

TO ATTACK CUMMINGS

ALLIES OF PROGRESSIVE OPPOSITION LAYING PLANS TO DIS-CREDIT SENATOR.

MAY BEGIN REAL FIGHT IN CUMMINGS' HOME COUNTY

Sentiment Being Manufactured in Favor of Out and Out Declaration for Protective Principles—Difference of Opinion as to Strength of Taft in State—How and the Recall.

Special to Times-Republican.

Des Moines, Aug. 19.—That which is in the minds of the allies who are engaged in laying what they believe to be the foundation for the discrediting of Senator Cummings in his home city and county and district, is revealed in the "Plain Talk," a weekly newspaper here, edited by Major Fleming, formerly secretary to Governor Shaw and later with him in Washington.

For weeks and months Des Moines people have been regaled with misinformation regarding what Senator Cummings is saying and doing and distorted suggestions as to what his plans are. He has been held up as a monster of selfishness, wholly devoid of any interest in his constituents, a party wrecker and visionary. Now "Plain Talk" makes a suggestion as to what is just ahead:

"How will it be in Polk county? Will Ex-Governor Jackson, Sid Foster and a host of other old-time Republicans submit quietly to the demands of Senator Cummings, or will they make a fight right here in the senator's home county? Some of them say they will fight. Should they defeat the senator here at home next spring it would be the beginning of the end. That would indicate that the Cummings reign in Iowa would soon be over. The coming election fight will be of general interest and attract attention all over the country. If fought, Cummings must risk his all upon it."

The so-called "demands" which "Plain Talk" refers to are that the republican platform shall conform to the well known principles of the party regarding the protective principle. The anti-progressives are said to be gaining confidence here that they will be able to this time defeat the senior senator in his home county and are boasting that they have new and powerful allies on whom they can depend. For much addition to their strength. For ten years the progressives have been able to control in every county convention where they have made the effort.

Leaders among the progressives say they welcome a pronouncement on the part of the new allies that they intend to make the fight to beat Senator Cummings in his home county.

Incidentally "Plain Talk" also had the following paragraph:

"Harvey Ingham is said to be a possible candidate for governor. In the event of his showing up he will have the support of the Register and News, the Tribune, and possibly the Times, for a proper consideration; but then there are others to hear from."

Opinions differ among the wise ones as to the extent to which republicans of Iowa are committed to the reelection of President Taft. Outside of one or two newspaper offices here in Des Moines there seems to be no common view as to the wisdom of his re-nomination; but men who are in position to sound public sentiment do not wholly agree as to what will happen at the November referendum.

A former appointee of Governor Shaw, an ardent standpatter who was not for Taft three years ago because he feared Taft was too much of a progressive, said this week:

"I have traveled a good deal lately, and of one thing I am sure, that Taft will have Iowa for the re-nomination. I find no plans being laid for any fight against him. I have also traveled elsewhere. I believe that Missouri will be for him, as will North Dakota and Minnesota. But I tell you that as things stand now South Dakota is against him and Illinois is in bad shape."

"What a pity it is that Shaw left Iowa," he added.

But another man who travels over Iowa a great deal, one who is connected with the present state administration, found a different situation in this state.

"Everywhere I go I find increasing discontent with President Taft," he said. "I am not sure that Iowa will be for him for the nomination. It only needs a courageous leader to start things off. I sat at the table the other day with two men who have always voted the republican ticket and they said they would never vote for Taft again. I have heard dozens of them say that November would find them busy. Taft will, of course, have the Iowa delegation to the convention, because nobody cares to oppose it; but when it comes to the election in November look out for trouble."

These expressions are given for what they are worth. Both men are good observers and good listeners. Both agreed in saying that very few of the traveling men seem interested in Taft.

A Tenth district business man of more than ordinary prominence who was in the city the other day whispered to the writer:

"Say, do you know of any republican who is really for Taft? I know a lot of them who say they are for him; and then they immediately commence to explain or to put in a qualifying clause of some kind."

A republican in a county some distance from Des Moines, a man of sufficient prominence to have been strongly urged to be a candidate for the republican nomination for governor this year, stated to the writer a few days ago that he presumed the president would be nominated "but," he said, "unless I change my mind I will not have time to go to the polls."

It is practically impossible to induce republicans of prominence to talk at all about the matter, or to consent to being quoted. Privately all sorts of opinions are offered as to the political situation. A more peculiar state of affairs has not been witnessed in a long time.

Iowa and the Judicial Recall.

If Iowa had had the recall of judges the past quarter-century, how many would have been recalled or how many would have had to face a campaign to ward off the recall?

The question was asked at the state house the other day. Could anybody suggest an instance where the recall would actually have been applied? One veteran in politics stated the view that the only instance where it would probably have been thought of was when the supreme court decided the prohibitory amendment null and void because of a technicality. The wrath of the people at that time was great and it was directed toward the court on the theory that the court had not done right.

"But," said the speaker, "the people exercised their right of recall which they now have and Justice Day was retired from the bench immediately. And Justice Beck also was recalled and every other who had to do with that decision."

A former member of the legislature suggested that he knew of a case wherein, if there had been the right of recall, a district judge in a northern Iowa district would have been recalled. "The judge was a hard drinker," said the former member, "and there was at times a good deal of feeling against him. It would not have been hard to get a recall petition in his district while he was on the bench. Still, it might not have worked, for some of the lawyers took advantage of his weakness and profited thereby. If they had a real good case they sought to get it to him when he was perfectly sober, if their case was just fair they tackled him when he was about as drunk, but if they had a bad case they waited until he was very drunk to get it to him. Maybe they wouldn't have been keen for the recall."

It was also suggested that if the recall had been in force when the effort was made to impeach Judge Walter I. Hayes of Clinton, it would have been made use of instead of the impeachment method which failed because he had a strong enough political pull to ward it off. However, he could have been re-elected probably as often as he was recalled.

Sorry Wilson Remained.

Special to Times-Republican.
Des Moines, Aug. 19.—One of the close personal friends of Secretary Wilson, who has long been connected with him in agricultural work, said yesterday:

"I now regret that we raised such a big stir about it that the president kept Wilson in the cabinet. It would have been better for Wilson if he had retired with the Roosevelt administration. He is hooked up with the wrong bunch now for sure."

The expectation is now, as it has been for a long time, that in some way opportunity will be made to supply Wilson with an Ohio man who aspires to the place.

Iowan Makes Flying Machine.

INDIAN WANTS DIVORCE

BRIDE OF MONTH DESCRIBES WIGWAM TALES OF HUSBAND AS ALLURING FIBS.

ASKS FEDERAL COURT TO SEVER MARITAL TIES

Beautiful Word Pictures of Charles W. Scott Telling of Prowess of Ancestors Found to Be Untrue and Scott Not an Indian, So Cuba DeSchen Avers in Her Petition.

Des Moines, Aug. 19.—Beautiful word pictures of the prowess of his moss-haired ancestors in the primeval forests of America caused Cuba DeSchen, an Indian maiden, to wed Charles W. Scott, but it took just a single month for her to ascertain that he was an expert painter of word pictures only and not a faithful chronicler of real facts, she says, in a suit for divorce, which she filed in the circuit court here.

The girl married Scott on July 9, following a pretty romance in which he pretended to be a descendant of a great and warlike chief, according to her petition, but she found to her disappointment that not a single drop of Indian blood ever flowed in his veins, and that she loved him no longer. She characterized his wigwam tales as alluring fibs.

Nurse Files Large Claim.

Wants $2,650 for Caring for Deacon Champlin of Waterloo.

Waterloo, Aug. 19.—One of the largest claims ever filed in the local courts for nursing was that filed some time ago by Miss Kate A. Landau, who for about two years nursed and cared for Deacon Hiram Champlin. She has filed a claim against the estate, of which B. J. Howrey is executor, asking $2,650. This, it is said, is not for nursing alone, but includes certain expenses incurred by Miss Landau in keeping house for her aged patient, who was so helpless as a babe for months towards the close of his illness.

Deacon Champlin was one of the best known men of Blackhawk county. He came here in an early day and was a devoted member of the Baptist church. In his will he provided that all of his debts should first be paid from his estate. These included the expense of his last illness. He owned a residence property at 718 Franklin street, but, it is reported, there was an incumbrance against it. His property interests, according to a declaration filed in probate court, did not exceed $3,000 when undiminished by debts. It is stated that there is unsecured indebtedness against the estate.

The will bequeathed five shares of the common stock of the Waterloo Casket Company to the Walnut Street Baptist church. If any funds remain after the debts have been paid the three children of deacon are to inherit them share and share alike.

FALL KILLS FARMER.

Jesse Jayne, of Marion, Thrown From Wagon While Driving.

Cedar Rapids, Aug. 19.—Jesse Jayne, a truck gardener, living east of Marion, died yesterday from injuries received in falling from his wagon when driving home.

He had been in town attending to the old settlers' reunion and was out to the ball game. It is alleged he was intoxicated before leaving town.

It is presumed he started home and either went to sleep or became ill and fell off his wagon and was injured. The team went on home and when the family discovered Mr. Jayne missing a search was begun and he was found lying alongside the road, about 9 or 10 o'clock. He was taken home and a physician called but he died a few hours later.

A relative of Mr. Jayne said he had been doctoring for some time and that this trouble might have caused him to be ill and fall from his wagon.

DAMAGE SUITS AGAINST ROAD.

Illinois Central Sued for $40,000 in Two Cases.

Waterloo, Aug. 19.—Two suits of $20,000 each were yesterday filed against the Illinois Central railway. The plaintiffs are the widows of employees who met death in the line of duty in 1910.

Marie S. James is the administratrix of the estate of Louis James, who died one hour after being thrown from the top of a refrigerator car on a branch freight train near Orchard, on July 8, 1910.

The other suit is filed by Henrietta Egan, widow of William J. Egan, an administratrix of his estate. Egan was an engineer running between Waterloo and Freeport. On Sept. 28, 1910, he sustained fatal injuries while his train was standing on the main line at Manchester.

IOWA PASTOR DIES IN EAST.

Rev. G. M. Curl Found Dead in Phoenix Hotel at Concord, N. H.

Concord, N. H., Aug. 19.—Rev. G. M. Curl, for twenty years in an Iowa conference and pastor at Cedar Rapids and many towns in northern Iowa, was found dead at the Phoenix hotel in Concord. The cause of death is not certain and there is some mystery surrounding it.

VETERAN PEACE OFFICER DEAD.

Frank Gifford Served as Marshall at Iowa Falls Quarter of a Century.

Special to Times-Republican.
Eldora, Aug. 19.—Word has been received here of the death of Frank Gifford, at Iowa Falls. Mr. Gifford was the veteran peace officer of Hardin county, having served for twenty-five years as city marshal of his home town. Mr. Gifford's death was due to dropsy and heart trouble.

BURNS WIFE'S FROCKS.

Waterloo Man Held for Making Bonfire of Apparel.

Waterloo, Aug. 19.—Because he piled his wife's clothing in the street and set fire to them, completely destroying them, Walter McGee, a farmer member of the fire department, was bound over today to the grand jury under $500 on the charge of malicious mischief. In police court he admitted his act to Judge Henderson and since it was beyond the court's jurisdiction to receive his plea of guilty, he was sent to the district court body.

Domestic troubles are given as the cause of McGee's act. He went to his home on Fourth street last night and finding his wife, Mabel, away, proceeded to burn her clothing. She is now seeking a divorce. He was arrested by Patrolman Jack Smith, who caught him in the act of burning the clothing.

FARMER DORAN RELENTS.

Permits Northwestern to Remove Cars From Land Near Boone.

Boone, Aug. 19.—L. C. Doran, the Irable Boone county farmer, allowed the Chicago & Northwestern Railway Company to remove the flat cars and other railway material on his property, which he defended with a shot gun Wednesday. Doran was induced to allow the railway company to get its property thru the efforts of Deputy United States Marshal George Bidwell, who went to the scene with a writ of replevin from United States Commissioner McArthur.

Doran and a wagon load of helpers were on guard guarding the property when Deputy Bidwell arrived. Section men were relaying the track which Doran had cut on during his battle with the railroad company. Doran was in a defiant mood and was determined to prevent the removal of the property.

INDUSTRIES IN UPTURN.

Dun & Co. Report That Trade Shows Expected Activity.

New York, Aug. 19.—Dun's Review, published by R. G. Dun & Co., says: "New demands in the prominent industries yet develop slowly and uncertainty as to the corn crop causes hesitancy, but trade generally exhibits the activity looked for at this time and improvement continues in distribution of necessities. Payments thru the banks show a satisfactory gain and money is in slightly increased demand, although there is little new enterprise and trading defaults grow."

Seasonal conditions brought enormous numbers of visitors and a largely increased attendance of buyers from the south and west. Dealings in the leading retail branches rose to a high record and there was a gratifying absorption of seasonal goods. Wholesale bookings included a wide variety of fall, winter and holiday wares, and were especially active in textiles, millinery, furs, jewelry, art goods, Christmas novelties, cloaks and suits, clothing, footwear, and food products.

"Shipments include large outgo to the interior, while mail and road orders sustain favorable comparisons with this time last year. Many buyers reported stocks low and replenishment imperative. Some expectation of cheaper costs later on and impaired prospects at northwestern points were reasons assigned for the interest in rail and equipment contracts for which additional material was assured forward work at rolling mills, forges, foundries and car shops. There was also good demand for wire products, plates, merchant iron and structural shapes. Marked advance in raw materials amply supplied for ascertained needs and price changes were unimportant."

"Total movement of grain at this port, 11,019,450 bushels compares with 10,675,795 bushels last week and 16,130,000 bushels a year ago. Compared with 1910 receipts decreased 44 per cent and shipments increased 14 per cent.

"Flour receipts were 122,678 barrels, against 117,596 barrels last week and 155,155 barrels a year ago, while shipments were 146,013 barrels, against 134,463 barrels last week and 160,039 barrels in 1910.

DEAD AUTHORESS UNHAPPY.

Relatives of Mrs. McCullough Tell of Sorrow While She Simulates Gayety.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—A suddenly tinted postcard, mailed from Milwaukee, was dropped in the mail box for Paradise (Ill.) 5129 Kenmore avenue, yesterday. It was addressed to Mrs. James Sidney McCullough, known to the world of letters as Myrtle Reed.

All that was mortal of her lay in a room of the apartment, the subject of a coroner's investigation at the time. The post card read:

"Having a good time. Will be home soon."

It was signed by James Sidney McCullough, Myrtle Reed's immortalized "Model Husband," and postmarked Milwaukee. Up to a late hour last night that was all that the relatives of the suicide authoress had heard from him.

They were inclined to fear that he might still be "having a good time" in ignorance of the fact that his suicide wife, who had idealized love in more than a score of books, had died by her own hand Thursday night because the romance of her own life was blasted and killed.

The thousands who read the books of Myrtle Reed undoubtedly believed that the authoress had quaffed the nectar of love's happiness. But while Myrtle Reed, the authoress, was penning her idealistic and fervid romances of love, Mrs. James Sidney McCullough, the woman, was nursing in secret a domestic sorrow, so bitter and humiliating that it finally unsettled her reason. A coroner's jury so decided yesterday. The authoress' unbalanced mind guided her to the death draft as a final balm for her wounded spirits.

Myrtle Reed wrote of affinities, advanced thought, and divorces. Mr. McCullough, the woman, shrank from seeking a divorce and fought her battle of domestic unhappiness single-handed till her mind collapsed.

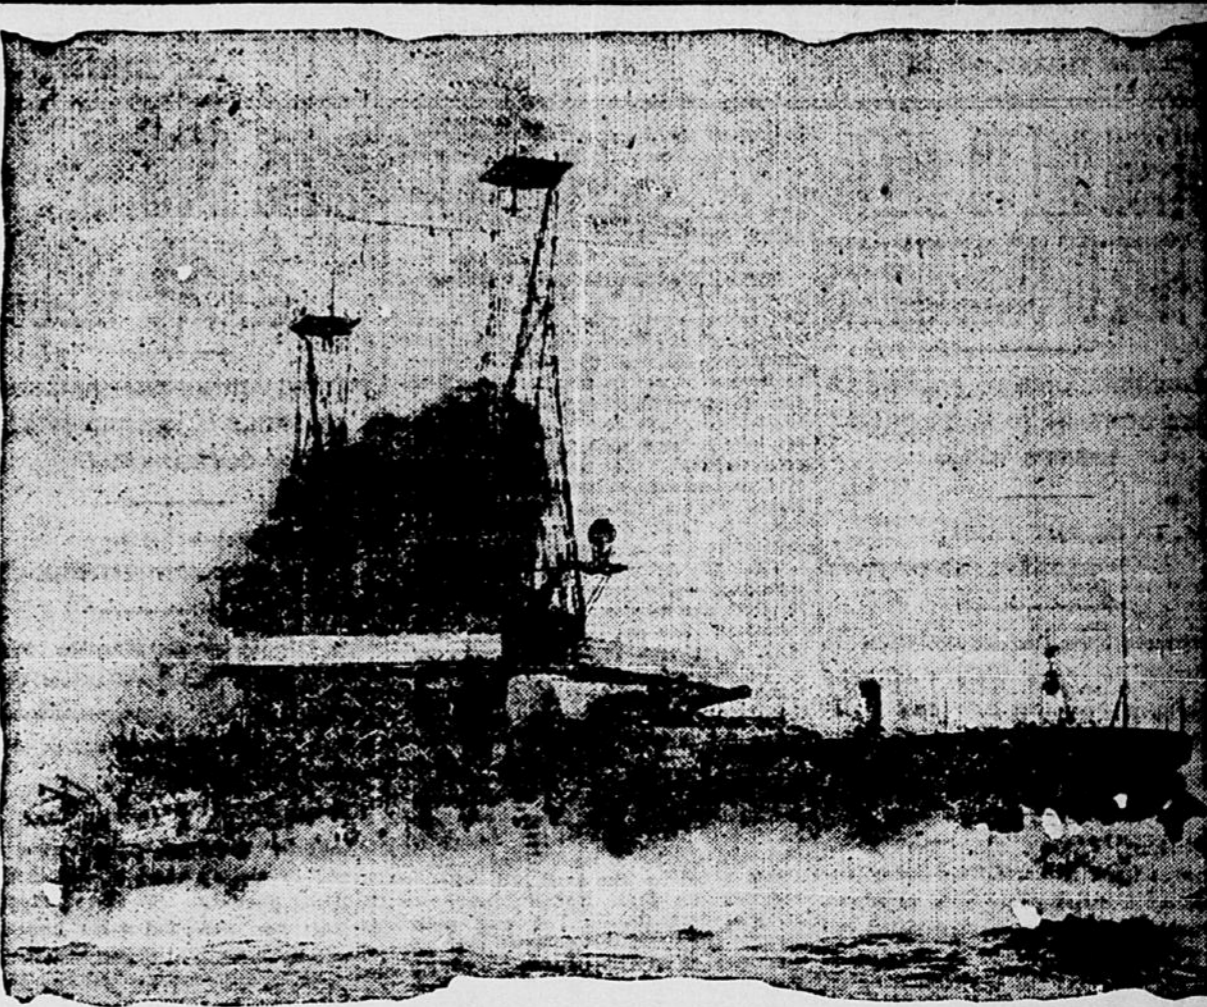

Myrtle Reed carried out her masquerade in her daily life as well as in her books. She dedicated her "Sonnets to a Lover," a year ago to her husband. She gave gay little parties in her beautiful apartment for the sole apparent purpose of proving James Sidney McCullough was "the ideal husband."

LEGG AND RIDER IN FINALS.

Des Moines and Minneapolis Men to Compete in Championship.

Omaha, Aug. 19.—For the third successive time, Harry Legg, of Minneapolis, will meet a Des Moines player in the finals of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament. His opponent this year will be Ralph Rider. His opponent in 1910 was William Sheehan and in 1909 he met "Bill" Guiland. In the two

Battleship Michigan, Champion of the Navy, Gets Pennant For Gunnery and Engineering

The battleship Michigan is the champion of the navy. To her has been awarded the battle efficiency pennant for the highest combined merits in gunnery and engineering for the year ended June 30, 1911. This is the second honor which the Michigan has captured this year, the first being the trophy for superiority in gunnery. The armored cruiser North Carolina won the individual engineering competition, but fell short of the Michigan on the combined showing of gunnery and engineering efficiency. The Michigan's gunnery prize will be a red triangular flag with a black border, which it will fly until the honor is taken away by a more competent sister ship. This silk pennant is now being constructed by the crew of the armored cruiser Maryland of the Pacific fleet, formerly champion at the targets. Enlisted men of that ship will convey the flag across the continent to the navy department.

former meetings Legg has been successful. Legg won his way into the finals here by defeating Jerome Magee, the pride of Omaha, 3 up and 2, while Rider defeated his teammate, Adams, 6 up and 5.

Championship possibilities in the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament hung in the balance yesterday, and when the thirty-six holes were completed they were reduced to representatives of the Minneapolis and Des Moines—Harry Legg and Ralph Rider. These two men won out in the semifinal matches and today will contest for the championship.

F. P. Carr, Des Moines Country Club, won the secretary's consolation cup in the finals with C. L. Smith, Douglas, Ariz., Country Club, 5 up and 3.

M. C. Peters, Omaha Country Club, defeated A. B. Palmatier, Omaha Field Club, 4 up and 3 in the finals of the directors' consolation cup play.

Newman Dorr, Waveland, Des Moines, won from E. E. Kimberly, Happy Hollow, Omaha, 4 up and 2, taking the surprise cup "B."

Dr. Paul R. Talbot, Evanston, Kansas City, beat Dorsey Hunnell, Des Moines C. C., 4 up and 3 to go for the finals in the directors' cup and the president's cup went to E. H. Sprague, Omaha C. C., who defeated E. W. Longley, an army man, 1 up.

Donald McClain, another Des Moines player, captured surprise cup "A" with a 7 and 6 victory, over F. H. Griffith, Kansas City Country Club.

FEAR FOR KERMIT ROOSEVELT.

Relief Party is Being Organized in Elcentro to Hunt For Him.

Los Angeles, Aug. 19.—Fearful that harm has overtaken the second son of former President Theodore Roosevelt, who is hunting in "Darkest Mexico" in the vicinity of the Gulf of California, now in revolt, residents of the Imperial Valley and of the northern Arizona border towns are organizing a relief party to find Kermit Roosevelt, according to C. P. Durning, a business man from Elcentro, who arrived here yesterday.

Kermit, who is 22 years old and of slight build, left Yuma ten days ago with Cipriano Dominguez, a famous guide and scout, for Mexico's interior. Hardly had young Roosevelt entered Mexico's wilds than small bodies of revolutionists crossed the border and

HIS ECZEMA GONE

AND BOILS CURED

Eczema Began When Three Weeks Old. Arms, Shoulders and Breast a Solid Scab. Boils Broke Out During Teething. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and He Was the Picture of Health.

"My son was about three weeks old when I noticed a breaking-out on his cheeks from which a watery substance oozed. A short time after, his arms, shoulders and breast broke out also, and in a few days became a solid scab. I became alarmed, and called our family physician who at once pronounced the disease eczema. The little fellow was under the treatment for about three months. By the end of that time he seemed a great deal better, but a few days became a solid scab. I became discouraged, and dropped the doctor's treatment, and commenced the use of Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and in a few days noticed a marked change. The eruptions quit his cheeks, arms, shoulders and breast, and his skin and hair were decidedly better. When he was about seven months old, all traces of the eczema was gone."

"During his teething period, his head and face were broken out in boils which I cured with Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Surely he must have been a great sufferer. Composition of Precious Stones.
The iridescence of the opal is due to the amount of water in its composition and contraction fissures in the stone, but similar characteristics are found in other stones where films cause diffraction. The opalescence of the moonstone is caused by the enormous number of planes of separation in the stone, light being totally reflected from these planes.
