Hanamaulu Weddings

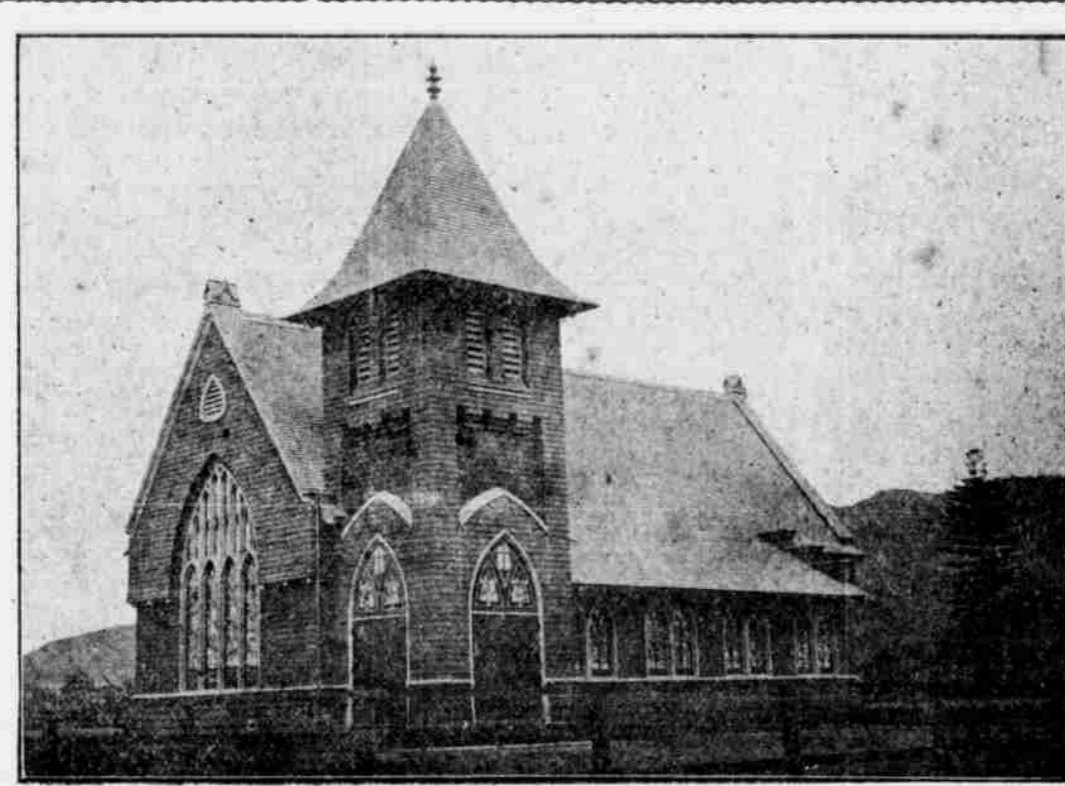

Mr. Frank Mandonca and Mrs. Marie Camara were married at the Catholic Church in Kapaia last Thursday morning. Father Hermann officiating. The couple are well known members of the Portuguese colony, the groom having been an employee of the plantation for the last eight years.

Manuel Gonzalves and Miss Isabella Rodrigues were united in the holy bonds of wedlock Saturday morning at the Catholic church in Kapaia. Mr. Gonzalves is occupying a responsible position in Honolulu, while the bride is one of the most popular young ladies of Hanamaulu.

H. T. Truscott of Makaweli is on a business trip to Honolulu.

Hanalei's Beautiful New Church Edifice

HANALEI'S PRESENT FROM WILCOX BROTHERS.

A new building to stand where the first of our churches was built, more than seventy-five years ago. The new home is modern to the last degree. It is probably the finest of all church buildings outside of Honolulu, barring none—even Hilo.

The New Church Building just dedicated at Hanalei is one of the most artistic and graceful churches on the Islands. But even more important, perhaps, it is an exceedingly well built church. Whenever the Wilcox's lay hand to anything they do it well. Not only has utmost care been exercised to put nothing but the best material into the building but also not a stroke of contract work of any kind has gone into the job. "Take time enough to make everything first-class" has been the motto and if anything wasn't done in just the best way, it had to come out and be done over.

The church is of a modified

Basilica plan which after all is not only the simplest, but acoustically the best type of building with a charming gothic finish of steep roof and pointed windows. On the front exposure there is a fine compound rose window in very delicate and harmonious tones of stained glass, the side windows being also in harmonious colors.

Within the vaulted roof and the massive tie beams give a very happy effect, while the seating accommodation and acoustic properties of the church are excellent.

The only factor transferred from the old church to the new is the Bell, made in New England in 1842, of such material as they don't put into bells in these degenerate days. It shows scarcely any signs of age and is quite as good as new.

The plans of the church were furnished by Ripley and Reynolds. C. E. Haynes was the carpenter in charge of the construction and W. F. Sanborn did a lot of effective rustling to keep things going.

The Building as it stands including furniture is reported to have cost about $10,500.00.

It is the gift of the Wilcox Brothers under the leadership of Mr. A. S. Wilcox, to the Hanalei community. Long may the donors be spared to continue such generous deeds of philanthropy.

A Generous Act

It would indeed be hard to imagine a gift that would do greater good or create wider interest in the work than the splendid donation to the young people of the Kawaihau District through the generosity of Mr. Spalding in founding the Wilhelmina Harris Spalding Memorial Fund to be used in supplying further training to worthy graduates of the Kapaia School and fitting them for a life of teaching.

Wishing the devote the sum of ten thousand dollars to some worthy object in the District in memory of his mother, the late Mrs. W. H. Spalding, Mr. Rufus Spalding has decided that the income from the above mentioned sum shall be set aside to pay the expenses of girls whose faithful work in the past seems to warrant assistance, and from now on, not fewer than four young ladies will have all their expenses paid in The Kainani Home For Girls in Honolulu until such time as they graduate from the Territorial Normal and Training School and are ready to assume their duties as teachers,—after which others will be sent to The Home to fill the places thus vacated.

The two first beneficiaries under this Fund have already entered on their work in the Normal, while two others will be sent as soon as practicable.

To merely express our thanks for this magnificent gift seems small and inadequate, but utterly inadequate as we know our thanks to be, they are still most gratefully offered by scholars, parents and teachers alike.

Ed. Dekum Here

Ed. Dekum of the Gazette Co., Honolulu, returns to Honolulu this afternoon after a week's visit with his sister, Mrs. Jack Meyers of Kilauea.

Ed. called to see us this morning and the good things he said about things in general and THE GARDEN ISLAND in particular, caused us to douse our lid and set up the soda water. He informed us that he had paid his annual visit to the Kilauea school and that he is beginning to have a paternal feeling for the children, all of which leads us to believe Ed. has missed his vocation—he should be a school master. However, he is all right as he is, and we hope he'll never fail to swing onto our latch string when he visits Kauai.

In Memoriam

Born at Kawaihau, Honolulu Mar. 7, 1884, Sam Mahelona was thus in the very prime of life when he was called hence. As a very little boy he began his education at Honolulu's first Kindergarten and continued it successively at Punahou, Behmont and San Jose, fitting himself carefully for the business career which he had chosen. With a physical constitution none too robust at the best, it was perhaps unfortunate that he should have chosen an occupation involving sedentary life which in conjunction with great social popularity, left him little time for fresh air and exercise. Immediately on his return from school he secured the position of assistant cashier in the Lihue Branch of the Bank of Hawaii, which he resigned only to accept the responsible position of receiver in the First National Bank of Hawaii, a position which he held until failing health compelled him to resign.

To a rare degree he was gifted with the kindly generous graces of frankness, courtesy, geniality and responsiveness, qualities which commend their owners to all about them. And with him these were not acquired graces, worn more or less awkwardly but natural and easy, because inherent.

These qualities win favor and make friends at every turn. This was eminently the case with Sam Mahelona. Wherever he went he made friends even up to the last hours of his life, and under the most trying circumstances.

To know him at all even casually was to like him; to know him intimately was to love him and this must explain the enthusiastic admiration of a very wide circle of acquaintances, as well as the deeper devotion of more intimate friends.

Green be the grass above Thee
Friend of our bye gone days,
None knew thee but to love thee
None named thee but to praise.

WAIMEA, Oct. 28.—One of the big social affairs of Waimea this season was the wedding which took place in the Foreign church at 7:30 P. The church was tastefully decorated and guests to the number of more than a hun-

MORMONISM

IS SWEEPING OUR ISLES?

Prominent Magazine Lets Its Readers Know What Our Paradise Is

BUT 594 DISAGREES

"No Taro Patches For Our Women—Hats And Dresses," Says "594."

A prominent Eastern magazine to wit The Independent is very much exercised over the prevalence of Mormonism in Hawaii. We are constrained to believe that the Mormon propaganda has spread like wild-fire through the Islands; that "hundreds of plural marriages" have been performed by the Elders of this faith; that "the only limit to the number of wives a man may have is his ability to support them" and that "in the remote districts, where women as well as men work in the fields, raise taro, make mats and brooms and curios, it is very easy for a man to figure out that the number of wives he may possess is limited only by the number of women who will consent to live in his house, where they herd together like concubines."

All this is news to us. We had always supposed that this was one of the most monogamic countries in the world, where a man was mighty lucky if he got even one wife all to himself; and he had to be mighty "smooth" and mighty civil and mighty docile to do it! Brooms and mats and taro for sooth! Nav, gowns, and hats and doctors' bills!

And the women of Hawaii, little does The Independent know them, if it thinks they will put up with any fractional part of a man. Not only the whole man but a picked man; Scrutinized, Challenged and pawed over, disparagingly—and then left! If we know the women of Hawaii, there isn't much danger of plural marriage, and the would-be-Mormon will get turned down every time he tries, and will end up with none, rather than many wives. —594.

A Rare Curio

Among the articles deposited in the corner stone of the new Hanalei church were two Hawaiian Copper Cent pieces of the comage of 1847. They were taken from the corner stone of the Keanai church Maui where they had reposed in peace for over 50 years. They now have a long rest ahead of them at Hanalei.

dred, witnessed the ceremony, after which an elaborate reception followed at the home of the bride's parents. The reception over, genial Dick Oliver invited the young couple and their guests to the Waimea Hotel where the big lanai had been prepared for dancing and the hour of 1 A. M. had been tolled off ere the end came. Manager Crowell of the Waimea Electric works kindly allowed his plant to run until the dance ended.

The groom is a well known Honolulu resident, being at present conductor on the H. K. T. & L. Co., while the bride, as we all know, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Silva of this city. The host of friends of the young couple wish them health, prosperity and happiness.
