HAVE YOU REGISTERED? HERE ARE THE RULES THAT GOVERN IT

Registration for the coming primary election closes on September 2.

To answer the many questions as to registration rules the Star-Bulletin herewith publishes a statement from the county clerk's office:

"All male citizens over 21 years of age are entitled to vote in the primary if they are properly registered in the Great Register, which is held open for registration in the office of the city and county clerk.

"To be eligible to vote the voter must have resided one year in the territory and three months in the district in which he votes.

"Registration closes on September 2. The hour of closing has not yet been determined.

"Those who registered two years ago should not register again if they have not changed their residence.

"If they have changed their residence since last registering they should renew their registration.

"If they have removed from one representative district to another without changing their registration, they cannot now register, the law prohibiting registration of those who have transferred from one district to another unless such registration was made on or before August 3. The law automatically disallows, in case of such transfers, registration within three months before the general election."

DEATH OF MRS. ANN STANGENWALD RECALLS MANY STORIES OF PAST

Thousand Soldiers, Entertained by Her, Affectionately Called Her "Grandmother"

A link between Hawaii of the old days and Hawaii of the new was broken last week when Mrs. Ann Stangenwald passed away at her home on Nuuanu avenue. With her death there passed also a woman of wide and sincere sympathies and one who, until age restricted her activities, was foremost in many good works requiring not only generosity of purse but generosity in physical effort.

Of her public spirit and regard for progress and improvement in Hawaii there are many stories. One of the stories most illustrative of her kindness of heart and thoughtfulness, as well as of unbounded hospitality, comes from the troublous days of the Spanish-American war. In those days, when Uncle Sam's plans to free Cuba had involved the United States in war with Spain, feelings of patriotism ran high in every American heart in Hawaii.

More than 1,000 enlisted men on their way to the Philippines were entertained by Mrs. Stangenwald when the first transport came through this port. Mrs. Stangenwald took personal charge of the entertainment, which was informally hospitable to a degree. The soldier-boys called her "grandmother" as she passed among them, serving lemonade and cakes and other good things. Her hospitality and goodness of heart became widely known through the army for this and later transports brought many soldiers who had heard of her and called on her when they were given shore-leave.

Mrs. Stangenwald was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dimond, who came with the early missionaries. Not all of those early pioneers were preachers—each had an occupation, that of Mr. Dimond being a bookbinder. Mrs. Dimond was a splendid type of woman, part French in blood, very vivacious and always bright and cheerful. Both lived to be older than their daughter at the time she passed away. She was born March 19, 1841, dying at the age of 73.

Her death on Thursday of last week was due to heart disease. She was very active until the last. The sharp attack came on the Monday previous. She was one of seven children, but only one immediate relative survives, Edwin Dimond of San Francisco, nephew. Her nieces are Mrs. A. B. Wood, Mrs. Corbett, Mrs. Thomas Holbron, Mrs. William Dickey, Mrs. Joseph Simpson of Chicago, Mrs. Tobin.

Through a long life Mrs. Stangenwald was a steadfast member of Central Union Church, but there was no narrowness in her religion though she held to her beliefs. She gave generously to every donation and object which she thought worthy and needy. During the Spanish-American war, when her house was open to all the soldiers, she gave with her fruit and lemon refreshments bibles or testaments to scores of men who took them gladly. She was artistic and fond of beautiful things, and her garden was noted in Honolulu. She personally superintended its arrangement and care and her collection of ferns was a remarkable one. In personality Mrs. Stangenwald was very quiet and extremely modest, seeking no credit for her many philanthropic deeds, to which she seldom referred. This self-denying trait was apparent to the last, for though she suffered for several months from heart disease, often being unable to lie down, she was invariably patient and uncomplaining.

Many stories are also told of her husband, Dr. Hugo Stangenwald, a well-known physician for many years. He was a German and of an inventive turn of mind. In fact, he devoted a great deal of time to inventions and discoveries along electrical lines and for a long time worked on an invention whose basic idea was to relieve suffering. But his work proceeded slowly and often. It is said by old-timers, he would come near the completion of something only to find that some man with more time and speedier methods had patented it ahead of him. His scientific work was veiled in much mystery, even for his friends, and part of his ground was enclosed with a high fence that was popularly supposed to shield from curious gaze all sorts of strange devices.

E. W. QUINN CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR, ON THE REPUBLICAN TICKET AT THE PRIMARIES.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for senator at the primaries and ask for your support. I have always been Republican. In 1904 you elected me to the House of Representatives and I served in the session of 1905.

In 1906 you again elected me to the House of Representatives and I served in the session of 1907.

In 1908 you elected me to the Senate and I served in the sessions of 1909 and 1911.

My record is clean and an open book. There is not a voter in the district that I asked to vote for me in any of my previous campaigns that I cannot again honorably ask for his support in the present campaign.

I have served as chairman on some of the most important committees in both houses. My record and reports in the same are clear and are on file in the Government Archives building.

I have never aspired to be a leading spellbinder, nor have I been a gallery adherent.

I have always been reserved and conservative in my actions. I supported any bill that had merit to it and that I thought was for the benefit of the majority of the people no matter whether it was introduced by a Republican, Democrat or Home Ruler. I always have been independent.

I have read the platform of the Republican party and endorse the same.

If nominated and elected to the next Legislature I will act in the future as I have in the past for the interest of all classes to the best of my ability. I am in favor of the present liquor and Sunday laws and will oppose any changes to either outside of the amendments asked for in the platform.

E. W. QUINN.

MAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL WOMAN AND TAKE LIFE

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] HILO, Aug. 20.—One murder seems to instigate another crime of the same sort and no sooner had the word passed around about the brutal crime at Honokaa than still another stabbing and cutting affair was reported. This time two persons may die, in fact, one is certain to pass away, while the other has a slim chance for life. The attempt to murder and suicide was made by K. Iokia, an Oloa Japanese, who stabbed a woman, Takahara Uwi, through the lungs and then plunged the knife into his own stomach and disemboweled himself.

It appears that Iokia had been courted by the married woman and had urged her to go away with him. The woman refused several times and when, on Wednesday last, Iokia again renewed his advances, the woman threatened to complain about his behavior. Then the man seized a pocket knife and plunged it into the woman's breast. The instrument penetrated the left lung, it is said, and the woman fell to the ground. Thinking he had killed the woman Iokia lifted his shirt and stuck the knife into his stomach. He inflicted a terrible wound upon himself and there is little chance of his recovering from it.

Both the man and the woman are now in the hospital. The man expresses a desire to die, it is said, and does not show any regret for his deed.

COMMERCIAL NOTES

Ewa has completed grinding with an output of about 30,300 tons of sugar.

Up to this week Wai'ala had ground 28,488 tons of sugar, with the expectation of 1500 tons more.

Several plantation agents have stated that the price of sugar to plantation employees will not be raised.

Oloa is expected to complete grinding about September 15. Its crop estimate is unchanged from 24,000 tons of sugar.

The Matson steamer Enterprise was the first ocean-going steam vessel to use the new government wharf in Kulo Bay, Hilo.

Heavy rains have continued on the windward coast of Hawaii. On Kauai weather conditions have improved for the plantations.

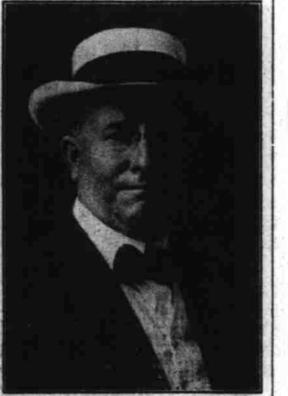

James Ogg, engineer of Pahala Mill, has invented a device that obviates certain undesirable results that have attended the action of the Messchaert juice groove in mill rollers.

Bishop & Co. are going to establish a branch of their bank at Schofield Barracks, for which the erection of an opened has been started. It will be opened in a few weeks, in charge of John Macaulay with two assistants.

A vacation of three months on the mainland will be taken by A. M. Nowell, manager of the Sugar Factors' Co., and on his way back he will visit the Crockett refinery in California, in which the Factors are largely interested.

Advices have been received by the Waterhouse Company, Ltd., that spot crude rubber was selling in New York this week at $1.10 per pound, against 55 cents at last mail advices. On account of this news the Nahiku and Hawaiian-American rubber companies will at once resume tapping on their plantations on Maui, that operation having been suspended for the past eighteen months to await improvement in the market.

Dress Your Son Like The Little Man He Is

This Fall when he returns to school, advanced one rung higher on the hard-to-climb Ladder of Learning, he should be dressed quite differently than when he left school.

Now he'll be with older boys; he'll have new duties and studies, and added responsibilities—dress him for the new part he has to play—for the new position he has to fill. We'll help you in this.

Bring your boy to the store—here He and You and We can go thoroughly into his clothing needs.

And, Madam, you know there is a 25% discount on all Boys' Suits purchased this month.
