaina variety. We have really had no fair test of the yield per acre. What was ground at the small mill last year yielded between five and ten tons to the acre."

"One more question. What are the prospects for the future with your experience to date?"

"Better than ever. We find the men work harder than under the contract system. We get more work in proportion with fewer men than under the system heretofore in vogue. Under our plan the company gets the benefit of running a much larger plantation on the same amount of capital than we could if we employed the laborers direct. The higher sugar is in value the more the laborer gets for his work, while on the hand if sugar should go down to half its present value the mill would still be running at a profit. We are more than satisfied with the outlook from our profit-sharing system as far as we can judge of the future from the past."

SEWER SYSTEM.

Actual Work Has Now Commenced at Kakaako.

Active work has been begun on Honolulu's sewerage system. For the last two days a gang of men has been engaged in making excavations for the discharge reservoir which is to be built in Kakaako. The scene of operations is alongside of the beach road, a short distance Waikiki of the new Iron Works building. From this reservoir by means of pumps the sewage will be carried a mile out into the sea through huge pipes. The water, at the place of final discharge in the ocean, has a depth of one hundred feet. This guards against all possibility of the refuse being washed up again along the beach.

The men who are engaged in this preliminary work came down with Mr. Vincent, the constructive engineer, on the Mariposa. They are all experienced men and after the ground is broken for the laying of the pipe, they will be placed in charge of the different gangs of laborers. These latter will all be obtained in this city. Engineers Vincent and Edwards are on the ground constantly paying attention to every detail. They have both studied the local conditions thoroughly and confidently assert that before this time next year Honolulu will possess a sewerage system which will be the equal of anything on the Mainland.

FIGHTING YELLOW JACK.

General Wood Finds the Situation at Santiago Serious.

SANTIAGO DE CUBA, July 19.—General Leonard Wood, the military governor, returned this morning from the United States and will take immediate and vigorous action to stamp out the yellow fever. He finds the situation more serious than he had anticipated. Tomorrow headquarters will move to Songo, twenty miles north, on a point 1,000 feet above sea level, as well as all the administrative offices, except the sanitary and a few immune clerks in the quartermaster and commissary staffs.

The paymaster has been ordered to suspend all payments to the Cuban troops until the fever has been stamped out, the special object of the order being to prevent the soldiers from drinking during the epidemic.

POPE APPEALS TO KRUEGER.

LONDON, July 19.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: The Pope has been in correspondence with President Krueger, appealing to him to avoid a rupture with Great Britain, and yesterday he received a dispatch from the Transvaal, the Chief Magistrate declaring that settlement was still distant, but that the crisis was passed.
