

SAGEBRUSH MAY HAVE REAL VALUE

Claimed That the Weed Contains Large Percentage of Potash.

Idaho's sagebrush plains, the brush on which has heretofore been considered worthless except for fuel, may have a value unbelievable, for it has been discovered the brush contains soluble potash which may place the weed on a commercial basis. Experiments are being conducted across the boundary line in Nevada and Utah which may put an entirely different appearance on the humble sagebrush.

Ashes of sagebrush, according to chemical investigation, contain potash soluble in water. The quantity varies in different localities, but around southern Utah and Nevada, there is an average of 20 per cent. Furthermore, the so-called "rabbit brush" contains even a higher percentage of potash than the sagebrush.

Senator M. L. Lee of Pioche, Nev., has advertised in the vicinity of Pioche that he will buy, during the next three months, ashes of sagebrush in carload lots. The ashes will probably contain from 15 to 30 per cent of soluble potash. The Pioche banker has contracted to ship the ashes to the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company of Richmond, Va., where they will be purified so as to make pure potash. Arrangements have been made for a chemist in Pioche to analyze the ashes purchased, and payment will be made according to the following schedule:

Ash containing 31 per cent water soluble potash or more, $35 per ton; ash containing 25 per cent or more, $30 per ton; ash containing 20 to 25 per cent, $22.50 per ton; ash containing 15 to 20 per cent, $15 per ton.

Senator Lee has issued the following instructions concerning the preparation of the sagebrush ashes for shipment: It appears that the leaves and smaller branches contain more potash than the trunk, therefore care should be taken to preserve, so far as possible, the leaves and small branches. The brush must be well burned. If the ashes are taken from the fire too soon they contain much carbon or small particles of charcoal which contain potash not soluble.

Must Exercise Care. If the ashes or coals are permitted to remain in the fire or near the intense heat generated by sagebrush until they cool gradually, the coals and carbon will all go to ashes. However, in burning on a large scale it may be found advisable to screen the ashes and reburn the charcoal. The best results will be obtained by burning in the open, without much draft. Draft has a tendency to carry away the lighter particles containing potash. Remember that the potash is water soluble, and burning on the damp ground will lose much of the potash. My best information is that 20 tons will constitute a carload.

Analysis of the ash should be made at the beginning of the burning, in order to determine the average per cent of potash you may expect, and another consisting of a sample from each sack when the ash is ready for shipment. A certificate of the general average will then be attached.

A notary public commission was issued today by the secretary of state to Charles Redpath, of Eastport, Bonner county, appointed by Governor Alexander.

One signing himself as "Bill Miller" has written the public utilities commission asking if a spur of a railroad near Clarkia, Ida., is public or private. Miller says he is engaged in logging operations and will be for two years. He wants to use the spur but the Blackwell Lumber company, he alleges, will not permit him to.

A. R. Cruzen and C. E. Dawson, both of the Capital Water company testified before the public utilities commission today in defense of the company on the charge brought against it by Arthur Hodges, former mayor of Boise, that the rates it charges are too high. Mr. Cruzen gave detailed evidence showing the organization of the company and the purchase of the old Perrault ditch. The testimony of Mr. Dawson was on the manner in which the company's affairs have been handled and the work done on the system. A map was hung in the board room so that the commission could see just what portions of the city the system supplies with water. The company is represented at the hearing by J. L. Niday, the city of Boise by J. P. Pope and the commission by D. A. Dunning, assistant attorney general. Today was the date set for the hearing of the complaint of Arthur Hodges versus the Boise Artesian Hot & Cold Water company attacking its rate, but owing to the fact the hearing into the Capital Water company was not completed, it had to be postponed.

Dr. E. O. Sisson, commissioner of education who has been to Seattle and Tacoma, will spend the balance of the week in northern Idaho. Today he is at Sandpoint attending a meeting of the school trustees of Bonner county. He will return to Boise the latter part of the week.

Regarding the approval of Fremont county leases the following entry is found in the minutes of the state land board:

List of leases dated sixteenth inst., presented by the state land commissioner covering lands in the Fremont county, all of which were adjusted at the meeting held at Rexburg, March 4, after due notice of same had been given in three different papers of that vicinity" was approved by unanimous vote of the board and the register is hereby authorized and directed to issue leases to the persons named therein for the acreage given opposite each name as per applications duly filed.

Mrs. Malcolm Strauss and her husband's portrait of Mrs. Arthur Seligman.

The painting on the right appears to be the crux of the whole dissension between Mr. Malcolm Strauss, the artist, and his handsome wife, whose picture is shown on the left. Strauss painted a portrait of Mrs. Seligman, and immediately found himself sued for separation by his wife, who also started a suit for alienation of her husband's affections against the wealthy Mrs. Seligman, asking $100,000 damages. Strauss denies any indiscretion, and so does Mrs. Seligman.

The capitol dome was radiant in a flood of light last night and attracted not a little attention. The powerful shaft of light from a very recent invention used for the display of public buildings and large bill boards, came from the front of the Electric Investment company's building, corner of Bannock and Seventh streets. It is produced by powerful illuminating lights which pass through a strong magnifying glass cover. The shaft was played on the upper part of the capitol building throwing it into strong relief while the lower portion of the building was in shadow. As the dome can be seen for many miles around the country the playing of the light upon it produces a very conspicuous result, that is most satisfactory. It is known as "flood light." The new reflector and light constitutes a valuable invention of the General Electric company. The shaft of light passed beyond the building high into the air above it.

State officials and the many friends here of Major Reed, former state commissioner of immigration and labor, will be interested in the following taken from the Tribune-Pocatello: "I'm home again and am going to stay this time," said Major Fred R. ever. "I've had enough of expositions, have traveled 50,000 miles in the work of the San Diego fair, and am tired enough to come back and go to work." Major Reed for nearly two years has been connected with the big shows on the coast, first with the "Frisco" exposition, and later with the San Diego show, in the capacity of exposition commissioner. He states that he will resume the colonization work he abandoned at the commencement of the Haines administration, at which time he became immigration commissioner, and in all probability will make his headquarters in Pocatello. He has been very prominently identified with the Twin Falls tract and its development for many years. He left this afternoon for the Twin Falls tract to look after matters of business in this connection.

LECTURE ON THE OPERA IS GIVEN

Miss Judith Watts Gives Fascinating Talk on "Madama Butterfly."

The Columbian club hall was filled to overflowing last evening with an audience which voiced its enthusiasm time and again as it listened to the masterly lecture on "Madama Butterfly" interspersed with music, which Miss Judith Watts gave in a delightfully interesting manner. The little touches of satire, now and then, only served to intensify the interest of the fascinating address.

In spite of the fact that over a hundred people had to stand, the entertainment was so good everyone forgot they were not comfortably seated and listened with the keenest sense of appreciation to Miss Watts' lucid and entertaining treatise on grand opera, Puccini and his works, and on "Madama Butterfly," considered his best effort.

Importance of the Conductor. Miss Watts explained the great importance of the conductor, showing that on him depends the success of the performance. She mentioned that on each successive visit to the opera the orchestra gradually assumes the most prominent interest to all true musicians.

The speaker spoke of some of the incongruities of grand opera in which not one word is spoken; and dying situations in which as the expiring characters even with their last gasp, the singers have sufficient breath left for long and difficult phrases.

The lecturer pointed out the pathos of poor little Butterfly's fate and the utter carelessness of Pinkerton's attitude.

Puccini's Best Opera. "Madama Butterfly" is Puccini's best constructed opera, and has met with marvelous success in both Europe and America. Produced in Milan at the famous "La Scala" theater in 1904 hissed off the stage and withdrawn after one performance was its introduction to the world. It scored a brilliant success in Covent Garden, London, in 1905. It was later given by the Savoy Opera company in English in Washington, D. C., where it was very successful. Presented at the Metropolitan opera house in New York in 1907 where it was personally conducted by Puccini himself, and was given in Italian with Farrar, Caruso, Homer and Scotti it again won its laurels.

The splendid records lent by Mr. Sampson were a great help in presenting the beauty and emotion of the opera. Mr. Bollo's playing was a revelation to many who had not previously heard him.

Miss Watts called the attention of the audience to the courteous offers of Mr. Sampson who will be pleased to welcome anyone desiring to hear the Madama Butterfly records which will be given at his music house during the week, and Mr. Tompkins, who will play the same airs by special request at Morrison's Cafeteria during the luncheon and dinner hours.

That Boise is a music loving city and appreciative of any good effort made in its advancement was ably and forcefully illustrated by the enthusiasm and appreciation attending last night's lecture. Miss Watts has been receiving congratulations ever since upon the evening's glowing success.

Another mildly humorous feature of the situation is the New York editors sitting around in dazed horror because Hon. Joseph Daniels does not resign, although they explicitly requested him to.

ITCHY RINGWORM DISFIGURED FACE

Kept Getting Larger, Skin Red, Inflamed and Irritated, Started to Smart. In Two Weeks

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"My trouble was ringworm and the way it started was by having a few pimples on my chin. At first I didn't pay very much attention but it kept on getting larger and I didn't know what to do. The skin was red and inflamed and my face was disfigured for the time being. The breaking out was itchy and it started to smart and my face was irritated.

"I came to my mind that Cuticura Soap and Ointment might be a benefit so I tried them. First I put the Ointment on and then bathed my face with Cuticura Soap. I kept it up for two weeks or less and I was healed." (Signed) William Beechy, Richland, Wash., July 24, 1913.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold. Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for 50 cents a large bottle, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge of soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease. adv.
