IS NOT A
NURSERY
The Court Orders
Chinese Girl
Deported.
SHE IS THIRTEEN,
WITH EXPERIENCE
Yong Lam How, a Chinese Boy,
Also is Ordered Sent Back to the Orient.

"This Territory will not be made a nursery for the children of Chinese mothers living in China."
Thus spoke Judge Estee of the United States Court yesterday in ordering the department of Ah Quoi, the thirteen-year-old Chinese girl, who claimed to have been born in Honolulu. She is the same girl who was in the court room at the time of the trial of the two sisters, when it was impossible to distinguish any one of the three from the other.
Judge Estee, after reviewing some of the alleged facts in the case, said: "This is the case of Ah Quoi, arrested by Marshal Hendry on the ground that she is not a legal resident of the Territory of Hawaii. In the answer made by the defendant it is alleged that this Chinese girl was born here November 15, 1888. Four different Chinese witnesses testified that she was born here, but not two agreed as to the time and place of such birth. I don't believe the testimony of the man who claimed to be her uncle, not only because of his general demeanor, but also from the fact that he had been in the court as a witness on several previous occasions, in which he testified as to the birth of various defendants.
"The witnesses are only agreed to the facts that the father is dead, and that the mother lives in China. The court does not believe that this girl was born in the Islands or that she has any reason for being here. The court will add that this Territory will not be made a nursery for the care of children of Chinese mothers living in China. The order is that Ah Quoi be given to the custody of the marshal for deportation."
The girl was not present in court. She will be turned over to the United States Marshal and put aboard the first steamer for shipment to China.

CHINESE BOY ORDERED DEPORTED.
Yong Lam Chow, the Chinese boy who claimed to have been born in the Islands, was also ordered deported. The evidence of the defendant had not all been introduced Monday, when the case was heard, and a continuance was granted to yesterday morning, in order that Attorney Stewart might bring in the remainder of his witnesses. He made a statement to the court to the effect that he had talked with all his witnesses Monday, and they had faithfully promised to be in court at 9 o'clock. He was given ten minutes in order to allow him to secure the presence of the missing witnesses, but at the end of that time he reported that they had failed to arrive, and submitted the case as it stood without argument. Evidently Chinese are going back on their brethren, as in several cases in the past they have seemed not too anxious to testify, and it has become quite difficult to secure their presence in the Federal Court.
"The evidence in this case is also very conflicting," said the court in ordering the deportation of the defendant. "The answer alleges that the defendant was born in 1885, and yet every witness makes a different statement as to the time of his birth. The father claims that the boy was born in 1884, the witness who says he was present at his birth testified he was born in 1886, and then contradicts himself and says he was born in 1883. The same man also says he was born in 1884, and the testimony of none of the witnesses bear out the allegations in the answer. Yong Lam says he made three visits to China; I do not believe it. The court finds it very unpleasant to say that he does not believe the witnesses, but their statements are impossible of belief. The court is compelled to remand the defendant back to the country from whence he came, and he will be taken into custody of the marshals for deportation."

A LONG FELT WANT.
It is Supplied in Honolulu at Last.
It is hard always to be pleasant. Good-natured people are often irritable.
If you knew the reason you would not be surprised.
Ever have itching piles?
Not sick enough to go to bed nor well enough to be content.
Nothing will annoy you so.
The constant itching sensation.
Hard to bear, harder to get relief.
Keeps you awake nights.
Spoils your temper—nearly drives you crazy.
Isn't relief and cure a long-felt want? It is to be had for everyone in Doan's Ointment.
Doan's Ointment never fails to cure itching piles.
Eczema or any itchininess of the skin.
Here is proof of it in the testimony of Mr. Frank Leibly of 326 S. Main st., Wilkesbarre, Pa., who says: "It is with much pleasure that I testify to the merits of Doan's Ointment in cases of menting affliction for the past year. I suffered from that terrible itching piles. I tried nearly everything that was recommended to me and what I saw advertised, but I could get no relief. Finally I procured Doan's Ointment. After a few applications I was much relieved, and, continuing the treatment, I was soon completely cured. I have felt no signs of that intolerable itching since, and it is four months ago since I used Doan's Ointment. To say that I was delighted is only half expressing my enthusiasm. I recommend this remedy whenever the opportunity is presented. You may publish my statement at any time and I can always be found at 326 S. Main street, and will vouch for the same."

BISHOP MUSEUM ACTIVITY.
To the Editor, P. C. Advertiser, Honolulu: For the purpose of stating a few facts, which an article in your paper today calls forth, the following information is given by the Bishop Museum.

Our entomological collection is the residual third of a collection made by Mr. R. C. L. Perkins, collector for a work supported by the Royal Society of London, the British Association for the Advancement of Science, and the Bernice Pauahi Bishop Museum, which work is carried on under the direction of the noted English entomologist, Dr. David Sharp, F. R. S. The material has been and is being worked out scientifically by noted specialists in England and America, the Americans being Dr. L. O. Howard, chief entomologist at Washington, and his assistant, Mr. W. H. Ashmead (now in these Islands), and the results of the investigations are being published as "Fauna Hawaiana," which the Bishop Museum includes with its publications. The collector of the specimens, Mr. Perkins, has already prepared several of the orders of Hawaiian insects, and our collection is cared for in the way he has suggested, and is in better order than when received.
The article more than once makes mention of unscientific treatment by this Museum of the specimens. The collection has been carefully placed inside insect proof cedar drawers, precisely as it was received fresh from the hands of the specialists, who worked out the groups, and every precaution has been taken for its preservation.
As regards detailing an expert to take charge of the entomological department, at present it would be unwise to have a man here solely for that purpose since there are now in the Islands three gentlemen of enviable reputation as entomologists at work on our native fauna to say nothing of the probable economic study of insects to be made by the new Agricultural Experiment Station.
At present no Hawaiian insects are on exhibition owing to the lack of suitable space. It is anticipated, however, that when the new Hawaiian Hall is ready, a good representative collection will be on view in addition to the reserve study collection which is always available to special students.

FISHES NEW TO SCIENCE
Dr. David Starr Jordan Talks of His Work Here.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23.—President David Starr Jordan of Stanford University came home from the Hawaiian Islands yesterday on the steamer Sierra. He has been in the new Territory for about two months with a party of scientists making investigations along the line of his scientific specialty, ichthyology.
"During the time I have been in the Islands we have captured 235 kinds of fish," he said. "Of these 71 are new to science. Thirty-five of these new varieties were found in the waters about Honolulu, and twenty near Hilo. Something like fifteen were found to be common to both places. The work of making laws for the protection of the fishing industry of the Islands will devolve to a large extent upon the report of our commission.
"I doubt if the transporting of foreign fishes in the waters of the Islands can be done successfully. The fresh water streams are too small for anything to be done as far as they are concerned. There are, however, certain forms of edible mollusks that I think would do well in those waters, and an attempt might be made to introduce them there.
"The political and social conditions in the Islands are being exaggerated to no little danger in the East. Affairs are not half as bad as some newspapers try to make them out. The problems of the Hawaiian Islands are those of tropics. So far some form of slavery, either open or disguised, has existed in all countries between 25° degrees north and 25° degrees south. Only the future can tell whether the Hawaiian Islands can be made to produce those social conditions which will make all men free and equal.
"As to the native legislators, they will do their worst the first year they are in power and will improve from one session to another. To insure absolute equality the elective franchise theoretically should not be withheld from either the Chinese or the Japanese, but it is doubtful if this would be the best thing for practical results.
"Considerable talk has been indulged in for and against the political annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to California. I fall to see just how or where it is a vital question. Annexation certainly cannot take place until a cable connects the Islands with California. This, at the very least, will not take place for three or four years. Then, too, the people of California will have to be consulted in the matter."

EAST RIVER BRIDGE, NEW YORK.
The East River bridge will be the largest suspension bridge in the world. The old Brooklyn bridge is its nearest rival. Great advances have been made since that earlier engineering feat was accomplished. New methods and modern machinery have simplified much of the detail of the work. Lessons were learned at the building of the older bridge. The making of the first connection between the towers and the twisting of the great cables have both been planned, and the first carried out on entirely new and unprecedented lines. The comparative dimensions of the new bridge with the Brooklyn bridge will give graphically the size of the completed East River structure:
East River, Brooklyn.
Strength in proportion.. 4 1
Width, feet 118 85
Channel span, feet 1,565 1,565 1/2
Total length of span, ft. 7,200 6,000
Height of towers from water 335 276
Minimum length at center 135 135
