BASEBALL SEASON OFF

down the club men to ten hits, but there was such support that the hits though bunched only in the fifth when two doubles and a single netted two runs, seemingly cut little figure in the scoring. Clarence Cooke, who went in in place of Steere, opened with a hit but was forced at second a moment later, and Marcellino was safe. Waterhouse got down to the initial base on his little one which was held too long by Wright, and then with the two on bases Desha threw Cunha's little boulder nearly down to Beretania street and two scored, Cunha following them in a few minutes later, on Castle's little hit. With this start the collegians got against another in the second Hemenway banging one to deep right and scoring on it though Kiley should have stopped him.

They took the lead in the fifth when Marcellino, opening with a double, and hits by Waterhouse, Cunha, J. Marcellino and Babbitt succeeding, three being thrown in an error or two and two stolen bases, four men chased home. The game was nailed in the sixth when eleven men faced the pitcher and seven of them scored. It is impossible to imagine anything except a double play that was left out of the inning. Hemenway opened it with a single, Steere, Castle and the two Marcellinos followed and Hemenway got a triple. But mixed in to make the seven runs there were bases on balls, wild throws, a blocked ball, commonplace errors, all distinguishing the record. As if this was not enough in the ninth ten men came up once more, and with two bases on balls, three hits and an error tallied five runs, making the total twenty.

The Maties started off with a rush taking advantage of the misplays of the collegians as though they were going to hold the boards for a long time. Luahiva got to first on an error of Marcellino and finally scored on an error. Mana was out at first but Clark got a life and though caught at the plate the fielding of the Punaous was so slow that the three men following got to first on infield hits, and finally when Desha sent a little one down to short Babbitt went after it, knocked out Marcellino and when the shortstop got the ball he sent it into the crowd and every one made home safely, netting five for the inning.

It was not till the fourth that another was added, then on the hit of Desha and the error of Soper, Clark's hit and doubles by Kiley and Wright gave two more in the fifth. Clark's and Kiley's hits and Hemenway's error another in the seventh, and a bunch of errors and a long fly another in the eighth. In the last time up Wright and Akau got safe on Steere's bad throws and chased home on Taylor's double, the score stopping at the twelve.

HONOLULU HAD TO WIN.

The insiders expected the Kamehamehas to win the second game as the chance for them to tie the runners-up if they took the game. But it was not possible. The game went off well, the Kams getting one in the third on Leslie's error, two steals and Hamaku's triple which would have been a homer had the runner touched third base. In fact he missed second too, but Judge Steere could not see the misstep. The score was tied by the Honolulu mauling one on Aylett's pass and two passed balls and a wild pitch. Then came the fatal sixth inning. Aylett opened it with a hit and through Joy's double, wild throws, and Leslie and Bolster's hits five runs were scored. There was nothing to be done but take the game, for though Yates and Plunkett accumulated runs in the seventh on hits and errors, and Hamaku and other in the next on hits by himself, Reuter and Wise, the lead of the champions was too great to be overcome. The scores follow:

on a somewhat erratic jade. Instead of maintaining her residence at Kilauea she has, since 1878, been fitting from place to place and appears upon mountains from time to time with scarcely an intimation of her intended visit. Between 1878 and a period many years prior she lived almost continuously at Kilauea; then her pipe went out and her visits to the old nestmate since that year have been uncertain. Rufus Lyman, Sr., who was born here in 1842, says that his father often spoke of the crater being active almost continuously from 1840 until 1868, when severe earthquakes put out the fire and the great mud flow in Kau followed. During that long period of pyrotechnics there were intervals when as many as eight lakes were visible in Kilauea, and at times there was molten lava around the sides of the big pit. On one occasion when the elder Lyman was in the crater attempting to dip out some lava on the point of a stick he nearly lost his life. It seems that the stick was not long enough for the purpose and he stepped back to tie the two together. As he did so a jet of lava spouted at his feet and he stepped further back. A moment later the lava caved in, leaving a running stream of fire where he had been standing.

When Mark Twain visited the crater in 1866 there were several lakes in active operation, and so weird and dangerous did it seem to Twain's companion that he declined to go down to the crater. After the earthquakes of '68 the crater subsided for several months and then became active and remained so for nearly ten years. Mr. Lyman says that during that time he made frequent trips to Kau and he says that there were cracks in the pahoehoe near Kapapala in which fire was visible. At no time was the fire out of the crater for more than a week.

Since early in 1880 the periods during which there has been little or no activity have gradually increased in length and at no time has there been continuous fire for more than a few months, and it is impossible, even for Kamaoia, to tell how long the present outbreak will continue. Henry Lyman was down to the crater Tuesday night and in his opinion the fire is slowly rising. Captain Lake says he saw a flow of lava from the side of the crater some distance from the bottom. He says the now continued for forty-eight minutes without interruption.

WILDER'S STEAMSHIP CO.

A Second Excursion to the Volcano by Steamer Helene.

STEAMER HELENE, NICHOLSON, Master, will sail from Honolulu on Saturday, September 23rd, at 12 noon, arriving in Hilo Sunday afternoon in time to connect with train, reaching the volcano the same evening; returning, passengers will leave the Volcano House Wednesday afternoon, connecting with the steamer that evening, arriving at Honolulu early Friday morning.

Three days and three nights at the volcano. Latest reports indicate that the volcano is increasing in activity from day to day. Inasmuch as the crater of Kilauea may become extinct, this may be the last opportunity for seeing it in activity.

Tickets for the round trip, first-class accommodations all through, $40.00. Passengers are requested to book early, suitable reservations on the train and at the Volcano House can be made. 6264
