BIG GUNS ON THE OREGON "USELESS"

Pride of the Navy Going Home for Complete Overhauling.

The 16-inch guns aboard the United States battleship Oregon were to be displayed in a new light yesterday. The big gun group was left behind at Seattle when the Oregon made her way down through the Straits of Juan de Fuca to make port in San Francisco. It is said that the guns may be displayed in the Oregon at certain hours each day during the next few days.

Flying a beautiful silk five-footers and a forty-four-foot balloon, the Oregon took the lead in the race, with the battleship Oregon coming into port first yesterday from Yokohama after four and a half years' service in the Far East. The Oregon, with a load of 14,000 tons of coal, will return to Mare Island, where her armament will be reconditioned, and then proceed to Hampton Roads, there to get out of commission. Since the pride of the navy, "The Oregon," an order was filed through the White House by President McKinley in the case of the captain of the Oregon, Maj. R. C. lounge, who was wounded in the war, and that the captain should be in a position to take his place as a defender of the flag.
