Stop Lobbying Or You'll Be "Fired"

Coelho Introduces Resolution To Make Department Employes Leave Senators Alone—Outside Papers Get No Laws To Print

SENATE.
Thirty-First Day—Morning Session.
Coelho is out after the department employes who spend their time lobbying the Senators in the corridors of the Capitol. This morning he introduced a resolution forbidding all employes of the departments to indulge in lobbying on pain of summary discharge. Said he:
"This lobbying is becoming a nuisance that cannot be tolerated every time that a Senator steps out into the corridor, he is approached by some department employe seeking this or that appropriation.
"This nuisance has reached the point where a stop must be put to it and I therefore move that my resolution pass."
"Defer" Makekani wanted action on the resolution tabled. Said he:
"I do not think that these employes should neglect their work and spend their time lobbying. But I do not think that this is the time to take action. We have the power in our hands, and later, when the confirmation of appointments is taken up, we can take action. Let us not show our teeth until the proper time comes. I therefore move that action on this resolution be deferred until Saturday next."
Motion Was Lost.
Makekani's motion was lost. Coelho's original motion then being put, passed by a liberal majority.
Publish Laws Here.
House Bill 53, permitting the secretary to publish laws passed, at places other than in the city of Honolulu, went to the layover on motion of Senator Coelho.

HOUSE STANDS BY CHILDREN

Moanauli's Bill To Deprive Little Ones Of Part Of Their Education By Raising Age Limit To Eight Years Is Expeditiously Killed By Lower Chamber

HOUSE.
Thirty-First Day—Morning Session.
The movement to raise the school age from six to eight years and to top off another year at the top got its death blow in the House this morning when that branch of the legislative body killed Moanauli's bill to make the compulsory school age from eight to fourteen years.
No real support of the bill developed, other than that of its introducer, Moanauli, who made a rambling speech in favor of the measure, a speech without any apparent point, in which no argument worth a moment's consideration was advanced. All the Hawaii statesman could seem to think of to say was that some of the children under the age of eight might injure their heads, livers, legs or some other part of their anatomy if they were obliged to go to school.
The Educational Committee, by its chairman, Long, reported on the bill, known as House Bill 45, recommending that it be tabled.
"Your committee," read the report, "has had this bill under careful consideration and finds that it would prevent the attendance of about 1600 children from attending school, which would be an injustice to them; therefore your committee recommends that this bill be tabled."
A Fatuous Speech.
Moanauli, the father of the bill, made one of his characteristically fatuous speeches in support of his measure and against the adoption of the committee's report.
Really, he thought, this matter ought to be looked into by the Board of Health, for there is no doubt but that the health of the coming generation is being ruined by the children having to go to school so long. Their brains, stomachs and legs are being injured by their having to walk long distances while they are so young. It is not so bad in Honolulu, where there are street cars.
Moanauli wanted to have the matter referred to the Board of Health to investigate and find out how badly the health of the children is being injured by their being obliged to go to school. He intimated that the Committee's

Who will succeed Campbell has not been decided, and the Governor has not yet reached any conclusion regarding a successor to Commissioner Ballentyne.
"Mr. Campbell has been serving on the Board contrary to his own wishes and views in the matter," said the Governor this morning. "He was practically forced to serve by the last Administration as well as by this. I have come to the conclusion that he is right, and he has tendered his resignation at my request."
"I have not decided upon successors."

OAHU MEMBERS GET HARD CALL-DOWN

Are Severely Rebuked By Speaker For Tardiness

The Fourth District members of the House were severely rebuked this morning by the Speaker for tardiness, though as none of them was present to hear the rebuke handed out by Holstein, their tender sensibilities were not seriously hurt.
When the morning prayer had been delivered and the Chaplain had finished his day's labors, the Clerk started to read the journal of the previous day. But he was interrupted by Rice, who addressed the Speaker. "I think it would be well," he said, "to suspend the reading of the minutes until the Sergeant-at-Arms can find at least one member from that district."
The Speaker looked up from his papers and saw that every seat in

MORE BILLS THIS SESSION THAN LAST

290 Measures Introduced At End of Thirtieth Day This Year

The Legislature of 1909 is more prolific than that of 1907 so far as the production of new bills is concerned. At the end of the thirtieth day of the present session 169 bills had been introduced in the House and 121 in the Senate—a total of 290—while at the end of the first half of the last session only 258 bills had been introduced, of which 173 originated in the House and 85 in the Senate. This Senate this year is more industrious, so far as the introduction of new bills is concerned, than that of two years ago, while the House has dropped four bills below the 1907 record.
But at the end of the thirtieth day of the 1907 session 39 bills had been signed by the Executive and had become law, against only 36 this session. Four more bills, however, have been presented to the Executive this session than had been passed up to

FREAR KNOWS NAUGHT OF FEDERAL JUDGE APPOINTMENT

Who will be the next Federal Judge is still a dark secret as far as the Territory's Chief Executive is concerned. Governor Frear stated positively this morning that he had not been advised concerning the matter and knew nothing about the appointment.
All sorts of rumors have been current the past two days relative to the probable action of Washington. The Governor's statement sets at rest the story that he has known all along who would be chosen to help preside over the Federal Court.

The House this morning, almost without debate, adopted the report of the Conference Committee on the "Enabling Act," and, as the report was also adopted by the Senate, the measure now goes to the Governor for his signature.
As outlined by the Bulletin yesterday, the report of the committee recommended that the long list of names of those who are to be beneficiaries of the bill be eliminated. A clause is substituted in the bill to the effect that the names of the persons who are to be paid and the amounts may be found
