Sale of Government Lots on the Lower Side of Prospect Street, Punchbowl Hill, Honolulu, Oahu.

On WEDNESDAY, Nov. 11, 1891, at the front entrance of Aliiolani Hale, at 12 o'clock noon, will be sold at public auction Nine (9) Lots on the lower side of Prospect street, Punchbowl Hill, Honolulu, Oahu, varying in size from 103x188 feet to 94x107 feet.

Upset price: Varying from $100 to $250 each lot, according to size and location. The terms and condition of sale will be cash or, at the option of the purchaser, one-fourth cash and the remainder in equal installments payable in one, two or three years, with interest payable semi-annually at the rate of 7 per cent per annum.

The purchaser must within one year from the date of purchase enclose the land bought by him with a good and substantial fence and lay on water from the Government pipes. Royal Patents will be issued for the land upon the final payment of the purchase price.

A map of the lots can be seen and full particulars learned at the Land Office. Water mains have been or shortly will be laid adjoining all of the above lots.

Daily Bulletin
Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,
But established for the benefit of all.
SATURDAY, OCT. 31, 1891.

The Messenger appears to-day in the lap of the Elele, like a kangaroo baby in its mamma's pouch. It is as senselessly vague and scurrilous as when its mother didn't know it was out.

"Omen" and "Nemo" have both taken notice of the hints that their contributions are too long. If they act thereon there is no reason why they should not share in the BULLETIN'S always "open column" till they exhaust their stocks of argument. Short letters, it is safe to say, would be read by ten persons to every one who wades through their habitually long contributions.

People in this country, who may have been disturbed by the cry of "Wolf!" on different sides, might find salutary exercise in looking abroad. "Medical councils have been summoned in the distressed provinces of Russia. Scoury and typhus are raging in the wake of famine." The despatch conveying these distressful words goes on to state that famine prevails in thirteen governments of the country, and 14,000,000 people are in urgent need of succor. With our prospects here being no worse than some diminution in the influx of money from the sugar market, carrying a necessity for increased public and private economy, it is as sane to whine about "hard times" in the future while so many millions of the race are starving for bread in the present.

A STILL GROWING INDUSTRY.

A notable event of to-day, in the midst of all the preaching of a coming cataclysm of ruin to the main industry of the country, is the starting of the first-class new sugar mill at Ewa on this island. It will probably be some considerable time before this great new undertaking will repay anything on the investment. With, however, the more economical production of sugar as compared with former days, due to the great improvements in sugar-making machinery, there need be no fear that this and contemporaneous large ventures will not in due time be lucrative investments. Cane sugar is going to hold its own against beet sugar, according to the opinion of the highest experts, and Hawaii, even if she has to pay more for labor than other countries, has possessed certain negative advantages, such as immunity from disastrous hurricanes and devastating cane diseases which if continued will enable her to rival any competitor. Germany is discontinuing the system of supporting her beet sugar industry by bounties. Although the United States has taken up this system when other countries are throwing it aside, its tenure there must be very uncertain, while its success beyond the initial boom is not at all assured. There is great opposition to bounties on principle in that country, and sugar men themselves realize that the present favor to them marks them more than ever as objects of invidious jealousy. A turn in political affairs is liable to upset the whole system, when the sugar producers would be in a worse state than if they had been left to work out their own salvation. There is the additional uncertainty of the farmers long agreeing with the refiners for whom they raise the beets on the question of price. This very thing has wrecked beet sugar enterprises elsewhere after they had made an auspicious beginning. While our planters are undoubtedly face to face with a necessity of attaining cheaper production than ever, their complaints after all have to be discounted considerably. In their very best years they have never let up on the cry, "Give, give, more cheap labor and cheaper labor than before!"
