IS QUALITY

then no consideration? Even if "all coons look alike," certainly they are not all the same quality.

Can anything be more true than this concerning jewelry or silver goods? How many pieces made in the same pattern, from the common plated ware to the finest of gold, bear the same outward resemblance?

Can you tell them apart? Yet you do not wonder that there is some difference in the cost of making.

Is it not here where the guarantee and the reputation of the dealer is your safeguard?

This fall's productions embrace some striking examples in the better class of ornaments.

Magnificent brooches and pendants set with the different gems. The "Art Nouveau," so popular at the Paris Exposition. Highly artistic and individual. Not the kind turned out by the yard.

We have all the high-class gold and silver novelties to be found anywhere, and believe it possible to meet all requirements for goods in our various lines.

ROUTINE OF THE COURTS

Ah Su Alina Is After J. A. Magoon.

HE FILES HIS ACCOUNTS

Dissolution of Partnership Demurrer—Other News of the Day.

Ah Su Alina, daughter of Alina, deceased, filed a motion in probate Wednesday asking that J. A. Magoon, administrator of her father's estate, be required to file in court a complete account of his receipts and expenditures in and concerning the estate, alleging that the administrator had failed at any time to file such a paper with the court.

Under date of December 19 Mr. Magoon filed his account of the estate, commencing December 10, the accounts in reality closing April 1, 1892, with a balance to the credit of the heir of $5.56. The paper filed Wednesday gives the accounts as totalled up to December 18, 1900.

The administrator charges himself with $3,049.10 and gives expenses at $3,043.54, with a balance of $5.56. The statement of the itemized accounts filed is on paper showing unmistakable evidences of age. The typewritten sheets were yellow with the lapse of time.

Still another demurrer has been filed in the dissolution of copartnership brought by W. F. C. Haason against W. H. Pain et al. and the Palawai Upland & Development Company. F. M. Wakefield is the latest to file his paper. He contends that the Circuit Court has no jurisdiction of the person of the defendants or of the subject matter of the action, and the defendant asks that he be dismissed from further answering the complaint.

Defendant in the case of H. R. Hitchcock vs. Lee Toma has appealed to the Circuit Court from the decision of the Second District Court of Honolulu in which plaintiff was awarded judgment for $30 and costs.

Defendants in case of Tom Wai vs. Chock Pah et al. have appealed to the Circuit Court from the decision of the Second District Court of Honolulu, wherein judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for $29.50, and counter judgment for defendant for $29.50, and found for the defendant judgment for costs of court, $5.10.

Henry Smith, guardian of the estate of Charles H. Hitchcock, has filed his second account in the Circuit Court, showing receipts amounting to $178.45, and expenses $178.75, showing a balance of $2.30 overpaid by guardian.

Namokuono Ewaliko, defendant in suit brought by Kesaulon and Kapeia to cancel deed and for re-convey by Elizabeth K. Booth, stating that the complaint does not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action.

In the suit of E. O. Hall & Co. against H. A. Isenberg et al. defendant F. M. Wakefield of Hilo has filed his answer denying each and every allegation.

A discontinuance in the case of Ving Chan vs. Royal Insurance Company was filed by the plaintiff yesterday.

AMERICA AND BRITAIN.

(From Lord Rosebery's Recent Speech at Glasgow.)

Lord Rosebery asserted that but for the small incident of the acceptance of a peerage the empire might have been irrevocably greater. Had the elder Pitt, when he first became minister, not left the House of Commons as he would probably have retained his sanity and authority, and he would have prevented or suppressed the reckless budget of Townshend, introduced George III. to listen to reason, introduced representatives of America into Parliament and preserved the thirteen colonies to the British crown.

"It is fanciful to dwell for a moment on what might have happened," continued Lord Rosebery. "The reform bill of 1832 would probably have been passed much earlier, for the new blood of America would have burst the old vessels of the constitution. It would have provided a self-adjusting system of representation, such as now prevails in the United States, whereby the increasing population is proportionately represented. And at last, when the Americans became a majority of the seats, the empire would, perhaps, have been moved solemnly across the Atlantic and Britain would have become an historical shrine, the European outpost of the world empire. What an extraordinary revolution it would have been! The great unknown without-bloodshed. The most sublime transference of power in the history of mankind. Our conceptions can scarcely picture the procession across the Atlantic of the greatest sovereign and the greatest fleet in the universe; ministers, government and Parliament departing solemnly for another hemisphere. Not, as in the case of the Portuguese sovereigns emigrating to Brazil, under the spur of necessity, but under the vigorous embrace of the younger world. America would have hung on the skirts of Britain and pulled her back out of European complications. She would have profoundly affected her foreign policy in the direction of peace, and her influence on her domestic policy would have been scarcely less potent. Probably she would have appeared and even contented Ireland. The ancient constitution of Britain would have been rendered more comprehensive and more elastic.

"On the other hand, the American yearning for liberty would have taken a different form, would have blended with other traditions and floated into other molds. Above all there would have been no separation, no war of independence, no war of 1812, with all the bitter memories these have left in America. To secure that priceless boon I could be satisfied to see a British leader in Parliament sitting in Columbia territory."

COFFEE-GROWING IN AFRICA.

The coffee-growing industry in tropical Africa is developing tremendously, according to the Scientific American. It says: "The seed was introduced into the English missionaries who conveyed a few beans from Java with the object of ascertaining whether the resources of the country were favorable to the culture of the article. Judging from results, the ground appears peculiarly adapted to the industry, since last year 100 tons of coffee were exported from Uganda alone, and the result of this year's production will be even greater. Biantyre's coffee is generally contended to be the finest in the world, even excelling the famous Mocha. It is greatly in demand in England, but unfortunately up to the present the supply is very limited. The great difficulty with which the growers have to contend is the imperfect means of transporting the article from the plantations to the sea. This difficulty, however, will be overcome to a great extent by the construction of the Uganda Railway."

THE CAPITAL'S CENTENNIAL

Washington City Observes it With An Imposing Ceremony.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—With imposing ceremonies the National Capital today celebrated the centennial anniversary of the founding of the seat of the Federal Government in Washington. The exercises combined a brilliant military parade, a review by the President from the east front of the Capitol, and orations in the hall of the House of Representatives, where a brilliant audience was assembled. By act of Congress the day was made a national holiday in the District of Columbia, the Government departments were closed, business was suspended and the whole city gave itself over to celebrating the capital's natal day. The day was splendidly decorated and thousands of flags flew from public buildings.

President McKinley and the members of his Cabinet took a prominent part in all the exercises, and with them were the chief executives of a large number of the States and Territories of the Union, the Senators and Representatives in Congress, the judiciary of the United States Supreme Court, the Embassadors and Ministers from foreign courts, the heads of the Army and Navy and a great outpouring of the people. Although Washington is the scene of many celebrations, it is seldom that one has occurred here of greater brilliancy in its outdoor features or of more impressiveness in its ceremonial exercises at the Capitol and at the White House.

Early in the day the President received the Governors of States and Territories at the White House, and the model for a new and enlarged White House to commemorate today's exercises was unveiled with suitable addresses. At 1 o'clock the President was escorted to the Capitol, where he reviewed a parade headed by Lieutenant General Miles and including the full military strength of the capital, regulars and militia. The ceremonies at the Capitol began at 3:30 p. m., and included addresses by Senators Daniel of Virginia and McComas of Maryland, Representatives Payne of New York and Richardson of Tennessee, and a notable historical oration by Senator Hoar of Massachusetts. A reception by the President to the Governors of States at the Corcoran Art Gallery tonight closed the festivities.

A PROSPECTIVE HEIRESS.

One of the attractive young maidens to be seen flitting about on Fifth avenue of an afternoon is Miss Dorothy Whitney, who is not yet sixteen years old. She is a great favorite with her girl friends, who visit her in throngs at William C. Whitney's big house up Fifth avenue. Some people say that Miss Dorothy Whitney is prospective'y the greatest heiress in town. She is a special pet with her uncle, Oliver H. Payne, who, by the way, is also very partial to his other niece, M's. Almerice Paret, who will pass the winter abroad. William C. Whitney will do some entertaining this winter in the line of dinners and receptions.—New York World.
