The Queen and Her Plans---Wireless Dreams.

(Special to The Advertiser.)
SAN FRANCISCO, July 8.—Former Queen Liliuokalani returns on the steamship China to her beloved Hawaii, accompanied by the young Hawaiians who compose her unpretentious suite. The Queen has been at the California Hotel for several days, and is understood to be in fair health. She has refused all requests for interviews made by reporters and correspondents, and has secluded herself while at the hotel. In my last letter I mentioned that I had been told the Queen had small hopes of receiving anything from Congress for her crown lands claim. I believe my informant spoke without knowledge, as I was assured yesterday by an intimate of the Queen that she feels certain that the visit of the Congressional investigating committee to Hawaii this summer will result in her getting a large appropriation. I understand that the Queen will entertain the junketing Congressmen in royal fashion, and while making it plain that her fortunes are at a low ebb for a former monarch, yet will spare no expense to impress the visitors with her generous hospitality, and with the charms of the Islands. Robert Wilcox is friendly with one or two of the delegates and will also assist the members in their investigations of conditions. Wilcox told me when he was here that he looked for big things to grow out of the committee's report, and that he believed the Dole administration would be censured despite President Roosevelt's unqualified approval of the Governor's conduct of his office.

QUEEN IN SAN FRANCISCO.
Of the Queen's visit in San Francisco the Chronicle says:
Former Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii arrived here from the East yesterday morning and is a guest at the California Hotel. She has been in Washington during the last several months endeavoring to persuade Congress that the United States government ought to pay her for the crown lands of Hawaii taken by it or restore them to her possession. The only action taken that has any bearing on the claim of the former monarch was the adoption of a resolution by the Senate, directing the Senate Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico to visit the Islands during the recess of Congress and to investigate, among other matters, various questions pertaining to the crown lands. The resolution directs the committee to ascertain the area, condition, quality and value of the lands, the rents and other proceeds received therefrom since January 17, 1898; whether or not the former Queen now possesses any legal or equitable title or interest in the same, and whether she has any claim against the United States by reason of having parted with her title to the property. Queen Liliuokalani is informing her friends that she is satisfied the Senate committee's investigation will establish her claim to the lands in dispute, which include some of the most valuable sugar plantations in the Islands. She will sail for the Islands on the steamer China next Tuesday.

FAKE WIRELESS RUMOR.
It is stated by a leading mining weekly that John D. Spreckels will connect San Francisco and Hawaii by wireless telegraphy, and that he has experts now at work planning the system. It is said that so strongly is he convinced of the feasibility of the scheme he "refused to take any stock in the proposed cable to Honolulu." This statement must mean that he took no particular interest in the cable laying, for it is not likely that he was asked to take any shares in the enterprise as John W. Mackay has plenty of money to finance the cable, and besides the rich Commercial Cable Company is back of it. Undoubtedly Spreckels takes a deep interest in wireless telegraphy, and there is probably truth in the assertion that he will try to reach Hawaii with the system. Just now, however, Spreckels is so involved in political and business worries that he can have no time for minor things. Governor Gage is suing him for criminal libel for articles published in the San Francisco Call, which Spreckels owns, his brothers are fighting him in the courts, and Oceanic stock is greatly depressed.
