PEOPLE ON THE GRANT

Finest Transport Here Again.

MANY LADIES ARE ABOARD

Recruits, Officers, Nurses, Officers' Wives and Others En Route to Manila.

One of the finest and largest troopships in the world, the United States Army transport Grant, arrived in this port early yesterday morning from San Francisco. She sailed from San Francisco on the 16th instant, and has aboard recruits for the Philippines, Hospital Corps men, Signal Corps men, officers, civilians employed by the Government, nurses and the wives and families of a number of officers in the Philippines.

At 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon of the 18th instant, the Grant left her berth at Folsom street wharf in San Francisco and dropped into the stream, sailing soon afterward for Manila, via Honolulu and Guam. In the stream the Grant took on $1,300,000 in money which had arrived at the wharf a moment after the transport's lines had been cast off. The money is intended for the troops in the Philippines, and is in charge of Major Hamilton Wallace, paymaster of the Army. In constituted a truck load, and was guarded by armed soldiers on the way through the streets of San Francisco to the dock.

The Grant carries no regular troops. The large body of recruits which lined the railing of the big transport as she left the dock furnished the usual amount of shouting and hurrahs. Among the notable passengers are Mrs. Funston, wife of General Fred. Funston; Miss Smith, sister of General James F. Smith; Colonel M. C. Goodrell of the Marine Corps; Captain Dubois of the Forty-second United States Volunteers; Lieut. J. P. Hasson of the Thirty-fifth Infantry; Lieut. L. M. Cull of the Eleventh Cavalry; Lieut. R. H. Tenner of the Sixth Cavalry; Lieut. E. B. Howell of the Filipino Cavalry; Act. Asst. Surgeons W. B. McLaughlin, M. A. Probert and W. J. Lyster; Major T. C. Prince, quartermaster of the Marine Corps. In addition, the Grant has aboard sixteen male civilians, twenty-seven female civilians, six children, three female nurses, one commissary sergeant, seventy-four members of the Hospital Corps and 507 recruits.

Mrs. Funston is accompanied by her sister, Miss Blankart, and intends to make her home in Manila for some time to come. The General is now operating in the vicinity of San Ysidro, and his wife cannot tell just where her future home is located.

Mrs. Funston is as handsome as when she first sailed for Manila, the bride of the then Colonel of the Kansas regiment. When her husband returned to Manila, the ruler of the War Department would not permit her accompanying him. But matters are different now, and Mrs. Funston, while leaving not a few regrets behind, looks forward to happy days in the walled city. Her sister is to remain with her several months.

There are about twenty-five wives of army officers in the Philippines on board who have managed to cut the red tape of the Department.

One wife, however, was not so fortunate. This was Mrs. E. B. Howell, the bride of a newly made Second Lieutenant in the cavalry. Her husband is a passenger on the Grant. The two were married within the month. Howell had served in Cuba as a sergeant and went out to the Philippines with the same rank. He was invalided home and while at the Presidio he met and won Sadie Aubrey. The young woman was then the promised bride of Arthur L. Harris of the Hospital Corps, who was in the Yosemite Valley with the Sixth Cavalry. She wanted to marry Harris before he went away in last March, but he deferred the wedding until this month, when he would be free from the Army. He reached San Francisco on the day following the wedding of his affianced.

Twenty-seven recruits ordered to sail for the Philippines on the Grant disappeared on the night previous to sailing, and as they were nowhere to be found when the transport made ready for departure from San Francisco, they were left behind. Many of the derelict "rookies" will probably return and tell the commanding officer long tales of woe in the hope that they may escape the severe penalty that fits their offense.

They are, however, amenable to court-martial and unless they give a substantial reason for their shortcomings they will probably be summarily tried and sentenced.

The Grant is docked at the Navy wharf and is taking on coal. She has a great quantity of stores and supplies aboard for the Army in the Philippines. It is expected that she will sail for Manila via Guam on Saturday or Sunday. Captain Schiller is the navigator of the Grant.

TURNKEY MELANPHY INJURED.

A Drunken Prisoner Named O'Shea Gashes His Cheek.

A disturber named O'Shea went into a saloon yesterday morning for a drink. He didn't stop at one, but had several, and soon after partaking of the many, felt so good that he threw schooners of beer over the other patrons of the bar out of sheer devilment. The bartender, when he thought the thing had gone far enough, called a policeman and O'Shea was escorted to the "cooler."

Arrived at the station and the customary formalities having been gone through with, O'Shea was handed over to the charge of Turnkey Melanphy. As the prisoner proved somewhat obstinate, the turnkey was obliged to bring slight physical persuasion to bear in order to conduct him to his allotted quarters. Suddenly O'Shea turned on Melanphy and struck him a terrific blow with his clenched fist, squarely in the mouth, knocking him down, loosening several of his teeth and inflicting an ugly gash in his lip, which required twelve stitches to make both ends meet.

Two charges have been preferred against O'Shea, one of malicious injury and the other of assault and battery.

Charles A. K. Hopkins, bailiff of the Circuit Court, has received the Canadian patents for his new safety envelope, and he expects to put it on the market in Canada within a short time. Mr. Hopkins has patented the envelope in England, Germany and Canada, and patents are now pending in the United States. The device is an ingenious one, and so simple that it should prove a money making scheme for its inventor.

The highest standard is found in Spruance, Stanley & Co.'s celebrated brands of Kentucky whiskey.
