THEY SAY. Have you heard of the terrible faculty, "They," and the dreadful venomous things they say? Why, half the gossip under the sun, if you trace it back, you will find begins in that wretched house of "They."

My Wedding Day.

A Romance of Concord and Lexington. By L. G. Woodberry. Well, as I was saying, this is the way it came about: I was a young thing then, just turned 18. Your grandfather had been my playmate, hero and protector from the time that I was old enough to go to school. I had never thought of marrying any one but him, and so when he asked me to be his wife, why, of course, I said "Yes."

When the towns began to raise "militiamen," why, of course, we raised a company in our town, and your grandfather and my brothers were members of it. We girls could not stand guard, of course, so in order to show our patriotism we all signed a paper in which we agreed not to have anything to do with the men of the town who refused to join the company.

The 19th of April was a beautiful day, though a warm one for the season. We were all up early that morning, for there was a great deal to be done. It was about 9 o'clock in the forenoon when my mother, who had been looking over some linen, suddenly raised her head, exclaiming as she did so, "Why, Mary, was that the meeting house bell?"

"What can it mean?" I cried, and running to the window, I caught sight of our neighbor's sons, Joe and John Eaton, running down the road with their guns. Across the way Harry Wright was plowing the field. The boys called out to him as they passed, and, without stopping to unhitch the horse, he seized his gun and was off across the fields.

troops to destroy the supplies which have been stored at Concord. If the report is true, there will be resistance, and if it comes to that it will be very serious business for us."

My mother kept her fears to herself and did her best to make me feel that it would come out all right, but those hours were the most anxious I ever spent. So through the day we watched and waited for news.

The first news that came to us from the fight at Lexington and the other doings of that day arrived about 6 o'clock in the afternoon, when some minutemen from another town stopped at the tavern on their way home. They told the story of the day to the little crowd of anxious women who eagerly questioned them for news of some dear one.

My father would not let me go down to the tavern, but went down himself and brought us the news. I can see him now hurrying along the road. "Something unusual has happened, Mary," exclaimed my mother. "I never saw your father look so excited."

I hastened down the path to meet him. "Bad news, my child; bad news!" he exclaimed. "There has been an encounter with the king's troops. And then, reading the question in my eyes, he continued, 'But they brought no news of our men.'"

"The hour set for the wedding was 8 o'clock, but it began to look as if there would be no wedding, for it was now after 7 o'clock, and none of our men had returned home."

Mother and I sat in silence in the kitchen while father walked back and forth in the room above. At last we heard steps outside, and then my brother Arthur, who was among the first to reach home, staggered into the room. I sprang up and ran to him. He sank into the nearest chair, and his gun fell to the floor with a thud. Arthur was only a boy of 15, you must remember, and the day had been a terrible one.

When he had recovered a little, my father spoke. "What news do you bring, my son?" he asked.

Now, I had felt from the first that he had brought bad news, and by the way he hesitated and glanced from father to me and still did not speak I felt sure of it. So I put my worst fears into words.

GENERAL SATISFACTION The efficiency, brilliancy, penetrating power and general satisfaction, which our new enclosed type of ARC LIGHTS are giving recommend them to the merchant as the best light for store use. Mr. C. C. Eakin, of the Imperial Cigar Store, has been using the new arc light for some time, and says: "I find this new light gives absolute satisfaction in every respect, and I would have no other."

We have many such opinions as this, but the light is the greatest recommendation. Can be seen at Manufacturing Shoe Co., W. W. Dimond's, Globe Clothing Store and others. For further information address The Hawaiian Electric Co., Ltd. King Street Near Alakea.
