Read this unsolicited grateful testimony—
Not long ago my left knee became lame and sore. It pained me many restless nights. So serious did it become that I was forced to consider giving up my work when I chanced to think of Sloan's Liniment. Let me say—less than one bottle fixed me up.

WESTERN PACIFIC PLANS EXPLAINED IN LETTER ISSUED

Reorganization plans of the Western Pacific as explained in circular letters which have been issued, include the building of more than $20,000,000 worth of branches in the intermountain country and California so that this road may be supplied with feeders and placed upon a basis where it will be self-supporting. A total of $10,000,000 in addition is set aside for other improvements to the system.

E. H. Rollins & Co. and the bondholders' committee, which has charge of the reorganization plan, have sent notices to the bondholders that $20,000,000 will be raised as soon as the receivership is lifted, for the purpose of extending branch lines and building feeders.

One of the feeders which the reorganization committee decided upon is the Winnemucca Northern, which will run from Winnemucca to Boise. This line has been surveyed and B. F. Bush, when president of the Denver & Rio Grande-Western Pacific, attempted to raise the necessary money in Europe to build the line. The road would tap a rich cattle and agricultural country for more than 200 miles.

Another line which the reorganization committee contemplates is the building of a feeder from San Francisco south through the San Joaquin valley to tap the citrus fruit country. In Nevada a number of branch lines are being considered to give a greater local tonnage to the Western Pacific and another phase of the proposed reorganization plans is the making of traffic agreements with electric suburban lines in California, which pass through districts producing heavy tonnage. One of these lines is the Oakland, Antioch & Western road.

Until the federal court at San Francisco decides the new issues injected into the order for sale of the Western Pacific through the bringing of the Denver & Rio Grande into the case, the reorganization committee will not take any steps toward the getting of capital for the proposed improvements. It is also proposed to raise $10,000,000 in addition to the $20,000,000 for betterments and improvements.

ORGANIZATION OF BOISE MERCHANTS

The constitution and by-laws of the Boise Merchants' association were adopted today at a meeting of the members of the association held in the Commercial club rooms. These provide that no religious or political topics are to be discussed by the association, which is to devote its attention and energies strictly to building up a strong organization for the general betterment of business conditions. Another meeting will be held by the association members next week on Wednesday morning. The board of directors will meet the second Thursday of each month.

The departmental heads of the association were appointed. The business firms are classified under 23 different groups, each relating to their respective kind of business and one business man was appointed to head each classification. The same number of business men constitute the board of directors, each director representing the interests of the class to which he belongs on the board. They in turn become the membership committee and it becomes their duty to call upon the different firms under each classification and to formulate them into separate unit departments which will solve their individual problems. All of them, however, will combine on the larger problems of interest to the entire association.

No provision is made for dues for members who belong to the association. Merchants can become members by signing the by-laws and no limit is made to the members who may belong from any one firm or business. The names of the board of directors will be announced next week.

United States balanced Tires

At Last—the 'Balanced' Tire

The greatest forward step ever made in pneumatic tires

On January 8th, in the Saturday Evening Post, we announced that at last we had made pneumatic rubber tires more like other dependable articles of merchandise.

Stop and analyze this statement—"more like other dependable articles of merchandise." Unless backed up by results, it would be almost commercial suicide for a tire manufacturer to make such a statement. Now we are ready to tell you the reason for this fearless confidence in our tires—the reason for the gigantic sales increases in our tires since September last.

Many months ago we finally worked out and began producing the completely 'balanced' pneumatic tire—the heretofore unattainable goal of every tire manufacturer.

To be 100 per cent. efficient, a tire must be absolutely 'balanced'—that is, the rubber tread and the fabric carcass of the tire must give equal wear.

'Balance' the tire maker's goal

To have perfect 'balance' the rubber tread must have enough resiliency to absorb road shocks that tend to disintegrate the fabric, and still must have the toughness to give long wear.

Too much toughness reduces resiliency; too much resiliency sacrifices toughness.

Full rubber-tread efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of resiliency and toughness.

Full fabric-carcase efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of fabric layers and rubber—a union that will make tread-separation impossible.

Full, complete tire efficiency demands a 50-50 'balance' of the rubber tread and the fabric carcass—neither may be stronger nor weaker than the other.

This is the goal we have reached

By producing this complete 'balance' between resiliency and toughness in the tread, and between fabric and rubber in the carcass, we have secured 100 per cent. efficiency in United States Individualized Tires, or absolute 'balance'.

Since September, sales have increased steadily month by month up to the recent highest increase of 354 per cent.—this tells the story.
