Coffee Shop Gossip.

"I see that the Advertiser is butting into small farming again," said the Cheerful Liar. "This time it feels the dear readers how to cure sore head and while its way may do for Manoa I'll make an affidavit that it won't go in, Olan. I tried greasing chicken's heads and squirting kerosene down their throats and the operation was highly successful, but there wasn't one in a bunch of two hundred that survived the shock. If Editor Smith lived up here I have no doubt he would undertake to make coffee culture in Olan a success, but I'm afraid he'd grow thin with his efforts."

"I am glad to see this flurry in banana culture," said the Meddler. "for it looks as though the industry would take a spurt that would make it a permanent one. I don't know how it is now but a half dozen years ago there was enough land in this vicinity to produce a million bunches a year.
 Right up in Olan there is enough spare cleared land in ready to produce twenty thousand bunches a month

When the time comes that Hilo ships that quantity there will be a company organized that will run its own steamers and have a service that will be worth while. The industry will be so far advanced that the fruit will be picked at the right time and properly stored in the vessels. There has been so much dissatisfaction in this respect in the past that some of the growers have preferred to send via Honolulu. Now that there is to be an agent of the Hilo growers in San Francisco the results may be so very much improved that the number of planters will be doubled."

"I would like to see more of them go into growing pineapples," said the Early Riser. "There would be two markets for the product; San Francisco and local for there is no doubt the Tropical Canning Company would take every vine grown. That company is now producing a jelly that is simply magnificent and the demand for it on the mainland is far in excess of the supply. The first shipment is to go on the Enterprise. I have been informed that New York wants ten thousand cases of guava jelly from the company as soon as it can be made.
 I guess the demand for nicely preserved pines would be quite as great."

"The canning industry will grow here just as the bananas industry has grown," said the Cheerful Liar "and the day may come when we will have canneries as thick as oil derricks at Belmont, Texas, and there may crop up a new class of society. The cannery girl is distinctively San Franciscoesque."

"My opinion is that San Francisco commission men are trying to get control of the product of this section," said the Kicker. "You will find that within sixty days, when the commission men get things fixed to suit themselves, the price will drop so that the growers will not know where they are at. This is only my opinion and it may not be worth considering a moment. The development of the industry here has attracted the attention of the sharks up there and for the men here to be able to combat them it will be necessary to form a strong

It is rather a disreputable as well as dangerous species of cur which rends and mangles the hand kindly extended to it with food.
 Last week the News suggested that $10,000 of the appropriation for Kahului Harbor be diverted to the uses of Lahaina wharf, in addition to the amount already appropriated for Lahaina. A writer to the Bulletin who disgraces the fair name and fame of Lahaina by using the word Lahaina for a nom-de-plume, on reading this suggestion of the NEWS, fell into a compound fit of rabies and frothed at the mouth in a quarter column article. At first one is puzzled to learn why such a proposed diversion of the Kahului Harbor appropriation to Lahaina should be so vindictively assailed. But the tail end of the article, like that of a lightning bug, throws light on the whole of the article. It is the county seat and the thought of the $35,000 appropriation for the Wailuku courthouse which maddened "Lamaia." The brilliant peroration of the writer almost redeems him however, for his fit of anger changing to enthusiasm, he invites the News man to come to Lahaina on electric cars and behold the ocean steamers daily leaving that port for Texas. Is there a bughouse in Lahaina?

Reports from the Atlantic to the Pacific seaboard are all rife with the burden of the news of wonderful material progress and growth in every city and town throughout the whole of the United States. And even country places and country villages, with few exceptions are sharing in the prevailing growth and prosperity.
 New York city which now is and perhaps always will be the leading city in the United States, is making a monstrous growth, and has practically superseded London as the real money center. San Francisco, which lay asleep on its sea washed hills for many years, has now waked up and is starting in on an era of growth which will not stop until it ranks third in size of the mainland cities, if not second, as Chicago will prove its only rival. Investments in San Francisco real estate will prove richer investments to patient waiters than all its early gold mines. Hawaii is still asleep, but ten years from now will find mainland prosperity right in Honolulu.

The Japanese, having dislodged the Russians from the banks of the Yalu, have skillfully transferred the entire theatre of the war to Liaotung peninsula which they have securely mastered by the capture of the Kinchow and Dalney. Port Arthur is thus entirely cut off from aid by land as well as by sea, and will be reduced to Japanese possession in the near future. In the meantime, the only plan of procedure left open for the Russians is to assume the offensive and attempt to drive the Japanese off the Liaotung peninsula.
 And with the Japanese strongly entrenched, it is doubtful if Russia commands enough troop in Manchuria to effect this object.

It is a natural and perhaps justifiable boast that British control of provinces is superior that of American control. It is true possibly also that Hawaii was better off before annexation, so far as local government was concerned, and that there might be a better form of government for the Philippines than that now prevailing.
 But in one thing every new American acquisition will gain infinitely more than it will lose, for it will in the end gain self government.
 And no gift can be so precious to any people as to be allowed to pass through the experience of governing themselves according to the will of the majority.

Much conjecture is being indulged in as to the future of our new school building and the work which will be done there. Some are pessimistic, and claim that it will simply remain a Japanese kindergarden, but those who are farsighted can see a very different and much brighter future for it. Our new school will prove the crown jewel in Wailuku's diadem, and the day is coming when under the wise and able corps of teachers, the work done at our Wai-luku school will rank with that in mainland cities of much larger size. Nothing better has ever come to Wailuku than our new school building.

If indications are of any value so far as Maui is concerned, it may be deemed certain that affiliation will be completely effected between the democrats and home rulers, the latter of whom will drop their name and come out in a body as democrats. Kalaokalani Sr. fought the proposition on Maui recently but without avail, and it is almost sure that it will be a line-up between republicans and democrats at our next local election.

No true American can read General Hartwell's oration delivered at Honolulu on Memorial Day without becoming a better man and a better American. Since the adoption of the constitution, itself an experiment, our government has been a series of experiments, but they have all been founded on the proposition that the people are to rule the people, and in this we have made no mistakes that should be wiped out.

There are a number of spots on Maui, some of them hundreds of acres in extent where the pineapple grows to perfection, and some of these tracts could be secured at a low figure. Each of the tracts offers golden opportunities for incorporated companies to introduce an industry which will be safe, permanent and lucrative Suits for Particular Men.

If you are a victim of the made-to-measure habit, but want to practice economy in your apparel, it too-often means the sacrifice of your standard—you are compelled to don a garment inferior to that to which you have been accustomed. Do you wish to practice economy and still maintain your standard?
 Here's an opportunity. No matter how high your standard may be, it cannot be higher than ours—it cannot be higher than that set by the
